BOWDOIN S. PARKER,

Collector of Taxes for the City of Boston.

ONLY DRY GARBAGE, WRAPPED IN PAPER COLLECTED IN MINNEAPOLIS.

DR. P. M. HALL, COMMISSIONER OF HEALTH, MINNEAPOLIS.

Garbage collection and garbage disposal have been treated of in a general way so many times that it would seem that the last word had been said. Instead of handling this great subject in a general way now, probably more can be learned by taking up some phase of the subject in detail. I will, therefore, confine this paper to the discussion of the "garbage receptacle" alone.

As a text for this discussion let us quote the description of the "garbage receptacle" as found in a well-known book on sanitation:

"The garbage receptacle, especially when separation of true garbage is made, is usually one of the commonest forms of nuisance to be found. Every garbage can, unless it is emptied daily and thoroughly washed after emptying (which is practically never done) is in hot weather sure to be offensive. The annoyance from it can probably never be entirely done away with, and it is only with great care and at some expense that it can be reduced to a minimum."

When we consider that practically all municipalities collect and dispose of garbage separately from other forms of refuse we have exactly the condition as defined—a separation of true garbage. As a basis for this paper letters of inquiry were sent to all cities of 100,000 population and over in the United States and Canada. Replies were received from practically all of them. In the majority of cities it is specified by ordinance or rule that the garbage receptacles shall be water-tight; shall be covered; shall have handles on the side of the can or on the cover; the size is designated from two gallons to two bushels; the materials from which the receptacle is to be made are specified; that it shall be kept in a place remote from dwellings or placed on walks when the hours of collection are known; that the collector shall neither go upstairs nor down cellar for it, but that the can must be placed on the ground floor, etc.

A very little analysis will show that the sanitary condition of the garbage can has been the principal factor in determining the cost of the collection of garbage. It may be set down as an axiom in the collection of garbage that the cost of collection increases with the frequency of service. The ability of a man and team to collect is not the amount he collects, but the number of stops, the distance of travel and the number of cans he is obliged to handle, so that a daily collection would necessarily cost more than a collection every other day, and a collection twice a week more than a weekly collection.

The demand for frequent collection has arisen from and because of the sanitary condition of the garbage receptacles. Furthermore, undoubtedly, the sanitary condition of the garbage receptacle has had everything to do with making the mere mention of the word "garbage" an offence. Immediately comes to our minds that same noisome garbage can.

Garbage is almost universally described in the rules or ordinances of cities as the animal and vegetable waste from the kitchen, or as resulting from or growing out of the preparation of food. Garbage is subject to rapid decay, and this decay is hastened by three things—heat, moisture and flies, and yet what we call garbage is but an hour removed from our tables—has been served to us as food.

The first step in the disposal of garbage is carrying it from the house and placing it in the can, and the question naturally arises, why should not this step be a sanitary one and be made in the direction of educating the householder? Under existing conditions in almost every city the can is as great, if not a greater, nuisance than the garbage itself. In the primitive days the Indian, when the offence from the waste products of his housekeeping became too noisome, moved away, but in our day and generation we remove the garbage and keep the smell. Take the first step—the placing of the garbage, the waste food or droppings from our tables, into any kind of receptacles—wood, galvanized iron or what-not, and with the presence of heat, moisture and flies you will very soon have a foul, maggoty, fly-breeding mess of putrefaction. Such a mess is necessarily a nuisance, requires frequent removal and is a nuisance every time it is handled from the can to final disposal. Is it necessary that this condition of things should be? Is there no way to eliminate these breeders of putrefaction—heat, moisture and the fly? Is it not a little bit inconsistent that we legislate and talk about fly infection when we are perpetuating the fly nuisance in the garbage can by furnishing a most prolific breeding place? It has been said that the annoyance of the can probably never will be done away with. It seems that this condition of things has been accepted everywhere and that nobody has tried. We find, however, exceptions in two cities—one in the United States and the other in Canada, where at least an effort has been made to keep the garbage can from being a constant nuisance, and that is what I have come to tell you about—how these two cities have been trying, and I will say with a great measure of success, to make the garbage can no longer a nuisance.

Drain garbage of all moisture, then wrap it in paper before putting it in the can, and it will neither smell badly in hot weather nor freeze and stick to the can in cold weather. Do this and have a clean can at all times.

Heat, moisture and the fly are all eliminated. This rule was put into practice in Minneapolis in February, 1907, and is still in force. The campaign of education was a hard one, but we have won. As one of the garbage collectors said to me within the week, "The garbage cans in my district are clean enough to keep pies in."

It all rests with the collector. He has but to report to the department that the garbage is not properly drained and wrapped in paper, and no further service is rendered until the rule is complied with. If the householder then fails properly to care for his garbage or to have it cleaned up he is brought into court and fined.

The operation of this rule has its economic as well as its sanitary side. The life of the can is very much prolonged. The garbage will roll out of the can in cold weather as well as in the summer; if it does not and the garbage is frozen, the can is not emptied, for the householder has failed to drain off the moisture. The collector is forbidden to carry or use a pick or crow bar to dig out frozen garbage, so the can is not battered up. Garbage kept in this way is not a nuisance; does not invite flies; does not need to be collected more than once a week even in warm weather, thus making a great saving in the cost of collection. It follows naturally that garbage which is not foul in the can will not be so in the wagon or cart. The garbage can should be kept water-tight, and when not so should be discarded and a new one provided. A great deal of trouble has arisen from the tipping over of the cans by dogs. A recent invention in the shape of a small appliance on the cover makes the cover self-locking, and the dog nuisance is a thing of the past.

The size of the can depends so much on the frequency of collection that it need hardly be discussed here. We have found that a 20-gallon can will take care of the garbage of an average sized family for a week and is easily handled by the collector. It is not necessary, even in a cold climate, to have different receptacles in the winter time, for if the rule regarding drainage of moisture and wrapping with paper is followed a metal can is just as easily emptied and kept clean in the winter months as a wooden one.

The question of location of the can is determined largely by the method of collection. In general terms it may be said that cans should be placed where they are most accessible to the driver.

The results of over three years of experience with this method of handling garbage in our city have been entirely satisfactory. At first it was laughed at as a fad of the department. We were asked when we would also require that the packages be tied with baby ribbon, but we persisted and now the public is in accord with us, for they have seen actual results in the shape of clean, sanitary cans which are no longer a nuisance. Is it not a pertinent question that in the collection and disposal of garbage the first step should be a system of collection that gives to the citizen a garbage can which is not a nuisance?—Municipal Journal and Engineer.

MUNICIPAL LOAN ESTABLISHMENTS.

A bill has been introduced into the Ohio Legislature authorizing cities to establish municipal pawn shops. Several of these are in existence in eastern cities, and they are common enough all over Europe, where loaning of money to people in bad circumstances is universally recognized as a legitimate public function.—Pacific Outlook.

CLEANING AND WATERING STREETS IN THE GREAT TOWNS OF ENGLAND, SCOTLAND AND IRELAND.*

Under the above title the author reviews the historical efforts to improve the sanitary conditions of the cities of Great Britain, from the time when, in the fourteenth century, the "black plague" swept away more than half the population of England, down through the various visitations of cholera and other epidemics, to the present. He also gives the results of various laws which have been enacted, some of which were so stringent as to defeat their own purposes through lack of enforcement, and others so loosely drawn as to be inoperative; all, however, working in the direction of final good. He then proceeds as follows:

We will now examine the methods that have been adopted in some of the great towns of England, Scotland and Ireland to keep their streets clean, bearing in mind this principle of laissez passer.

The city of London is a too highly specialized unit for its ways to be used in comparison with those of provincial towns, but five of the boroughs in the metropolitan district,—Holborn, Islington, Westminster, West Ham and St. Pancras,—have been selected as fairly typical of work in central and in suburban boroughs, one connected with the most ancient traditions of the kingdom and one the outgrowth of modern industrial enterprise.

The English towns outside the metropolis, selected as representatives of the ordinary methods of street cleansing, have been Birkenhead, Birmingham, Bradford, Bristol, Cardiff, Huddersfield, Leeds, Leicester, Liverpool, Manchester, Newcastle-on-Tyne and Sheffield. In Scotland, Edinburgh and Glasgow, and in Ireland, Belfast, are representatives.

The populations of these cities and boroughs vary from 55,215 in Holborn to 760,357 in Liverpool; some are seaports, others far inland, so that the types are different, producing various methods of procedure. Their importance may, however, be seen from the fact that the average population of the twenty towns is 360,000 and their total ratable value amounts to £48,000,000, or an average of £2,400,000 each.

The materials employed in the formation of the surface of the streets must to a great extent influence the nature and amount of street cleansing. The number of towns where a large proportion of the streets are paved with granite or other stone setts is greater in the north than in the south. This may probably be accounted for by the extensive deposits of granite in Scotland, North Wales and Leicestershire, rendering the material easily obtainable.

The more modern luxuries of wood paving and asphalt have not been adopted to any great extent, the practice being very dissimilar and the north still displaying its conservatism over the south. Thus while Glasgow has been content to lay one mile of wood paving, possibly as a sample, and did not like it, Birmingham has laid fifteen miles and Bristol has laid fifteen and one-half miles; and if these local authorities could yield to all the demands made upon them, would lay as many more.

The asphalt paved road, probably the most easily cleansed and the most sanitary, does not find much favor outside the metropolitan district, probably on account of its unsuitability for any road not having a flat gradient. Nearly half the street mileage of Holborn is laid with asphalt and a considerable length in Westminster. When the weather is either very wet or very dry, asphalt is at its best, but there are times when the atmospheric conditions are such that horses seem to lose all control over their legs. In the case of this material, more perhaps than in any other, scrupulous cleanliness is necessary, and with its impervious smooth surface this is easily effected with an abundance of water and the squeegee, always provided that the newly washed surface does not freeze; if so, there is trouble.

Sixteen of the twenty great towns now under consideration have been able to make definite returns of the mileage of the streets paved with various materials. It has been found that the total length of streets in these sixteen towns is about 3,200 miles. Of these, 32 per cent are paved with stone setts; 3 per cent with wood paving, 5 per cent with various materials, including asphalt, and 60 per cent are still maintained as macadam. Evidently, therefore, the question of cleansing macadam roads is of very great importance.

Of the twenty towns, horse-drawn rotary brushes are used on the streets of fourteen of the number to cleanse the macadam roads; the engineers of the other six being of the opinion that the mechanical sweeper tends to damage the surface. It is thus seen that the majority are in favor of the rotary brush, but it requires to be applied with very great discretion.

It is scarcely necessary to record that in all the great towns the principal streets are cleansed at least once in the twenty-four hours, and still more frequently when necessary; this being independent of the continuous cleansing that will be noticed further on. The amount of traffic and the conditions of the weather must decide what has to be done. The second-class streets are usually swept three times a week. With regard to suburban roads and third-class streets, the practice varies from a daily cleansing in some towns to once a week only in others. Whether the street cleansing is carried out better during the day or night is a point on which the towns are not unanimous; there is much to be said on both sides. During the night there is less interference with the traffic by the machines, and the latter having a fair way can act more expeditiously. During the day it is possible to exercise more complete supervision. In eight towns the streets are swept during the night; in seven others by day, and in the five others on the list both day and night. It is evident, therefore, that opinions on the question are nearly equally divided, and local circumstances probably determine which shall be continued.

After the streets have been swept by night or by day, with or without mechanical appliances, it is the practice in the majority of the great towns to employ a number of street orderlies, men or boys, to go continuously through the principal thoroughfares and pick up litter and horse droppings, or as one city engineer expresses it, "tidying up all day." In the opinion of the author this process is so important, not only from the point of neatness, but of health, that he was surprised to find one exception. These collections are small in quantity, and are usually placed in hand carts for conveyance to some known point from which they can be removed by a cart. A very ordinary receptacle is a bin either above ground or sunk below the level of the pavement. Where there is a depot within reasonable distance the contents of the hand carts can be taken there direct. This cleaning by street orderlies is much increased in winter and wet weather, when the slop cart has to take the place of the hand cart for street cleansing; for the best method to be then adopted is more dependent on the changes of the weather than the work of any other department of the municipality.

In each of the twenty great towns under consideration the labor for cleansing the streets is employed directly by the corporation. In two of the metropolitan boroughs the carting away and disposing of the sweepings is in the hands of contractors, but in every other case the removal is effected by the administration. Of course, the contractors provide their own tips and get rid of the material to their own advantage.

The provision of suitable places of deposit in the neighborhood of crowded cities is an increasingly difficult one year by year. The practice is generally to tip slop into tanks from which the water is allowed to drain; sometimes the residuum is taken away for use on land. The sweepings from paved streets have a higher manurial value, and at certain times of the year maintain a ready sale.

Some towns have local acts of parliament which enable the police to call upon the householders to clear the snow from off footways in front of their premises, and this is the practice in about one-half of the towns noted. But even in those towns there are many miles of footways outside unoccupied premises, public buildings, places of worship and blank walls, bridges and viaducts where the paths would never be cleared at all if the municipality did not do it. The authorities of the other ten towns undertake the whole duty. By whomsoever the snow is cleared from the path it finds its way to the road, and then has to be removed at the public expense.

The practice of using salt for the purpose of enabling the snow to be cleaned easily and expeditiously is resorted to in many towns, but there the authorities make a sort of apologetic excuse for so doing by stating that the practice is only resorted to in "special cases" or, "only on the tramway track" or, but "very little used." There is no doubt that the use of salt is objected to by a large section of the public on account of the intense cold produced, resulting in injuries to both man and beast, for which compensation has been awarded against the local authorities in some cases. Some superintendents are of the opinion that it is not possible to cope with a heavy fall without a liberal use of salt; but other equally important towns have found a way out of the difficulty without the employment of a freezing mixture.

It is almost impossible to formulate a scale of the costs of snow removal, the length of the haulage being so different in various places. A fall varying from four inches to six inches in depth (undrifted) in January, 1909, cost Liverpool $20,000, although large quantities of salt were used and the slush was washed down the sewers.—Good Roads.

PLAYGROUNDS IN NEW YORK.

The Parks and Playgrounds Association of New York city had charge last year of thirty-six play centers, four of which were located on roofs. The total attendance was over 150,000.—Pacific Outlook.

NEW YORK MILK REGULATIONS.

The Board of Health of New York City has adopted new regulations concerning the sale of milk in the city to take effect January 1, 1912. The resolutions setting forth the rules adopted were as follows:

Resolved, That after December 31, 1911, all milk and cream offered for sale in the city of New York, except that to be used only for manufacturing or cooking purposes, must be of the grades technically designated and recognized by the Board of Health as certified milk or guaranteed milk, or it must be pasteurized under conditions as prescribed by the regulations of said Board.

Resolved, That it is the sense of this Board that milk sold in this city be graded as follows:

Grade A. For infants and children (To be sold in bottles only) includes:

- (1.) Certified milk.
- (2.) Guaranteed milk.
- (3.) Milk pasteurized under special regulations.

Grade B. Milk safe for adults (to be sold in bottles or drawn from proper containers; not dipped) includes:

- (1.) Grade A.
- (2.) Pasteurized milk produced under regulations of this department.

Grade C. Milk suitable for cooking and baking purposes (to be sold in bottles or from cans) includes:

All milk complying with the general regulations of the department, but not complying with requirements for Grades A and B.

That no one should use any milk inferior to that of Grade A for feeding infant or child.

That every person purchasing milk for drinking purposes is entitled to receive milk not inferior to Grade B.

That the efforts of the Department of Health in the supervision of milk will be specially concentrated on Grades A and B.

The meaning and significance of this, of course, depends upon the definition of "certified," "guaranteed," "pasteurized under regulations" and "pasteurized under special regulations." These definitions are as follows:

Certified milk is milk certified by the Milk Commission appointed by the Medical Society of the county of New York or the Medical Society of the County of Kings as being produced under the supervision and in conformity with the regulations of that commission as laid down for certified milk. No milk, however, shall be held, kept, offered for sale or sold and delivered as certified milk in the city of New York which is produced under regulations less than those of the said Board for guaranteed milk.

Guaranteed milk is milk produced by farms holding a permit therefor from the Board of Health and produced and handled in accordance with the rules and regulations of said Board.

The minimum requirements of the Board of Health for guaranteed milk are as follows:

1. That only such cows be admitted to the herd as have not reacted to a diagnostic injection of tuberculin.

2. That all cows be tested annually with tuberculin, and all reacting animals be excluded from the herd.

3. That the milk shall not contain more than 30,000 germs per cubic centimeter when delivered to the consumer.

4. That the milk be delivered to the consumer only in sealed bottles which shall have been filled at the dairy, and shall bear a label giving the name of the dairy, and the date of the earliest milking at which the milk forming part of the contents was drawn.

5. That such milk be delivered to the consumer within thirty-six hours.

The milk pasteurized under special regulations, known as Grade A pasteurized milk, is that which, in a raw state, is "selected" or "inspected," containing not more than 100,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter, and has been pasteurized by being heated to at least 140 degrees Fahrenheit for at least twenty minutes and which, when offered for sale, does not contain more than 10,000 per cubic centimeter. Grade B pasteurized milk is that produced on farms where the rules and regulations have been complied with, the bacterial content of which before pasteurization is not excessive and which, after pasteurization and before sale, does not contain more than 50,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter.

The general regulations of the department concerning pasteurization provide that the milk, after pasteurization, must be at once cooled and placed in sterilized containers and the containers sealed. Also that all pasteurized milk must be delivered to the consumer within twenty-four hours of the pasteurization and must be delivered in sealed containers which are plainly labeled "pasteurized." The labels must also bear the date and hour when the pasteurization of the milk was completed, the degree of the heat employed, the length of time exposed to the heat, and the number of pasteurization permit issued by the Board of Health. It is not permitted to pasteurize milk a second time. In pasteurizing, the milk must be subjected to one of the following conditions of temperature and exposure: 158 degrees Fahrenheit for three minutes, 155 degrees for five minutes, 152 degrees for ten minutes, 148 degrees for fifteen minutes, 145 degrees for eighteen minutes, or 140 degrees for twenty minutes. The apparatus used in pasteurizing must be automatic, equipped with automatic temperature and time regulating and recording devices. —Municipal Journal and Engineer.

HISTORIC SLUM TO GO.

This Congress will be asked for an appropriation of $125,000 to purchase several blocks of land surrounding Willow Tree alley, which is an ancient slum of Washington, full of fire traps and rotten tumble-down structures, chiefly occupied by colored people. The land will then be transformed into a children's playground for the improvement of the surrounding district. In due course of time society will get around to the point of asking who are the people that own tracts of this sort and what is their responsibility in such matters.

San Antonio, Texas, which has a population estimated at 125,000 in 1910, an area of 36 square miles, and an assessed valuation of $70,000,000, has laid 150 miles of concrete sidewalk within the past three years.—Good Roads.

CITY COUNCIL RULES.

Coun. BALLANTYNE, for the Committee on Rules, submitted the following:

The special committee appointed to prepare rules for the government of the City Council for the current year report herewith the accompanying draft.

President.

Rule 1. The president of the council shall take the chair at the hour to which the council shall have adjourned and shall call the members to order, and, a quorum being present shall cause the minutes of the preceding regular meeting to be read. In the absence of the president the senior member by age present shall preside until a presiding officer is chosen.

Rule 2. The president shall preserve decorum and order, may speak to points of order in preference to other members, and shall decide all questions of order, subject to an appeal. Any member may appeal from the decision of the chair, and, when properly seconded, no other business, except a motion to adjourn, shall be in order until the question on appeal has been decided. The question shall be put as follows:

"Shall the decision of the chair stand as the judgment of the council?" The vote shall be by a roll call, and it shall be decided in the affirmative unless a majority of the votes are to the contrary.

Rule 3. The president shall propound all motions in the order in which they are moved, unless the subsequent motion shall be previous in its nature, except that, in naming sums and fixing times, the largest sum and the longest time shall be put first.

Rule 4. The president shall, at the request of any member, make a division of a question when the sense will admit.

Rule 5. The president shall, without debate, decide all questions relating to priority of business to be acted upon.

Rule 6. The president shall declare all votes; but if any member doubts a vote, the president shall cause a rising vote to be taken, and, when any member so requests, shall cause the vote to be taken or verified by yeas and nays.

Rule 7. The president shall appoint all committees, fill all vacancies therein, and designate the rank of the members thereof.

Rule 8. When the president of the council or the president pro tempore shall desire to vacate the chair he may call any member to it; but such substitution shall not continue beyond an adjournment.

Motions.

Rule 9. Every motion shall be reduced to writing if the president shall so direct.

Rule 10. A motion to strike out and insert shall be deemed indivisible; but a motion to strike out being lost shall not preclude amendment, or a motion to strike out and insert.

Rule 11. No motion or proposition of a subject different from that under consideration shall be admitted under color of amendment.

Rule 12. When an order or resolution relates to a subject which may properly be examined and reported upon by an existing committee of the city council, such order or resolution shall, upon presentation, be referred to such committee. When a motion is made to refer any subject, and different committees are proposed, the motion shall be put in the following order:

1. To a standing committee of the council.

2. To a special committee of the council.

Rule 13. After a motion has been put by the president it shall not be withdrawn except by unanimous consent.

Rule 14. When a question is under debate the following motions only shall be entertained, and in the order in which they stand arranged:

1. To adjourn.

2. To lay on the table.

3. To postpone to a day certain.

4. To commit.

5. To amend.

6. To postpone indefinitely.

Rule 15. A motion to adjourn shall be in order at any time, except on an immediate repetition, or pending a verification of a vote; and that motion, the motion to lay on the table, and the motion to take from the table, shall be decided without debate.

Readings.

Rule 16. Every ordinance, order and resolution shall, unless rejected, have two several readings, both of which may take place at the same session, unless objection is made, provided, however, that all orders for the expenditure of money presented to, or reported upon by a committee of, the council, shall lie over for one week before final action thereon.

Whenever the second reading immediately follows the first reading the document may be read by its title only; provided, that all orders for the sale of land other than school lands, all appropriations for the purchase of land other than for school purposes, and all loans voted by the city council shall require a vote of two-thirds of all the members of the city council, and shall be passed only after two separate readings and by two separate votes, the second of said readings and votes to be had not less than fourteen days after the first. Any member offering an order which is referred to a committee shall be given an opportunity of being heard on the same before a report is made thereon.

Reconsideration.

Rule 17. When a vote has been passed any member may move a reconsideration thereof at the same meeting, or he may give notice to the clerk, within twenty-four hours of the adjournment, of his intention to move a reconsideration at the next regular meeting; in which case the clerk shall retain possession of the papers until the next regular meeting; and when a motion for reconsideration is decided that vote shall not be reconsidered.

Conduct of Members.

Rule 18. Every member when about to speak shall rise, address the chair, and wait until he is recognized, and in speaking shall confine himself to the question and avoid personalities. Any member who, in debate or otherwise, indulges in personalities or makes charges reflecting upon the character of another member shall make an apology in open session at the meeting when the offence is committed or at the next succeeding regular meeting, and, failing to do so, shall be named by the president or held in contempt and suspended from further participation in debate until said apology is made.

Rule 19. No member speaking shall, without his consent, be interrupted by another, except upon a point of order.

Rule 20. No member shall be permitted to vote on any question, or serve on any committee, where his private right is immediately concerned, distinct from the public interest.

Rule 21. Every member who shall be present when a question is put, where he is not excluded by interest, shall give his vote, unless the council for special reason shall excuse him. Application to be so excused on any question must be made before the council is divided, or before the calling of the yeas and nays; and such application shall be accompanied by a brief statement of the reasons, and shall be decided without debate.

Standing Committees.

Rule 22. The following standing committees of the council, to consist of three members each, except where otherwise herein provided, and all other committees, unless otherwise provided for, or specially directed by the council, shall be appointed by the chair:

1. A committee, to be known as the Executive Committee of the City Council, to consist of all the members of the council.

2. A committee on Inspection of Prisons, to consist of all the members of the council.

3. A committee on Appropriations, to consist of all the members of the council, to whom shall be referred such appropriation orders as may be submitted to the council from time to time.

4. A committee on Finance, to consist of all the members of the council, to whom shall be referred all applications for expenditure which involves a loan, or a transfer of any part of an appropriation named in the general appropriation order.

5. A committee on Ordinances, to consist of all the members of the council, to whom shall be referred all ordinances introduced in the council, or transmitted to them by vote of any standing committee. Unless specially instructed, they shall pass upon the question of the form and legality of the ordinances so referred; they may append an order that such ordinance "ought not to pass" and give their reasons therefor, or report such ordinance in a new draft.

6. A committee on Claims, to consist of five councilors, to whom shall be referred all claims against the city arising from the act or neglect of any of its departments. They shall report annually a list of the claims awarded or approved by them, and the amount of money awarded or paid in settlement thereof.

7. A committee on Legislative Matters, to consist of five councilors, who shall, unless otherwise ordered, appear before the committees of the General Court and represent the interests of the city; provided, said committee shall not appear unless authorized by vote of the city council, and shall not, unless directed so to do by the city council, oppose any legislation petitioned for by the preceding city council.

8. A committee on Printing, to consist of three councilors, who shall have the charge of all printing, advertising or publishing ordered by the city council, as one of its contingent or incidental expenses, and the supply of all stationery or binding for the same purpose. The committee shall fix the number of copies to be printed of any document printed as above, the minimum, however, to be six hundred; and they shall have the right to make rules and regulations for the care, custody and distribution of all documents, books, pamphlets and maps by the city messenger.

9. A committee on Public Lands, to consist of three councilors, to whom shall be referred all matters relating to public lands.

10. A committee on County Accounts, to consist of three councilors.

11. A committee on Soldiers' Relief, to consist of three councilors.

Order of Business.

Rule 23. At every regular meeting of the council the order of business shall be as follows:

1. Communications from his honor the mayor.

2. Presentations of petitions, memorials and remonstrances.

3. Unfinished business of preceding meetings.

4. Reports of city officers.

5. Reports of committees.

6. Motions, orders and resolutions.

Report of Committees.

Rule 24. Committees, to which any matter is especially referred, shall report within three weeks or ask for further time.

Spectators.

Rule 25. No person, except a member of the council, shall be permitted to occupy the seat of any member while the council is in session.

Rule 26. No person, excepting heads of departments, officials connected with the city council and reporters, shall be allowed in the anteroom or upon the floor of the council chamber while the council is in session. Spectators will be allowed in the gallery of the council chamber when the council is in session, and no one will be admitted to said gallery after the seats are occupied. The City Messenger shall enforce this rule.

Burial Grounds.

Rule 27. No permission for the use of land for the purpose of burial shall be granted until a public hearing shall have been given by the city council after due notice has been served upon abutters, on the application for such permission.

CITY BUILDING EXHIBITION.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 17, 1911.
To the City Council:

A Greater Boston Real Estate and Ideal Homes Exposition will be held in Horticultural Hall from April 3 to 15, inclusive, under the patronage of the Real Estate Exchange and Auction Board. The purpose of this exposition is to illustrate and stimulate real estate development throughout the city and the metropolitan district. It has been suggested that the municipality ought to be represented by views of public buildings or civic centers, which certainly contribute largely to the development of the city as a whole. In my judgment such an exhibition, on a modest scale, would be extremely desirable and I recommend the passage of the accompanying order, appropriating the sum of two hundred and fifty dollars ($250), to be expended under the direction of the Mayor for a display of views of the proposed City Hall Annex and other public buildings at this exposition.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Ordered, That the sum of two hundred and fifty dollars ($250) be, and hereby is, appropriated to be expended under the direction of the Mayor for an exhibit of views of public buildings at the Greater Boston Real Estate and Ideal Homes Exposition.

The order was passed, yeas 7, nays 0.

$70,000,000 LONDON DOCKS.

To make London the greatest port of the world in reality as well as in name, the port authorities will expend more than $70,000,000. Experts have been studying the subject for a year and a half. The scheme includes the dredging of the river channel from Tilbury to London bridge, the part used by large vessels being widened to 1,000 feet and deepened to 30 feet. Half a million pounds already has been expended in a dredging plant. Other striking features of the scheme are the construction of three new docks at Tilbury of 65, 126 and 138 acres, respectively, to accommodate the largest vessels afloat or projected, which will be "capable of dealing with any possible growth in the size of vessels for very many years to come."

REPORT ON CONTINUATION SCHOOLS AND APPRENTICE PLAN.

The following report made by the Director of Evening and Continuation Schools, under date of Dec. 23, 1910, with reference to Continuation Schools was presented:—

The trades furnish dignified and profitable vocations for a considerable part of our population, which dignity and profit increase with the education and the general ability of the individual.

Skilled workmen who know all branches of a given trade are in great demand, but our youths have little or no opportunity under the present educational and industrial system to acquire adequate proficiency to meet this demand.

The majority of boys who wish to enter the trades are those who are obliged to contribute to the support of the home. Therefore, the school alone cannot meet the situation because the boy must be a wage earner. Neither can the shop alone meet the situation because it has no satisfactory way of furnishing the proper instruction. Only by cooperation between the school and the shop can the concurrent instruction and practice that will make efficient workmen be provided. Such a plan will be profitable to the boy, productive to the employer and useful to society.

The time is at hand when this can and should be done. I, therefore, recommend for your consideration a plan which in outline is as follows:—

1. That the School Committee of Boston enter into a five year agreement with employers to establish, support and conduct a Continuation School for indentured apprentices in any recognized trade, to consist of one or two classes of not more than twenty-five pupils each; provided, however,

a. That the aggregate number of apprentices which said employers in any one trade indenture shall reach twenty at least.

b. That the form of indenture between employer and apprentice shall comply with the articles of the agreement between said employer and said School Committee.

c. That the State Board of Education approve, under the authority vested in it by the laws of the Commonwealth, said Continuation School as an independent industrial school and that the Boston School Committee be the legally constituted authority for the maintenance of said approved school.

2. That the School Committee of Boston require its representative in charge of vocational guidance to receive and to keep on file for the inspection of employers, applications of prospective apprentices to recognized trades.

Both laborers and employers of labor will welcome such a plan because it provides for well regulated, effective and complete training in all branches of a trade without the possibility of turning upon the labor market numbers of partially trained specialty workmen.

I enclose for your consideration form of agreement, subject to such revision as may be necessary to insure its legality.

2. The School Committee is to require its representatives in charge of vocational guidance to receive and to keep on file for the inspection of employers application of prospective apprentices to recognized trades.

3. The School Committee is to open courses for newly indentured apprentices in September of each year, and likewise in February of each year if there is sufficient demand therefor.

4. The School Committee is to provide equipment adequate for effective instruction, to provide instructors of practical experience in the trades, and to join with the employer in granting a suitable diploma at the completion of the apprenticeship period.

5. The School Committee is to allow no apprentice to attend the school who is under suspension by his employer.

6. The group of employers in a given trade entering into a plan of part-time instruction through an agreement with the School Committee are to indenture not less than twenty apprentices and to provide, under the agreement with the School Committee, for their instruction in the theory and practice of the trade in which the apprentices are employed.

7. Any given employer is to indenture a certain number of beginning apprentices each year during the lifetime of the agreement made between him and the Boston School Committee. The discharge of any apprentice during the first year of indenture is to create a vacancy which the employer must endeavor to fill at an early date. The indenture of a new apprentice to fill such vacancy shall not count as an additional apprentice.

8. The employer is to require each apprentice, indentured under the terms of this MEMORANDUM OF CONDITIONS OF APPRENTICESHIP, to attend the Continuation School provided by the School Committee, regularly eight hours each week during such time and on such days as the School Committee shall determine.

9. The employer is to supply each apprentice with such opportunities for work of various kinds as shall afford said apprentice the largest possible facility for becoming a competent workman in the trade to which he is indentured.

10. The employer is to furnish employment continuously for each such apprenticeship allowing a two weeks' vacation without loss of pay during each calendar year. It is understood that the employer reserves the right to shorten the hours of labor of such apprentices to the same extent that he shortens those of other workmen at that particular time, whenever the state of business demands it; and to suspend apprentices from employment whenever the services of all the other workmen are discontinued.

11. Credit for a year's apprenticeship must require at least sixteen hundred hours of work at the trade besides at least two hundred and fifty hours work in the Continuation School.

12. The employer is to require not more than ten hours work in any one day nor more than fifty-five hours work in any one week, including those spent at the Continuation School, and to maintain proper sanitary conditions and adequate provisions for the safety of the apprentice.

13. The employer is to allow a duly designated representative of the School Committee to enter his establishment at any time for the purpose of inspecting the conditions under which the apprentice works.

14. The employer is not to employ any apprentice who has been suspended or expelled from the Continuation School.

15. The employer is not to dismiss any apprentice employed under this MEMORANDUM OF CONDITIONS without the approval of the School Committee or the person or persons designated to represent them in the matter; but for misconduct, idleness, or infraction of the rules of the establishment, the employer may suspend an apprentice until such time as his case may come before the School Committee or the person or persons designated to represent them in the matter.

16. The employer may discharge an apprentice on the February 1st or September 1st which falls nearer to the end of the first six months of the apprentice's employment provided the employer has given at least thirty days' notice thereof both to the School Committee and to the apprentice.

17. The employer is to pay each apprentice indentured under this MEMORANDUM OF CONDITIONS for each hour of service, including the time spent in the Continuation School, the following wages: For the first year, ten cents; for the second year, twelve cents; for the third year, fourteen cents; for the fourth year, eighteen cents.

18. The employer is to take fifty cents per week from the wages of each apprentice and hold the same in trust for said apprentice, together with a like amount contributed by the employer. One-half of the combined sums is to be paid to the apprentice at the end of each full year of apprenticeship, and the other half is to be paid to the apprentice upon the completion of the apprenticeship period hereinafter stated; but if for any reason whatsoever (protracted illness, after which the apprentice returns to his employer, excepted), the apprentice leaves his employer before the completion of the apprenticeship year, or the apprenticeship period, the sum or sums, not already paid, to the apprentice shall be forfeited and become the property of the employer, to all of which the apprentice and his parent or guardian agrees.

19. The apprentice is to remain with his employer for the full term of four years of apprenticeship (except as provided under paragraphs 16 and 20); he is to work diligently and study earnestly; he is to be punctual, cheerfully obedient, honest, neat in appearance, and polite; and he is to conform to all the provisions of this MEMORANDUM OF CONDITIONS OF APPRENTICESHIP.

20. The apprentice may withdraw from his apprenticeship on the February

1st or September 1st which falls nearer to the end of the first six months of his employment, provided he has given at least thirty days' notice both to the School Committee and to his employer.

21. Both the employer and the apprentice shall refer all questions pertaining to the discontinuance of the apprenticeship agreement and to credit for time lost by the apprentice, to the School Committee or the person or persons designated to represent them in the matter, for their decision, and to abide thereby.

PARK BOARDS HAVE RIGHT TO TAX FOR PARK IMPROVEMENTS.

Judge Remster, of the Circuit Court, of Indianapolis, has handed down a decision as to the constitutionality of the law giving the park board and the council the right to divide the city into park districts and levy assessments on real estate valuations to cover the cost of park improvements. The constitutionality of the law was upheld as far as it is affected by the questions raised in the case tried. The Judge said that if there had been any inequalities in the assessments, they were not caused by the law but by the administration of it.

BERLIN WASTE UTILIZATION PLANT.

Berlin has a plant for the destruction of wastes which has now been working for two years in a manner satisfactory from both a hygienic and a technical standpoint, according to the Gesundheits Ingenieur for January 21, from an article in which, descriptive of the plant, we have prepared the following:

This plant lies several miles outside the city limits and is reached by a special side track from the main railway line. The site covered by the plant is divided into two parts, in one of which the wastes are received and in the other they are put through a utilization process. This division makes it possible to secure a perfect separation of the impure wastes and the products of reduction, which is considered to be desirable in order to prevent any epidemic or disease from being spread by products which have been brought in contact with infected wastes.

On the receiving side there are large tanks for storing the wastes, a disinfecting plant and a water purifying and sterilizing equipment. The other side contains a mechanical plant for the destruction of refuse as well as the storage tanks for the finished products. On each side there are facilities for shower and tub baths, a disinfecting plant for the workmen's clothing and recreation rooms.

Special railroad cars and, in the case of nearby communities, motor trucks of special design bring the wastes to the plant. The animal refuse is reduced in six Hartmann extractors, each of which has a capacity of 5,500 pounds at one charge. The refuse is subjected to steam under four atmospheres pressure in perforated drums in the extractor, and the fats and water are thus removed. These, which are in liquid form, flow into a fat separator, where the fat gathers in an upper section of conical shape, protected against the decomposing influence of the ammonia gases and oxygen generated during the process. After considerable fat has gathered it is drawn off into a fat collector and filtering tank. The glue-like mass remaining flows from the fat separator into a receiving tank, from which it is pumped into the evaporator, where the exhaust steam separates and goes back again into the extractor. The residue, or tankage, is dried in the extracting tank by use of steam. Power for operating the plant is furnished by an 80 horse power steam engine. Two duplex steam pumps raise the necessary water from a 100-foot well into the reservoir.

Ventilation of the plant is obtained by windows which swing on a horizontal axis, thus permitting them to be opened to any extent desirable. In addition there are numerous exhaust fans for drawing off the impure air. The foul effluent waters are pumped into the ditches of an adjacent irrigation field, and the liquors which escape on the receiving side of the tank, after first being sterilized, are likewise turned into the irrigation ditches.

The plant cost about $260,000, in addition to which $64,000 was paid for special tracks and railway cars and $25,000 for the collecting station in Berlin where the waste is collected and stored until there is enough to load one of the railway cars.—Municipal Journal and Engineer.

IMPORTANT FEATURES OF HOUSING LAWS IN FOREIGN AND AMERICAN CITIES.

Some very interesting information relating to housing and workmen's dwellings was presented recently before the New York Commission on Congestion of Population. We quote from the section relating to area of lot permitted to be occupied, height and size of rooms, etc.

New Jersey.—No tenement house can occupy more than 90 per cent of a corner lot, or more than 70 per cent of an interior lot.

The Connecticut law, Cleveland, Baltimore, and Washington all limit the occupancy of corner lots to 90 per cent.

Chicago permits lots bounded on three sides to occupy 90 per cent, but limits all others corner lots to 85 per cent.

San Francisco provides that tenements may occupy 95 per cent of corner lots 50 feet or less in width, but only 75 per cent of the excess over 50 feet of other corner lots.

Connecticut, Chicago, San Francisco and Washington limit the occupancy of interior lots to 75 per cent, Baltimore to 70 per cent, and Cleveland to 65 per cent.

London Yards.—There must be provided at the rear of every dwelling house an open space exclusively belonging to it of an aggregate extent of not less than 150 square feet. In all cases the open space must be at least 10 feet wide and extend throughout the entire width of the building. In the case of corner lots, the council may permit the erection of buildings, not exceeding 30 feet in height, upon such part of the space in the rear as they may think fit, provided they are satisfied that its erection will not interfere unduly with the access of light and air to neighboring buildings.

Courts.—Where a court is wholly or in part open at the top but inclosed on every side, and constructed for the purpose of admitting light or air, and the depth from the eaves or top of the parapet wall to the ceiling of the ground story exceeds the length or width of the court, the owner of the building must make adequate provisions for ventilation by means of communication with the outer air.

Glasgow. Open Spaces.—Provision for open spaces is secured by requiring that in front of at least one-half of every window in sleeping apartments there must be an open space equal to at least three-fourths of the height of the wall in which the window is placed from the floor of the apartment to the roof of the building, measuring such space in a straight line perpendicular to the plane of the window.

Manchester.—Closed courts or areas open only at the top, into which windows open, must be equal to at least one-half of the height measured from the window sill to the eaves or top of the parapet of the opposite wall. If one side of a court or area is open, windows opposite the opening will satisfy the requirements.

Toronto, Can. Open Spaces.—Every tenement or dwelling house must be so located and erected on the respective premises as to provide at least 10 per cent of the area of the lot free from all obstruction from ground to sky, but in no event shall such area be less than 300 square feet. Angular corner lots, abutting lots and extension from street to street may be excluded from the above restrictions.

The proportion of the lot area to be occupied by tenements varies in different districts of most large German cities, just as the height and number of stories does, and lower tenements and larger yards are required in the outlying sections of cities where land values are low.

The proportion of the lot area to remain unoccupied, i. e., devoted to courts and yards, ranges as follows:

Munich—From $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$.

Cologne—From $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{3}{5}$.

Frankfort-on-the-Main—From $\frac{1}{3}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$.

Dusseldorf—From $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{3}{5}$.

Mannheim—From $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{3}{5}$.

Hamburg.—Before every wall of a building containing windows not lying on the street there must be left a space equal to one-third of the height of the wall, in the town, and two-thirds in the suburbs, and this space must have an area of 211.3 square feet.

Vienna.—Usually 15 per cent of the lot area must be devoted to yards and courts. In special cases different regulations are prescribed by the building police.

The New English Town Planning Act permits cities to restrict the number of cottages to from 10 to 20 per acre.

Frankfort-on-the-Main ranges from a maximum height of 65 feet 6 inches, not to exceed the width of the street by more than 6 feet 6 inches, to three stories, not to exceed a height of 29 feet 6 inches, on streets of this width, otherwise the height may not exceed the width of the street.

Cologne ranges from five stories and mansard in the center of the city to two stories and mansard.

Dusseldorf ranges from five stories to three stories.

Vienna ranges from six stories to three stories, and under certain conditions to two stories.

London.—The height of dwelling houses (any building used for human habitation) must not exceed 80 feet, exclusive of the stories in the roof, without the consent of the council. If a dwelling house is erected on a street less than 50 feet wide its height must not exceed the distance from the front wall to the opposite side of the street.

With reference to the height of such buildings in relation to the space at the rear, London employs the following novel plan:

An imaginary line called "the horizontal line" is drawn at right angles to the roadway through the middle of the building to intersect the boundary of the open space at the rear of the house furthest from the roadway. Then a second imaginary line called "the diagonal line" is drawn from this point of intersection above and in the same vertical plane as the horizontal line and inclined at an angle of $63\frac{1}{2}$ degrees with it.

No part of the building can extend above this diagonal line except chimneys, dormers, gables, turrets or other architectural ornaments. Further instructions for drawing the diagonal line are included in the law for exceptionally irregular sites.

Glasgow.—No tenement or building used as a dwelling house shall be erected the front walls of which shall exceed in height the distance between the building lines of the street.

Manchester.—Buildings on streets less than 30 feet wide are limited to two stories. On streets not less than 36 feet wide they are limited to three stories.

Liverpool.—Tenements facing on a street must not exceed in height the width of the street. Houses built on a court must not exceed 30 feet in height, nor contain more than two stories above the ground floor. Liverpool also adopts the same plan as London with reference to the height of buildings in relation to the space at the rear.

Paris.—Height is determined by the width of the street. Width of street 7.8

meters (25 feet 7 inches) or under, height of building, 12 meters (39 feet 4 inches); width of street between 7.8 meters (25 feet 7 inches) and 9.74 meters (31 feet 11 inches), height of building, 15 meters (49 feet 2 inches); width of street between 9.74 and 20 meters (65 feet 7 inches), height of building, 18 meters (59 feet); width of street, 20 meters, height of building, 20 meters (Act of July 23, 1884).

This same act provides that buildings in no case may contain more than seven stories. The height of the first story must be not less than 2.8 meters (9 feet 2 inches), and the height of other stories not less than 2.6 meters (8 feet 6 inches).

Berlin.—The height of houses fronting on a street may equal but not exceed the width of the street between building lines, but they may not be higher than 72.18 feet. The rear buildings must never exceed in height by more than 19 feet 6 inches the width of the open space in front of them. Buildings intended for tenement houses must not exceed five stories nor the floor of the top story be more than 57.4 feet above the sidewalk.

Toronto, Canada.—All buildings intended to be used as apartment or tenement houses exceeding 55 feet in height must be of the first-class fireproof construction throughout. No tenement can exceed 100 feet in height. No wooden or frame building intended for human habitation can be erected to exceed 35 feet in height. No tenement or other dwelling house can be erected on a street less than 35 feet wide.

Hamburg.—The usual height of a building may not exceed 97 feet 6 inches in the case of gable, and 78 feet in the case of other walls, while the front wall may not be higher than the width of the street in the suburbs, though in the town and St. Pauli it may exceed the width of the street by 19 feet 6 inches.

SIZE OF ROOMS AND OVERCROWDING IN AMERICAN AND IN FOREIGN CITIES — ROOMS, AREA, HEIGHT, ETC.

New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Chicago and Baltimore all require that every apartment shall contain at least one room with not less than 120 square feet of floor area, and that all other rooms except water-closets and bathrooms must contain at least 70 square feet of floor area.

Cleveland and San Francisco require one room of 120 square feet floor area, the rest to contain 80 square feet, and Boston requires one with 120 square feet, and the others to contain not less than 90 square feet floor area.

New York, New Jersey and Baltimore require habitable rooms to be 9 feet in the clear from floor to ceiling, although Baltimore allows cellar rooms to be 8 feet. The Connecticut law, Chicago, Boston, Cleveland and San Francisco require them to be 8 feet 6 inches.

The Pennsylvania law, St. Louis, Providence and Grand Rapids require them to be 8 feet.

Cities uniformly require attic rooms to be the required height only throughout one-half their area.

New York, New Jersey, Chicago and Baltimore make the same requirements for alcove rooms as for other rooms. Boston requires an opening equal to 80 per cent of the area of the side of the room, to the main room, and a window at least 15 square feet in area. Cleveland requires the opening to be equal to one-half the side of the room, but never less than twice the width of an interior door.

London.—Every habitable room except rooms wholly or partly in the roof must be at least 8 feet 6 inches in height. Rooms wholly or partly in the roof must be at least 8 feet in height.

As regards buildings on its own property the London County Council requires the minimum superficial area of a roomed tenement to be at least 144 square feet. A two-roomed tenement must have one room of 144 square feet and one of at least 96 square feet in area; a three-roomed tenement, one room 144 square feet, two rooms 96 square feet. For a four-roomed tenement the fourth room must contain at least 100 square feet.

Glasgow.—Every room on the basement or street floors of a tenement must be at least 9 feet 6 inches in height, and all others, except attic rooms, 9 feet. Attic rooms must be 8 feet high throughout one-half their area. Cellar rooms must be at least one-half the level of the street.

Manchester.—Every room except bathrooms or sculleries or attic rooms must be 9 feet high. Bathrooms and sculleries must be at least 8 feet high, and attic rooms must be 9 feet throughout two-thirds their area and not less than 5 feet throughout the other third.

Liverpool.—Every house (apartment) must have at least one living room which contains 120 superficial feet and at least half in number of the sleeping rooms containing 108 square feet, provided that in the case of dwelling houses "with a frontage of 15 feet" and containing six rooms, the rooms used as bedrooms shall not be less than in the case of the first bedroom, 120 square feet; in the case of the second, 95 square feet, and in the case of the third, 72 square feet. All rooms must be 9 feet high from the ceiling.

Berlin.—Habitable rooms must be at least 8.2 feet in height and the floor not more than 3.2 feet below the level of the ground.

Mr. Lawrence Veiller, in his "Model Tenement House Laws", suggests that in each apartment there shall be at least one room containing not less than 150 square feet of floor area, and each other room shall contain at least 90 square feet of floor area, and each room shall be in every part not less than 9 feet high from the finished floor to the finished ceiling.

Toronto.—Every sleeping room must contain at least 400 cubic feet for every person over twelve, and 200 cubic feet for every person under twelve years of age. The Medical Health Officer, or any Sanitary Inspector may enter any tenement or lodging house at any time of day or night, where there is reason to believe there is overcrowding.

In Mannheim (Germany) every adult and child must have at least in living rooms 343 cubic feet, and in the dwelling or apartment as a whole 686 cubic feet, and similar regulations exist for most large German cities.

HEIGHTS OF TENEMENTS PERMITTED IN AMERICAN AND IN FOREIGN CITIES.

New Jersey, Chicago, Baltimore and Cleveland limit the height of tenements to one and one-half the width of the widest street on which the building stands.

San Francisco places no limit on fireproof structures, but limits all others to one and one-half times the width of the street.

Boston places the limit at two and one-half times the width of the street, but permits no building to exceed 125 feet.

St. Louis limits all tenements to 150 feet, and those on streets 60 feet wide or less, to two and one-half times the width of the street.

Washington limits all tenements to the width of the street between building lines, but never to exceed 90 feet.

Providence limits all tenements to 90 feet, unless fireproof.

Rochester permits no tenement to exceed in height four times its horizontal dimension.

St. Paul and Toledo apparently place no limit on the height, but let the height determine the construction. In Manchester, England, where the street is not over 30 feet in width, the buildings are not allowed to exceed two stories in height, while on streets 30 to 36 feet in width dwelling houses may be three stories high. In Liverpool, Glasgow and Berlin, tenements are limited in height to the width of the street, while in Edinburgh they are limited to one and one-quarter times the width of the street.

Most large German cities, with the exception of Berlin, have been divided into districts, each with its own building regulations, and any comparison must be with these districts. The general rule has been to restrict as large a part of the city as possible to two or three-story buildings. The following are typical ranges in the number of stories permitted front buildings. The back buildings must usually be a story lower than the front buildings where rear buildings are permitted.

Munich ranges from five stories, and the mansard to two stories and a mansard, not to exceed 40 feet in height.

WORKINGMEN'S COLONIES.

The announcement recently made by the Pennsylvania Railroad that a number of houses to be occupied by its employees will be erected in Harrison, N. J., and in Sunnyside, L. I., has called attention to the movement inaugurated in European cities for the proper housing of the working classes. This movement has made rapid strides in England, and "garden cities" have sprung up in the last few years in nearly all industrial centers.

It is not known whether the Pennsylvania Railroad intends to build entire cities for its employees or whether the project of erecting houses is limited to a certain number. New York builders have been asked to submit estimates for certain types of cottages, and as the officials of the railroad never furnish information until all arrangements for the carrying out of a project have been completed, the details of the housing plans will not be made public for the present. It was stated last week, says the New York Sun, at the offices of the company, that the real estate committee of the Board of Directors is considering the matter and will report at the next meeting.

London, Birmingham and other large cities have within the last two or three years made attempts to solve the housing problem. The town planning act passed by Parliament last year gave an impetus to the movement, and garden cities, founded either by large employers or by societies, are flourishing. The new movement must not be confounded with colonies and communities started by Pourier, Rapp, Owen and other economists and religious teachers, who based their undertakings on the subordination of individual life.

The latest scheme for the development of towns is a mild form of paternalism. An expression of the Right Hon. William Kendrick, who is interested in the "Harborne Tenants" on this question, gives the aim of the movement in brief as follows: "Employers or labor are answerable for calling together in a limited space many thousands of operatives. If they have any regard for the kind of houses the employees live in they have a great responsibility, and they ought to come forward and help in this work. They should not leave it to the City Council to purchase a little space here and there at enormous expense. They want city councilors and suburban district councils to have the power to say to buildings speculators, 'You shall not crowd houses irrespective of decency and the health of the children and inhabitants of the houses.' In the meantime let them be up and doing, for ere the government does this they might have to wait some time."

The Hampstead Gardens and the Bourneville Village Trust are the largest and most successful of these towns. The idea carried out in this scheme has not as yet been copied on this side of the ocean, but signs are not wanting that American cities will witness within a short time a similar movement of town building. The socialistic, or rather, co-operative, theory underlying the erection of houses belonging to all and to no one in particular has appealed to the officials of Milwaukee, who have dispatched an emissary to Europe to study the movement and to return prepared for the management of a similar project to be fostered and fathered by the municipality.

The Hampstead Garden Trust furnishes workmen employed in London a cottage with a garden at a rental considerably less than they would be compelled to pay for a small flat in the city. The fare from Hampstead Garden to London is two pence. Different parts of the town are set aside for playgrounds. Houses are never sold, only leased at a rental of $150 to $175 a year. More than seventy acres are used for workmen's cottages, while the remainder are set aside for shops, villas and larger houses standing in an acre or two of pleasure ground. All tenants are joint owners. It is claimed for the system that in principle it solves the question of the unearned increment, for all the gain under this head does not go to the shareholders, who are the tenants, but by swelling the surplus profits it necessarily benefits all the tenant members of the trust in the shape of increased dividends on their rentals.

The Bourneville Village Trust, which was founded by an employer in Birmingham for the purpose of reducing the cost of living of his workmen and providing them with sanitary and comfortable houses, has been the most successful of the enterprises. The founder, George Cadbury, stated in the deed by which he established the trust that he was desirous of securing to workers in factories some of the advantages of outdoor village life, with opportunities for the natural and healthful occupation of cultivating the soil.

The houses and land in Bourneville Village are not sold outright. The property is leased to families for a term of 999 years. Covenants in the leases secure the accomplishment of the purpose of the founder. The village is administered by trustees, and the income, whether from rents or any other source, is employed in laying out the estate, building more houses and purchasing other estates to be developed in the same way as Bourneville. Care has been taken in laying out the village that it shall be picturesque as well as healthful. There are about six houses to the acre and the majority of the houses have two sitting rooms, a kitchen and three bedrooms. The cheapest houses are let at $1.10 and the largest houses at $1.90 a week. Water rents and sewer taxes are paid by the tenants.—The American Contractor.

CIRCULAR FROM THE MAYOR.

March 16, 1911.

To the Heads of Departments:

According to chapter 3, section 12, of the Revised Ordinances, every officer in charge of a department "shall prevent the assignment of wages by persons employed in his department."

It is notorious that this ordinance has been violated in many of the city departments. The evil is one of long standing and difficult to eradicate. On March 25, 1902, Mayor Collins issued a circular intended to carry into effect the provisions of the law. On October 4, 1907, the Finance Commission made a report, reciting that on August 29 of that year there were outstanding 272 assignments of wages by city employees, and recommending the issue and strict enforcement of a circular similar to that addressed to the heads of departments by Mayor Collins.

The latest annual report of the Corporation Counsel has called attention to the same practice, which appears to flourish with undiminished vigor among a certain class of city employees. The time of the city attorneys is wasted in the conduct of these cases, which have no proper relation to municipal business and should form no part of the procedure of the Law Department. It may be a question also whether the type of employee which is involved in trustee processes is one that is likely to render efficient service. The chronic borrower, as a rule, owes his plight to improvident habits of living rather than to any combination of circumstances which might be held to excuse his misfortune.

I desire that this circular be brought to the attention of the offenders in the various departments, and that they be warned that a continuance of their present practices will result in suspension or dismissal.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

APPROVAL OF PRIVATE WAYS.

On March 10 the Mayor approved the locations, directions, widths and grades of a private way in Roxbury, designated as Van Dyke street, from Huntington avenue to Vila street; a private way in Dorchester, designated as Balsam street, from Ashton to Irma street; and a private way in Dorchester, designated as Arbutus street, from Ashton to Irma street, as shown on plans, in each case, approved in writing by the Board of Street Commissioners and on file at the office of the Engineering Division.

CLAIMS.

The Mayor has approved the award, made by the Committee on Claims of the City Council, of $36.75 to George E. Kimball as compensation for damage to property, 58 Ottawa street, caused by the limb of a tree falling on his house, said award having been approved by the Corporation Counsel and the head of the department involved.

PAYMENTS TO DISABLED EMPLOYEES.

The Mayor has approved an allowance made by the Commissioner of Public Works granting to John A. Henry, employed in the Sanitary Service, three days at $2.25, $6.75.

PERMISSION TO CONSTRUCT.

The Mayor has granted to the Commissioner of Public Works authority to do the following work with the department force, without advertising: Build, with the department force, a surface drain of concrete, 2 feet 9 inches in diameter, and of 12-inch and 10-inch earthen pipe, in Selwyn street, from the northerly branch of Selwyn street, about 460 feet south-easterly, West Roxbury, the estimated amount being $2,630; build, with the department force, sanitary sewers of 15-inch, 12-inch and 10-inch earthen pipe and ten catch-basins and connections in Old Colony avenue, between Hyde and Dorchester streets, South Boston, the estimated amount being, $4,276.

The sanitary sewers to be built:

West side, between Vinton and Jenkins streets; west side, between Boston place and Dorchester street; east side, between Jenkins street and Dorchester street.

"This work can, in my opinion, be as advantageously done by day labor methods as any work now necessary.

"Public necessity and convenience require that this work be done after November 15, for which your authority is requested.

L. K. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works."

The name of Mrs. Jennie M. Needham, widow of Charles T. Needham, has been placed on the pension roll at the rate of three hundred (300) dollars per annum, to begin February 15, 1911.

NEW YORK SUBWAY TRAFFIC RIVALS "L."

According to the figures compiled by the Public Service Commission the Interborough Rapid Transit Company carried a total of 569,636,807 passengers on its combined subway and elevated lines during the year 1910. Of this total, 299,415,317 passengers were carried by the four elevated lines, as against 270,221,490 for the subway. Total collection of fares for 1910 was $28,481,839, as compared with the total for 1909 of $27,158,588, an increase of $1,323,251. The daily average of passengers carried works out, according to the commission's count of the ticket sales, as 820,317 for the elevated lines and 740,335 for the subway. This shows that the single subway line carries only 79,984 fewer passengers daily than all four of the elevated lines put together. The ratio of increase on the elevated lines was 4.54 per cent. The ration of increase on the subway was a little more, the increase having been 13,452,509, or 5.24 per cent. The Third avenue elevated line carries by far the heaviest traffic of any of the elevated roads, having a credit of 137,452,443. The heaviest subway increase was in the section comprising the Brooklyn stations, which showed an increase of 10.44 per cent. According to estimates made at the City Hall, the ticket sale receipts gave a profit of about 20 per cent on the subway for 1910.

NEW SYSTEM OF TUNNELING.

At a cost of something over a million dollars, a tunnel of steel and concrete for the street car lines to go under the Chicago river at La Salle street is being constructed on top of the water. When it is done it will be sunk to the bottom of the river by a system of chains and derricks.

MINUTEMEN'S FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 13, 1911.
To the City Council:

I beg to transmit the accompanying letter from the commander of the Massachusetts Association Minutemen of '61, requesting an appropriation of five hundred dollars ($500) for the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the Minutemen of Massachusetts. The survivors of this immortal band, who responded to the first call of President Lincoln and rushed to the defence of the capital of the country, richly deserve that their petition should be favorably heard and I trust that there will be no hesitation on the part of your honorable body in granting them the moderate sum for which they ask. I inclose a draft of an order which I trust will be passed by your honorable body without delay.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of the City of Boston:
Dear Sir,—The undersigned respectfully petition for an appropriation of $500 for the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the Minutemen of Massachusetts, troops who responded to the first call of President Abraham Lincoln in defence of the capital of the United States, April 15, 1861.

Yours respectfully,
MASSACHUSETTS ASSOCIATION OF MINUTEMEN '61,
by JOHN H. NORTON, Commander.

Ordered, That to meet the expense of the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the Minutemen of Massachusetts on April 15, 1911, the sum of five hundred dollars ($500) be appropriated, to be added to the appropriation for Mayor's Office, Public Celebrations, when made. Referred to the Executive Committee.

CARE OF PUBLIC RECORDS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 13, 1911.
To the City Council:

I transmit herewith a communication from the Commissioner of Public Records of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, pointing out the insufficient protection afforded in the present City Hall and other buildings owned or occupied by city departments for certain valuable public records. It seems to me that the danger which the commissioner points out to exist offers an additional reason for action by your honorable body upon the order recommended by me at your meeting of February 4, 1911, appropriating the sum of eight hundred thousand dollars ($800,000) for the erection of an annex to City Hall on the present site of the Old Court House. The plans of the proposed building could be so prepared as to include ample vaults or storage rooms for the records of the various departments designated in the commissioner's letter.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

March 10, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir.—In view of the action which your Honor is taking to get a modern, fireproof building for offices and the valuable public records of the City of Boston, I have, in company with the Superintendent of Public Buildings, made a complete investigation regarding all such records in the various city departments. It is my duty, under section 3 of chapter 35, Revised Laws, to call the attention of the honorable City Council, through your Honor, to sections 5, 18 and 19 of that chapter, and to the following conditions which are in violation thereof, pointing out that section 22 provides a maximum penalty of five hundred dollars for each violation, and a further penalty of twenty dollars upon each member of the honorable Council for each month of refusal or neglect to comply with the statutes, which I am obliged to take the necessary measures to enforce.

CITY HALL.

ASSESSING.

No protection for current books and records except a closet with lining and door of asbestos.

AUDITING.

Many records are in a room furnished and fitted with combustible materials. The basement vault has no double doors to protect it.

CITY CLERK.

A brick closet with but a single iron door and combustible fittings, for early records, and all other records and files are in thin metal cases in combustible rooms.

CLERK OF COMMITTEES.

A brick closet fitted with combustible shelves, and but a single iron door, for all records.

COLLECTING.

Many records not protected against fire. One vault in the basement has some combustible fittings and a window without fire shutters, and another vault there has combustible fittings and no double doors.

PUBLIC WORKS.

No fireproof protection whatever for any records or plans of any of the divisions.

TREASURY.

The office vault has combustible fittings, and the upper vault also has combustible fittings and no double doors.

OLD COURT HOUSE.

BUILDING.

A storage room in the basement, fitted with combustible materials, for some plans, but there is no protection for any other plans and the record books.

ELECTION.

Many records are in combustible rooms without protection. The basement vault has combustible fittings, and the two-story vault has combustible floor and some combustible fittings.

HEALTH.

No fireproof protection for any records in the office, or at the Bacteriological or Milk Inspection laboratories.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

No fireproof protection for any records or plans in the office, and the storeroom for early plans has combustible door and fittings.

REGISTRY.

The office records are in wooden cases in a combustible room. The storage room has a window without fire shutters, and is fitted with combustible materials, and the vault and basement closet also are fitted with combustible materials.

STREET LAYING-OUT.

No fireproof protection for any records or plans in the various offices, and the two safes at City Hall would probably not stand much fire.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

No fireproof protection for any records.

OLD PROBATE BUILDING.

BOSTON INFIRMARY.

The old safe is probably not fireproof, and other records are not protected against fire.

CHILDREN'S INSTITUTIONS.

The safe is too small for anything except current financial records, and early financial and all other records are without protection.

INSTITUTIONS REGISTRATION.

No fireproof protection for any records.

PENAL INSTITUTIONS.

The two safes are not sufficient for all records and many are not protected.

OUTLYING OFFICES.

ART. (Tremont Building.)

A metal lined closet, not fireproof, for all records, drawings, etc.

BOSTON TRANSIT COMMISSION. (Beacon Street.) One vault has fittings of combustible materials.

CEMETERY. (Tremont Building.)

Many records not protected against fire.

FIRE. (Bristol Street.)

All returns and record books of fires not in fireproof protection.

HOSPITAL. (City Hospital.)

No fireproof protection for the current records of the trustees or for any of the financial or clinical records. The vault for early records of patients, in the basement, is fitted with combustible materials. The clinical records at the South Department, and at the Haymarket square and East Boston stations, are not protected against fire.

LICENSING BOARD. (Pemberton Square.)

The two vaults are fitted with combustible materials, and there are many records in wooden and thin metal cases in combustible rooms.

OVERSEEING OF POOR. (Hawkins Street.)

The vault in the general office is fitted with combustible materials, and the large vault in the basement has a window and ventilator without fire shutters to them. The old safe at Chardon Street Home is not fireproof, and many records of the home are not protected against fire.

PARK. (Jamaica Plain.)

The vault is fitted with combustible materials, as is also the vault at the Franklin Park office, which is too small to hold all the plans there.

POLICE. (Pemberton Square.)

The five vaults are fitted with combustible materials, and many records are kept in wooden cases in a combustible room.

PRINTING. (Causeway Street.)

A large closet with wooden partitions, fittings and door; has some older records stored in it.

PUBLIC GROUNDS. (Dorchester.)

The safe is not sufficient to hold all the records, and another safe is needed.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE. (Mason Street.)

The two old safes are not fireproof, and many records are not in any kind of protection.

SCHOOLHOUSE COMMISSION. (Walker Building.)

The vault is only large enough for the later records and plans, and all the earlier records and plans have no protection against fire.

SOLDIERS' RELIEF. (Hawkins Street.)

The small safe contains only a few records, and most of the records are not protected against fire.

VESSELS AND BALLAST. (Commercial Street.)

No safe provided for any records. The records of previous weighers are missing.

WIRE. (Wareham Street.)

No protection for any records, which are all kept in combustible quarters.

It is estimated that the expense of reproducing such record books and plans as would be possible and necessary, in case of loss by fire, in merely the four departments of Assessing, Building, Public Works and Street Laying-Out would aggregate considerably over a million of dollars, and the probable expense of the litigation which would follow such loss would be beyond estimate.

Trusting that the honorable City Council will forthwith take action in the matter, as required by law, I am,

Very truly yours,

HENRY E. WOODS,
Commissioner.

Placed on file.

RELEASE OF PARK RESTRICTIONS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, March 13, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit a communication from the chairman of the Board of Park Commissioners, under date of February 15, 1911, together with an order drafted by that Board. The proposed order, if passed, would permit the erection on a lot of land at the corner of South street and Arborway of apartment houses to cost not less than $3,000 per suite of apartments, with store privileges on the South street front. The present minimum cost of these houses per suite, I am informed, is $4,000, and the proposed order would alter to this extent the character of the neighborhood.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Board of Commissioners of the Department of Parks,
February 15, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor,

City Hall, Boston:
Dear Sir,—The Board has voted to amend the restrictions on the lot of land at the corner of South street and Arborway, belonging to Bartholomew H. Coug, so as to permit the erection on this lot of apartment houses to cost not less than $3,000 per suite of apartments, with store privileges on the South street front.

In order to make this change it is necessary that an order be passed by the City Council, and we inclose a copy of the order that we submitted to you for this purpose in 1906.

Yours respectfully,

ROBERT S. PEABODY, Chairman.

Ordered, That the Board of Park Commissioners, with the approval of the Mayor, and by an instrument or instruments satisfactory to the Law Department, may, in the name and behalf of the city, alter and amend the restrictions contained in deeds heretofore given to the city by Henry F.

Naphen and James A. Page, trustees, and Samuel Bradstreet and Augustus B. Bradstreet of lots on either side of South street, bordering the Arborway, so as to permit of the erection on these lots of apartment houses to cost not less than $3,000 per suite of apartments, with store privileges on the South street front.

Referred to the Committee on Public Lands. Later in the session the Council voted, on motion of Coun. McDONALD, to reconsider the reference to the Committee on Public Lands.

The message, communication and order were referred to the Executive Committee, on motion of Coun. McDONALD.

EXAMINATION OF APPROPRIATION BILL.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, March 13, 1911.

To the City Council:

I am returning herewith an order passed by your honorable body at its meeting of February 27, "that the Finance Commission be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to examine the appropriation bill as submitted to the City Council and report its findings forthwith; also that the Finance Commission be requested to have one of its representatives present at the meetings of the Committee on Appropriations, when appointed, to discuss the various items in the bill as submitted."

This legislation seems to me entirely unnecessary as the Finance Commission, under section 18 of chapter 486 of the Acts of 1909, has the right "to investigate any and all matters relating to appropriations, loans, expenditures, accounts and methods of administration for the City of Boston, or the County of Suffolk, or any department thereof that may appear to the commission to require investigation, and to report thereon from time to time to the Mayor, the City Council, the Governor, or the General Court." Should the Committee on Appropriations, when appointed, desire the presence of a representative of the Finance Commission it would seem to be entirely proper to send an invitation directly to that body.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Placed on file.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, it occurs to me that that communication should be referred to the Committee on Appropriations. I move reconsideration of the vote placing the same on file.

The Council voted to reconsider.

Referred to the Committee on Appropriations, on motion of Coun. KENNY.

SEWERAGE WORKS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, March 13, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to recommend the passage of the accompanying order, providing that the sum of three hundred thousand dollars ($300,000) be appropriated for the construction of sewerage works.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Ordered, That the sum of three hundred thousand dollars be appropriated for the construction of sewerage works, under the provisions of chapter 426 of the Acts of 1897 and chapter 204 of the Acts of 1908, and that to meet the said appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized to issue, from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds of the city to said amount.

Referred to the Committee on Finance.

APPROPRIATION FOR HIGHWAYS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, March 13, 1911.

To the City Council:

I transmit herewith a draft of an order making an appropriation for highways, making of, which I recommend for passage by your honorable body.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Ordered, That the sum of three hundred thousand dollars ($300,000) be appropriated for highways, making of, under the provisions of chapter 393 of the Acts of 1906, and that to meet said appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized to issue from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

Referred to the Committee on Finance.

FEES FOR PERMITS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, March 13, 1911.

To the City Council:

In a letter addressed to your honorable body under date of November 6, 1910, I suggested that in my opinion the adoption of a reasonable schedule of fees for permits for the construction or use of coal holes, vaults, bay windows and marquises in, under, or over the public ways was urgently required for the convenience of the public. This question has been before the City Council for more than a year and while two schedules have been submitted none has been adopted. The fact that the Finance Commission has had the problem under consideration since November 29, 1910, taken together with the failure of your body to arrive at any decision, seems to show that there are intrinsic difficulties in framing a measure which shall be fair to property owners while assuring a reasonable return to the city, but the difficulties are certainly not insurmountable and the present unsatisfactory status should not be allowed to continue indefinitely. I venture to recommend that the Committee on Ordinances address itself at an early date to this problem.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.
Referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

HALF HOLIDAYS, CEMETERY EMPLOYEES.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 13, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to return an order of the City Council relating to half holidays for employees of the Cemetery Department, referred by your honorable body to the Board of Cemetery Trustees for their report and recommendation, together with a letter from the chairman of that Board, expressing the inability of the Cemetery Trustees to comply literally with the terms of this order as far as it relates to all employees of the department and their intention to put it into effect at once for certain employees, if passed by your honorable body.

Respectfully,
John F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Cemetery Department, March 13, 1911.
Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of Boston:

Sir,—I beg to acknowledge receipt of the following order of the City Council, referred to this Board of Trustees for report and recommendation:

February 27, 1911.

Ordered, That, under the provisions of chapter 587 of the Acts of 1908, the Cemetery Trustees be hereby authorized to allow half holidays on Saturdays to all employees of the Cemetery Department, without loss of pay, during the present financial year.

On account of necessary work which must be performed every day in the year in the cemeteries it would be impossible to comply with the order to grant all employees a Saturday half holiday. You are hereby advised that upon receipt of such an order the trustees of this department can put the same into effect at once, with the understanding that it shall apply to employees whose services can be dispensed with.

Yours respectfully,
CHARLES E. PHIPPS,
Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Cemetery Department.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

EXHIBIT AT EXPOSITION.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 10, 1911.

To the City Council:

I return herewith, without my signature, an order passed by your honorable body at its meeting of March 6, 1911, appropriating the sum of two hundred and fifty dollars ($250) for an exhibit of views of public buildings at the Greater Boston Real Estate and Ideal Homes Exposition. Some technical objection has been raised to the form of this order and it seems to me desirable that it should not only be correct in form but that the amount should be slightly increased, as I am informed that the sum appropriated provides only for the rental of the booth and there will be additional expenses incurred in the preparation of the exhibit.

I recommend, therefore, the passage of the accompanying order in place of the order returned herewith.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Ordered, That to meet the expenses of a special exhibition of views of public buildings at the Greater Boston Real Estate and Ideal Homes Exposition, the sum of four hundred dollars ($400) be, and hereby is, authorized to be expended under the direction of the Superintendent of Public Buildings for said exhibition and to be charged to the appropriation for Reserve Fund, when made.
Referred to the Executive Committee.

MONEY SPENT ON CHARLESBANK.

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 10, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit a statement from the chairman of the Board of Park Commissioners, in reply to your order passed at the meeting of February 27, requesting the said Board "to submit to the City Council a detailed statement as to the money spent on the Charlesbank from the Parkman Fund, under the order of the City Council of 1910 appropriating $20,000 for that purpose."

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Board of Commissioners of the Department of Parks,
March 7, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor,
City Hall, Boston, Mass.:

Dear Sir,—Inclosed herewith is the copy of the order of the City Council of February 27 relating to Charlesbank, referred to our office by your office. This order reads as follows:

"Ordered, That the Park Commissioners be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to submit to the City Council a detailed statement as to money spent on the Charlesbank from the Parkman Fund, under the order of the City Council of 1910 appropriating $20,000 for that purpose."

In answer thereto I would say that there has been expended to date:

For the installation of the irrigation plant,	$799 39
For two fountains.....	254 00
	$1,053 39

In addition to this, the material for a line of seats along the whole length of the promenade and returning on both sides of the crosswalks to Charles street have been got ready for setting up in the spring.

A contract is about to be made for a fence on Charles street, which with the setting up will cost $2,500.

A contract was made last fall for a granolithic pavement for the promenade on the Charles street side, at a cost of $6,912. It being late in the season before the contract was made, the construction was deferred until spring. The work will be commenced about the middle of April.

A contract for repairing the brick sidewalk on Charles street was also made at the same time on the same terms, to be commenced in the spring, for $756, making a total for contracts made, work to be entered upon in the spring, of $10,168. We expended last year for fountains and irrigation $1,053, a total of $11,221.

Yours truly,
ROBERT S. PEABODY, Chairman.

APPROPRIATION FOR INFIRMARY BOAT.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 10, 1911.
To the City Council:

In a message to your honorable body, dated September 12, 1910, I recommended a transfer of the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars ($2,500) from the Reserve Fund to the appropriation for Boston Infirmary Department, New Boat, in order that the fire extinguishing apparatus upon the steamer "George A. Hibbard" might be made more perfect. The accompanying order was referred to the Executive Committee, which, on January 2, 1911, reported that no action was necessary. The report of the committee was accepted by your honorable body, but the chairman of the Board of Infirmary Trustees now reports, in a letter appended hereto, that the need still exists for this additional appropriation. I recommend that in the appropriation bill a sum of twenty-five hundred dollars ($2,500) be added to the special appropriation for Boston Infirmary Department, New Boat.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Boston Infirmary Department,
March 7, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor,
City Hall, Boston, Mass.:

Dear Sir,—Inclosed please find copy of our letter of August 29 last, together with copy of your letter of August 31 in response to same, in regard to an additional appropriation for the new boat for this department, made necessary by a change in the type of fire pump.

The amount requested, $2,500, has not as yet been appropriated, the order having been referred to the Executive Committee of the City Council on September 12. As I wrote you on February 7, the money is absolutely necessary, and I would respectfully request that the matter be given attention at the earliest possible moment.

Very respectfully,
E. M. GALLAGHER, Chairman.

City of Boston,
Boston Infirmary Department,
August 29, 1910.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor,
City Hall, Boston, Mass.:

Dear Sir,—The Boston Infirmary Trustees would respectfully request that an additional appropriation in the sum of $2,500 be allowed this department for the new boat now being built by the George Lawley & Son Corporation, increasing the amount of same from $35,000 to $37,500.

The builders have recommended a different type of fire pump with 50 per cent greater capacity—a 750 gallon turbine-driven centrifugal pump—in place of the duplex pump named in the specifications. This suggestion meets with the approval of Mr. Carl H. Clark, engineer on the work, and of Mr. Louis K. Rourke, Acting City Engineer, both of whom recommend the change.

The exact amount of the increase in cost has not as yet been determined, but the amount requested, $2,500, will be sufficient to meet the expense with a small margin for any unforeseen expenditure that may be necessary, additional fire hose, etc.

Trusting that this request may meet with your favorable consideration.

Very respectfully,
E. M. GALLAGHER, Chairman.

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, August 31, 1910.
Mr. Edward M. Gallagher,
Chairman Boston Infirmary Department,
28 Court Square, Room 8:

Dear Sir,—Your communication of August 29, requesting that an additional appropriation of $2,500 be allowed the Boston Infirmary Department for the new boat, which is now in process of construction by the George Lawley & Son Corporation, is hereby acknowledged, and I beg to inform you that I will recommend the transfer of this amount from the Reserve Fund at the next meeting of the City Council.

Yours very truly,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Referred to Committee on Appropriations.

INFORMATION FROM BOSTON DISPOSAL COMPANY.

The following was received:

No. 511 Ford Building, Boston,
March 13, 1911.

To the Honorable City Council,
Boston, Mass.:

Gentlemen,—The Boston Disposal Company is now in a position to answer fully the questions contained in your order of December 12 last. The names of the officers, administrative, executive and legal, of the company are as follows:

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, I move reconsideration of that reference. BOWDOIN S. PARKER.

Collector of Taxes for the City of Boston.

PITTSBURG TO HAVE FREE BRIDGES.

Pittsburg is to have free bridges. Within ten days there is likelihood that one may travel to the north side and back again without having to pay for the privilege. That is the construction placed by all concerned on the decision of Secretary of War Dickinson that the bridges need not be raised. Whether or not the bridges must be raised in the future—and the river interests have not given up the fight—is beside the question. The decision of the secretary has made action possible and the board of commissioners has met and authorized Attorneys Hay and Vail to begin condemnation proceedings. The attorneys have all the papers prepared. They have asked the court for the appointment of viewers; and from that time on the county commissioners are convinced things will proceed with neatness and dispatch. And the decision of Secretary Dickinson means the paving the way not for the freeing of three or four bridges but for all five over the Allegheny in the city limits—five bridges capitalized at $1,820,000, divided as follows: Sixth Street Bridge, $625,000; Seventh Street Bridge, $750,000; Ninth Street Bridge, $150,000; Sixteenth Street Bridge, $95,000; Thirtieth Street Bridge, $200,000.

That they have been and are money makers is evidenced by the fact that the Sixth Street Bridge pays annual dividends of 15 per cent on par value of $25 a share; the Seventh Street Bridge, 6 per cent on par value of $50 a share; Ninth Street Bridge, between 11 and 14 per cent on $50 par value; Sixteenth Street Bridge, 20 per cent on $50 par value; and Thirtieth Street, 6 per cent on par value of $50. The bridges are owned by 645 stockholders, holding 24,411 shares of stock, more than 17,000 of these being held by women and children and trust estates. The Ninth Street Bridge has 93 stockholders, including thirty-seven estates. There are 100 stockholders in the Seventh Street Bridge, 100 in the Sixteenth and 25 in the Thirtieth Street Bridge.—Municipal Journal and Engineer.

NEW MUNICIPAL DOCK OPENED.

Tacoma's temporary municipal dock has been formally opened, several thousand persons—men, women and children—participating in a big housewarming to celebrate the occasion. The affair was notable in point of interest displayed and members of the business men's dock committee were more than delighted with the success of the event, according to E. R. Rogers, chairman of the committee. Following an inspection of the building—and no nook or corner was overlooked—the visitors gathered in the big freight room and, standing, listened for an hour and a half to a program of addresses by prominent men.—Municipal Journal and Engineer.

GERMAN INDUSTRIAL MUSEUM.

A German Industrial Museum, where consumers of German industrial products can secure information regarding new inventions and products, is to be established in Berlin. The funds for the enterprise have been subscribed by manufacturers. The museum will maintain a collection of pictures and printed matter and a technical theatre where cinematograph pictures can be exhibited. The new museum will not be a competitor of the German Engineering Museum in Munich, since that is devoted solely to historical exhibits.

MUNICIPAL FURNISHED ROOMS.

A NOVEL PROPOSAL FOR SOLVING WHAT IS PERHAPS THE MOST DIFFICULT ASPECT OF HOUSING PROBLEM.

A novel and somewhat radical departure in municipal ownership, aiming toward improvement of housing conditions among the very poor, is suggested by Mr. Isaac Priestley in an article recently appearing in the Municipal Journal.

Housing being one of the most important matters of the present day, it undoubtedly deserves our most serious consideration, and one thing strikes me forcibly when examining the question, and that is: That the lower we descend the social scale the more difficult does the problem become.

Housing for the better paid artisan, clerk, warehouseman, etc., is receiving a fair amount of attention, and provision is being made by the laying out of garden cities and by the erection of small houses in the suburbs, with cheap traveling facilities. While extensions along this line are desirable, I wish to direct attention to the far more pressing need for suitable houses for the very poorest people who, to eke out a living, are bound to live in the centers of our large cities and towns. These houses must (to be successful) be furnished, as the tenants in many cases are unable to obtain capital to provide furniture.

Let us just for a moment see how these people, for whom I propose to show how more suitable homes can be provided, are now living. In most, if not all, large cities and towns there are a number of people who are casual workers, viz., market porters, warehouse porters, hawkers, carters, laborers, navvies, coal heavers, rag pickers, charwomen, etc., the casual nature of whose work and whose inability to expend money on traveling expenses compels residence in the near vicinity of their labors. They have a hand-to-mouth existence, and as they in many cases receive their wages daily they have of necessity to pay daily.

Many of them are living in what are sometimes termed as "farmed houses." A man or woman with a little capital will rent a number of houses in the center of a city (usually very old houses) containing, say, five or six rooms. He is able to let off each room to a different family. He furnishes each of the rooms as barely as possible with bed, mattress, sheets, etc., a small table, a chair, or perhaps two, and a few utensils. Sometimes one finds an old couch with a box at one end in place of feet. Occasionally a cupboard is provided for food, but this is an exception. An orange box placed on end is a common and cheap substitute. No provision is made for coal or coke. This is tipped into a corner of the room. You will often find a man, wife and two or three children living, eating and sleeping in one room of this description. All the families have to use the common staircase, common water-closet, and have one common water tap or sink. The staircases are often dark, steep and without hand rail.

The charges vary but slightly, the average price per room being about 18 cents per night, or $1.25 weekly. I do not wish to condemn all persons who sublet this type of house. They simply supply a demand, and I am bound to admit that some of them, while getting a good profit, consider the comfort of their lodgers to a great extent.

I do not wish to dwell upon the social aspect of the case; I mean the causes which are at work tending to drive people to the lowest verge of poverty, so that they are bound to live in this type of dwelling. Many will no doubt say that intemperance is the cause; others, the unequal distribution of wealth; others, surplus labor or overpopulation; others, dear land, etc., etc. Possibly all these may be factors affecting the issue, but one thing we do know, and that is that the housing conditions in the centers of many of our large cities and towns are deplorable, and that these conditions retard and stunt intellectual, moral and physical development. The closing of small houses in the districts I have spoken of upon insanitary grounds has also the effect of driving two or more families into one house.

Some people contend that the persons who occupy these houses do not deserve anything better. Probably they are correct in some cases, but we must not forget we are dealing with two classes, viz., the unsuccessful but honest and deserving poor, and the fairly well paid but improvident poor, many of whom are criminals. In the same house you will find cleanly, decent and hardworking poor, who never seem to get their head above water, probably living in an adjoining room to a vicious, drunken and dirty family, and gradually becoming accustomed to and permeated with the foulness with which they are associated.

But above all, when dealing with this phase of the housing problem, let us not forget the children. To my mind this is the most important aspect of the whole case. The children in these houses are by far the greatest sufferers. While a great deal may be said about the effect of heredity upon the life of a child, I am led to believe that environment plays an equally if not more important part in the child's development—aye, and also has a very material effect upon the life of an adult.

While many divergent opinions exist as to the wisdom or otherwise of municipal trading, I think that most people who are opposed to municipal trading in general will admit that it is necessary where private enterprise has failed; and while the matter must not be viewed entirely from a financial aspect, I take it that where it can be made possible for our less educated and less energetic fellows to be so housed as to enable them to lead more clean, decent and wholesome lives, and this without any financial burden upon the ratepayers, I think the duty of a municipality is plain.

I am not aware that any local authority has up to the present adopted any housing scheme such as I have outlined. I think the nearest approach has been made by Glasgow and by Newcastle.

Fourteen years ago Glasgow Corporation erected what is called the "Family Home." The cost for construction and equipment was $58,045. It is entirely restricted to widowers and their children. The home contains 160 single bedrooms, plainly furnished, each capable of accommodating one adult and three children. There are a common dining room and kitchen, with gas fires and steam cooking boilers, a nursery, recreation rooms, baths and lavatories. The building throughout is lighted by electricity and warmed by a hot water heating installation. The rent for a bedroom is $1.35 per week. If the number of children is more than three, accommodation is found for the additional children in some other room at eightpence per week each. Regular meals are cooked and supplied to the inmates at the lowest possible charges, and children are boarded for an average of $0.38 per week. The home is managed by a superintendent and matron, with a staff of nurses and servants. The children under school age are tended by the nurses during the day while the parents are at work, and the older children are sent to school. The home has steadily grown in favor with the class of persons for whom it was intended. So far the working expenses have resulted in a loss each year, but this loss is being somewhat reduced in proportion to the increased number of residents. A commission on Housing of Poor which sat in Glasgow some years ago recommended furnished rooms to be provided, and as an experiment suggested that the corporation should build some houses for the purpose, furnish them, and let them at about $0.10 per night for single persons and $0.20 per night for couples. The corporation, however, has not yet done anything in this way.

Newcastle-upon-Tyne, in 1909, erected a number of one-roomed dwellings. They are not furnished, but have certain furniture in the shape of permanent fixtures. They are being taken advantage of by the people for whom they were intended. The rent per room is $0.90 weekly.

PORT OF LONDON IMPROVEMENTS.

The Port of London Improvements, about which numerous notices have recently appeared in American newspapers, are particularly interesting to municipal officials in the United States because the existing port facilities were built originally by companies competing with each other and have only recently been taken over by a public commission. The latter is known as the Port of London Authority, and the report of its chief engineer, Mr. F. Palmer, has given rise to the recent articles. With one exception no new docks were built in London for twenty-four years, although the business of the port has been growing steadily and uniformly during all that time. The Port Authority has control of 563 acres of docks, with 80½ acres of ponds, basins and the like for special purposes. Connected with these docks are 1,824 acres of land. Unfortunately only a very little of this dock area is useful for large vessels, not more than 120 acres, owing to the low depth of water on the entrance locks. Mr. Palmer recommends the execution of a series of improvements which will ultimately remedy this condition and also increase the accommodations within the docks, so as to enable them to care for vessels of any size likely to visit London for many years. It is proposed to improve first the London, West India, Millwall and Albert docks at a cost of about $19,000,000. Other improvements are recommended for a later date, which will raise the ultimate total expenditure to about $70,000,000. The betterments are laid out so that all work done now may fit into a general plan as satisfactory fifty years hence, when its details are all executed, as to-day. In making these plans attention has been paid to railway facilities, warehouses, dry docks, streets and other facilities necessary to make port accommodations complete. The fact that on taking over privately owned docks in the leading city of England the public authorities have found it necessary to embark at once on such extremely expensive betterments points to the desirability of public ownership of harbor facilities in order that the city's commerce may be encouraged by the municipality as a whole rather than depend upon the profits of private companies.—Engineering Record.

FIRST DOCK LOAN MONEY FOR RECREATION PIER.

Chief Engineer Oscar F. Lackey, of the Baltimore Harbor Board, is losing no time preparing to expend the proceeds of the $2,000,000 dock loan recently ratified by the voters. The money from this will not become available until after the first of the year, but Mr. Lackey expects by that time to be in a position to begin actual work. The first improvement will be the erection of a commercial and recreation pier at the foot of Broadway, and arrangements will be made for the purchase of wharf property now located at this point. The structure will be built entirely of concrete and steel, with concrete sheet piling similar to that used with Piers 4, 5 and 6 of the municipal dock system. The pier will be 500 feet in length and 150 feet wide. It will have two decks. The lower deck will be devoted to commercial purposes, and the lessees will be divided from one another by fireproof concrete walls. A driveway will divide the lower floor into two sections, and provision will be made along this driveway for freight car tracks. The floor of the second deck will be built of concrete. The upper deck itself will be used entirely for recreation purposes, and will be surrounded by a wide veranda. A closed pavilion will be the main feature of this deck. The pier will cost between $250,000 and $300,000.

MAY CHANGE LOCATION OF CITY HALL.

Frederick L. Olmsted, the city planning expert of Boston, Mass., has made a comprehensive report to the Pittsburg Civic Improvement Commission for a City Hall site, beautiful breathing spots and also outlet to the South Hills, across the Monongahela river, in the now unsightly Hardscrabble district. So impressed with the plans are some of the members of the commission that they believe the new idea should be given long and serious consideration before the erection of the new city hall on the market site is started.—Municipal Journal and Engineer.

FINANCE COMMISSION.

March 22, 1911.

To the Mayor and City Council:

GENTLEMEN.—On August 17, 1910, shortly after the fire on Albany street, in the lumber district so called, the Mayor requested the Finance Commission to consider and report upon the following questions relating to the protection against fire in the City of Boston:

1. The establishment in the business district of a high pressure water service.
2. The strengthening of the laws relating to building construction.
3. The establishment of another fire signal station to be used if fire should impair or destroy the efficiency of the present station.
4. Whether it is necessary to appoint one hundred more firemen.

The commission submits herewith its report upon these subjects.

1. HIGH PRESSURE WATER SERVICE.

The City of Boston is in some respects well protected against fire losses. The Fire Department force is a good one, the buildings in the city are low as compared with buildings in other large cities in the United States, notably New York, and the water supply is ample. There is now for the protection of a portion of the business district a high pressure service, supplied from salt water mains, operated with the aid of fireboats. These salt water mains extend from Central Wharf through Central street, Exchange place, Post Office square and Congress street to Congress Street Bridge. Moreover, Boston is surrounded with cities and towns which in the past have furnished valuable aid in extinguishing fires in Boston; and the future co-operation of such municipalities would be taken into account in considering any addition to Boston's fire fighting equipment.

On the other hand many dangers exist. Many of Boston's streets are narrow, particularly in the business district; there are many old structures in this district that are not of fireproof material; there are many danger spots along the water front; and there are great areas in the residential sections filled with tenements and apartment houses that have been constructed with little regard to the possibilities of destruction by fire.

The cost of providing a high pressure service for parts of the city outside the business district would be so great that it ought not to be considered. The fact that the city's net indebtedness, including its share of the state and metropolitan districts debts, was $116,259,993.37 on November 30, 1910, practically prohibits the borrowing of the additional millions that such an undertaking would require. Moreover, the improvement of the building laws in the residential sections, together with the provision of additional ordinary fire apparatus, may solve the problem of fire protection in these sections, without recourse to the costlier plan of furnishing a high pressure water service.

The commission believes that the city's financial condition does permit present consideration of the far less expensive establishment of a high pressure water service in the business district. In considering the need of this service, the commission has had the benefit of the opinions of several engineers, including Frank A. McInnes of the Department of Public Works, Guy C. Emerson, engineer for the commission, formerly Superintendent of Streets, and George W. Booth, an engineer of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, of F. E. Cabot, the Secretary of the Boston Board of Fire Underwriters, of Benjamin W. Wells and Samuel D. Parker, former Fire Commissioners, and of Charles D. Daly, the present Fire Commissioner; and it has concluded that such service should be provided.

In reaching this conclusion, the commission has considered the many elements of danger in the business district, such as the narrow streets, the few open areas, the close formation of the lines of buildings on the various streets, the presence of many nonfireproof buildings, and the faulty construction of many buildings and wharves from the standpoint of fire risks; and also the great value of the buildings in the district, the immense amount of business transacted there, the great direct loss that would result from a conflagration and the even greater loss to capital and labor that would follow upon the temporary suspension of business in this center of commercial and industrial activity. The commission has also considered the additional taxable values that would result from the improved system of fire protection and the prospect of increased revenue for the city as a substantial offset to its expenditure for the benefits conferred upon the property owners in the district.

The bill introduced by the Mayor, and now pending in the Legislature (Senate 295), seems well adapted to secure the proper establishment of the service in question. Though it does not, in terms, limit the service to any particular section of the city, it is intended to apply only to the business district, and the total amount of the loans authorized in the bill, $1,000,000, practically confines the service to that district. The bill also insures continuous construction until the work is completed, as consecutive annual loans are provided for; and the total cost of the work may be kept within proper limits by the award of contracts after public competition for 85 per cent of the cost of construction as the bill requires. The bill also provides that the act shall not take effect until it is accepted by the Mayor and City Council, a provision not only desirable from the standpoint of the city's interests, but also necessary in order to fix definitely upon the city government the responsibility for the debt which the execution of the work entails.

If the act is passed by the Legislature and accepted by the Mayor and City Council the plan prepared by the late City Engineer, William Jackson, and the less expensive plan suggested by former Fire Commissioner Benjamin W. Wells, should be considered before the contracts for the work awarded, and the less expensive plan adopted if it seems to afford adequate protection. The Finance Commission does not pass upon the respective merits of the two plans but simply suggests their careful study in the interest of economy.

The routes covered by these plans, the estimates of cost, with the comments of the Finance Commission's engineer, appear in an appendix hereto annexed.

2. STRENGTHENING THE BUILDING LAWS.

This question is one which should be studied by experts in the building trades, architects, real estate owners, and insurance men, aided by a competent lawyer familiar with the building laws. Since the Finance Commission was requested by the Mayor to examine this question, he has appointed a special commission to study the question. This special commission has undertaken the work and has prepared a bill which has been submitted to the Legislature and is now under consideration. The Finance Commission therefore feels that it has been relieved of this task, one which it could not have performed without the aid of persons having special knowledge of the problems involved, such as the Mayor has appointed as members of the special commission.

3. AUXILIARY FIRE SIGNAL STATION.

The present Fire Commissioner stated to the Finance Commission that in his opinion the present station will be safe hereafter, as the fire hazard caused by the proximity of the old Fire Department repair shop has been eliminated by the destruction of that building, in place of which a new fireproof building is being constructed. In this opinion representatives of both the Boston and the National Board of Fire Underwriters concurred. The Finance Commission believes, therefore, that an auxiliary fire signal station will not be necessary.

4. THE APPOINTMENT OF ONE HUNDRED MORE FIREMEN.

The present Fire Commissioner believes fifty instead of one hundred more firemen will be sufficient and in this opinion the Finance Commission concurs.

The commission recommends:

1. That the Mayor's bill pending in the Legislature, providing for a high pressure water service (Senate 295), be passed in its present form.
2. That upon enactment it be accepted by the Mayor and City Council.
3. That the plan of the late City Engineer and that of the former Fire Commissioner be studied, and the better one adopted before the contracts for the work are awarded.
4. That no auxiliary fire signal station be provided.
5. That not exceeding fifty additional firemen be appointed.

Respectfully submitted,
THE FINANCE COMMISSION,
by JOHN A. SULLIVAN,
Chairman.

APPENDIX.

The Finance Commission:

GENTLEMEN,—According to your instructions I submit herewith estimated cost of installing high pressure systems for fire protection in the congested business district of the city, according to the two plans so far outlined, namely, the plan developed by former City Engineer William Jackson, and the plan outlined by former Fire Commissioner Benjamin W. Wells.

The plan of Mr. Jackson contemplates the laying of pipe for fire service in practically all of the main streets in the area between Beach street and Hanover street, and between Tremont street and Atlantic avenue, with a small additional area in the West End. This plan contemplates a pumping station situated near the Boston end of Cambridge Bridge, taking water from the Charles River Basin. A total length of 62,440 feet of pipe will be needed with 340 hydrants. The estimate of the division engineer of the Department of Public Works for the cost of the system is $1,000,000. This estimate seems to me to allow an unnecessarily large amount for contingencies, and, in my opinion, the work outlined should be done for not exceeding $850,000.

The plan of Mr. Wells contemplates the location of a pumping station on the Charles River Basin near Mt. Vernon street, a pipe leading across the Common, along Tremont street, down Winter and Summer streets, through High street, connecting with the present auxiliary fire main in Congress street. In addition to the route outlined, pipes are contemplated in Boylston, Mason, West, Temple place, Bromfield and School streets, between Tremont and Washington streets; also a pipe through Bedford street, between Washington street and Summer streets. This plan would furnish a line of fire protection across the city, and would give additional protection to the retail shopping district. A total length of approximately 15,000 linear feet of pipe, with seventy hydrants, will be needed, and the estimated cost by Mr. Wells is $365,000. My own estimate practically confirms Mr. Wells's figures, being $355,000. It will be noted that the comparative cost of the two plans is not in direct proportion to the number of linear feet of pipe contemplated, the larger cost per linear foot of the Wells's plan being on account of the large cost of pumping stations which are common to each plan, and on account of the greater percentage of large sized pipe in the Wells's plan.

The plan, as outlined by Mr. Wells, seems to me defective in crossing the Common. It would be better to go around the Public Garden, through Arlington street, as contemplated in Mr. Jackson's plan, as a considerable area along Boylston street and about Park square will be furnished with fire protection, and the cost would not be greatly larger than by the route proposed.

The plan of Mr. Jackson shows a considerable length of large sized pipe in Cambridge and Green streets which does not seem to be absolutely necessary at the present time. The object of this pipe is probably to furnish a circulation of water in both directions from the pumping station and possibly to allow the laying of smaller pipes than would otherwise be used. I am of the opinion that a large portion of this pipe could be safely omitted from the plan and the present station at Central Wharf utilized to furnish additional pressure, if by any chance the pumping station should not be able to do so through one line of pipe.

Respectfully submitted,
GUY C. EMERSON,
Consulting Engineer.

March 23, 1911.

HON. JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor:

SIR,—The Finance Commission has received and given careful consideration to your Honor's communication dated February 9, 1911, respecting the taxation of the estate of the late Quincy A. Shaw, and submits the following report thereon:

Quincy A. Shaw died on June 12, 1908, leaving a will in which three persons were named as executors and trustees, who were duly appointed by the Probate Court for Suffolk County on July 2, 1908, and on the same day filed their official bonds both as executors and trustees, each in the sum of $5,000,000.

On October 1, 1908, the executors filed an inventory in the Probate Court. They stated to the Finance Commission that when the inventory was filed they knew of the existence of a very large amount of personal property which was not set forth in detail in the inventory but was referred to in a sentence reading: "Also other personal estate to be hereafter included and accounted for." One of the executors stated that soon after the testator's death he consulted with the latter's confidential clerk and that before the inventory was filed by the executors he knew of personal estate that was worth between $17,000,000 and $20,000,000. The inventory showed personal property in detail amounting to $7,150,483.88, of which about $5,000,000 was taxable, and real property amounting to $390,650. It has since been learned that the taxable personal property for 1908, as estimated by the executors from their books and accounts, was $19,785,774, and for 1909, $18,871,940. In other words, the tax should have been on about $19,000,000 in each of the years 1908 and 1909, instead of $5,000,000 and $5,200,000, which was assessed in these years respectively. The taxes paid for the two years combined amounted to $168,300, or $469,552.28 less than the amount that could have been lawfully assessed.

The executors carefully considered the legal aspect of their various acts in connection with the estate. They did not wish to make a full disclosure of the property; but they desired to avoid the doing of any unlawful act and believed the inventory they filed in the Probate Court was in compliance with the law. In this inventory they varied the usual form of the oath in which a declaration is made that the inventory "is a true and perfect inventory of all the estate of the said deceased which has come to their possession or knowledge," by writing in at the end of the printed form the words "as herein explained" so that the whole reads as follows:

Then personally appeared.....,, and....., the executors of the will of said deceased and made oath that the foregoing is a true and perfect inventory of all the estate of said deceased that has come to their possession or knowledge as herein explained.

They also inserted between items 79 and 80 of the inventory—that is, after the list of securities and just before the final item "cash"—the following words, "also other personal estate to be hereafter included and accounted for."

These additions, one of the executors said, were made for the following reason: If the form of oath had not been changed and the other words had not been inserted, the inventory would not have been a true statement. The inventory thus filed, however, was very likely to give an erroneous impression to anyone looking to the inventory for information as to the details or size of the estate. It should be noted that an inventory filed in the Probate Court is not a statement to the assessors nor, in the view of the law, for their benefit or information; yet it is generally known that the assessors habitually look to such inventories for guidance in the dooming of the estate.

The executors gave the following reasons for filing the inventory in that form:

1. That the family of the testator wanted as few details of their private affairs spread upon the public records as the law permitted.
2. They also wished to spare the widow of the testator, then in frail health, from the annoyance due to importunate charity seekers which would result from the publication of the full extent of the estate.
3. That a full disclosure of the estate might have had a bad effect in reviving certain litigation and otherwise injuriously affecting business interests of the estate.
4. They also desired to furnish the assessors no more information than they were obliged by law to give.
5. One of the executors stated that among the reasons that actuated him in not disclosing the assets of the estate was the fact that a very substantial amount of the Calumet and Hecla stock, about 8,500 shares, had not during the testator's lifetime stood in his name and was not generally known to belong to him. His total holdings of Calumet and Hecla stock were, as the executor recollected it, approximately 13,000 shares, or about one-seventh of the total capital stock of the company. This executor's belief was that the immediate publication of the fact of the holding by the testator, up to that time unknown, of this large fraction of the total capital stock of this company, with the natural belief in the minds of the public that this stock would come upon the market, would have a very depressing effect upon the market value of Calumet and Hecla stock, which would not only make it more difficult for the executors and trustees to dispose of any, if they wished to do so, but would also be against the interest of other shareholders, so far as the market value of their stock was concerned.

By avoiding full taxation of the estate the fees of the executors were not increased, and the executors stated that a possible increase of their fees was never considered by them. They state that the inventory would have been filed in the same form, regardless of the question of taxation, and that the controlling reasons were private ones not related to taxation; in other words, that if the filing of a full inventory would have permitted them to accomplish the private objects above enumerated they would have filed a full inventory and paid all the taxes assessed against the estate. Nevertheless the result of the entire transaction was to deprive the City of Boston of about $470,000 and leave it in the estate for the use of its beneficiaries. Though the phrase written in the inventory between items 79 and 80, "other personal estate to be hereafter included and accounted for," is not customarily used, the assessors stated that its unusual character conveyed to them no intimation that any considerable amount of taxable property was omitted from the inventory. They also state that they understood the phrase to mean odds and ends of little or no value, or of value then unascertained but probably small.

The commission believes that the Board of Assessors should have given more careful consideration to the significance of the change in the form of oath and the unusual reference in the inventory to other personal property not specifically enumerated therein; and that after they had seen the inventory they should have made full inquiry as to the amount of property in the estate. They did not exhaust all the means within their reach. If they had done so the estate might have been taxed for its full value.

CONCLUSIONS.

Upon consideration of all the facts the Finance Commission is of the opinion:

1. That as a result of the filing of the inventory in the form stated, and of the failure of the assessors to exhaust the existing means of obtaining information, the city was deprived of taxes to which it was justly entitled for the years 1908 and 1909.
 2. That under the law the city has no legal claim for these taxes and cannot recover them. This is the opinion of the Corporation Counsel, of the Board of Assessors and of the Finance Commission.
- The Finance Commission has suggested to the beneficiaries under the will that as the result of the filing of this inventory has been to augment their share of the estate, and as the private reasons for so filing it have resulted, as they desired, in saving annoyance and trouble as well as possible loss on their shares of Calumet and Hecla stock, the city could fairly expect them to recognize a moral obligation to return whatever they have saved in taxes. The beneficiaries thereupon turned over to the Finance Commission the amount of the taxes saved, together with the amount computed to have been the income derived therefrom, the total amount being $492,020.42, their intention being to leave themselves in a position where they shall not have retained any financial benefit from the filing of the inventory in the form above stated.

The sum above named has been delivered by the commission to the City Treasurer.

Respectfully submitted,

THE FINANCE COMMISSION,
by JOHN A. SULLIVAN,
Chairman.

Mr. Balch of the commission participated in the investigation, but did not participate in the drafting of this report, as he was out of the country at the time.

MUNICIPAL SHOWS MEET WITH SUCCESS.

Hartford, Conn.—The municipal exposition under the auspices of the joint committee of the Municipal Art Society and the Civic Club met with popular favor. The different departments of the city government had been industriously engaged for several weeks in preparing their exhibits. The general public found a lot of information at this exhibition about the city government that it did not possess before. The plans of Carrere & Hastings for the development and beautification of the city, which were forwarded from New York, were displayed.

Toledo, Ohio.—Toledo's first municipal show gave citizens the opportunity to inspect the work of all the various departments. The hall was open each afternoon, with moving pictures and a musical program each evening as added attractions. There was no admission charge. For the purpose of giving many persons the unusual opportunity to see the legislative branch of the city government in actual operation, the session of council was transferred one night to the stage of Memorial Hall.—Municipal Journal and Engineer.

GIRL FIRE CHIEF OF CITY.

Miss Maggie Harris, daughter of the late Fire Chief A. J. Harris of Tampa, Fla., has the distinction of being the first girl in the world to be called upon to organize a fire department. Miss Harris will organize a volunteer department for Port Tampa City. Several severe fires recently have awakened the citizens and officials to the need of protection. About forty men have volunteered their services. The men selected will be thoroughly drilled by Miss Harris. The late Chief Harris resided in Savannah for a number of years, during which time he was connected with the old volunteer department. He moved to Tampa when the Tampa department was reorganized and became its chief. Miss Harris was secretary to her father during his career and took a deep interest in fire-fighting.—Municipal Journal and Engineer.

CITY PLAN DECLARED NECESSARY FOR NEW YORK.

Definite steps are about to be taken toward obtaining a comprehensive city building plan for New York, according to a statement made by Chairman Russell Bleecker, of the Streets and Highways

Committee of the Mayor's Congestion Commission. "The members of the Mayor's City Congestion Commission," said Mr. Bleecker, "have appreciated from the beginning of their study on the subject the need for a city plan which shall be mandatory. The need for such a plan has been amply demonstrated by the experience of every American city of more than 100,000, as well as by many smaller ones."

FLAG FOR CORONATION DAY.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 20, 1911.

To the City Council:

The accompanying letter from Mr. W. Jessop, honorable secretary of the Boston Old Brigade of Boston, England, suggests that the City of Boston, Mass., send the members of the brigade a Union Jack, to be carried on Coronation Day. It seems to me a very happy thought, and this emblem might well serve as a link between the two cities of similar name and of close historical connection. The addition of a handsome American flag might render the gift even more appropriate.

I beg to inform your honorable body that an order requesting an appropriation for the purchase of one or both of these flags would meet with my approval and I should be willing to recommend the amount which you should consider necessary for this purpose.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

24 South Street, Boston, England.
To His Worship the Mayor,

Boston, America:

Dear Sir:—I hope you will pardon the liberty I take in writing to you. I ask you on behalf of the Boston Old Brigade whether you could buy us a Union Jack to carry in front of our brigade on Coronation Day (assisted by the members of your corporation). Our funds are very low through assisting so many of our old soldiers and navy men. We cannot afford to buy one ourselves. It would show a good feeling between the two countries and I am sure old Boston would be proud of it. If you do so we shall carry the Stars and Stripes at the same time. Inclosed you will find a leaf from the "Boston Red Book" showing what the Old Brigade is formed for, also a small photo of myself. Wishing your great country and yourself and the members of your corporation every success, I remain,

Yours faithfully,

W. JESSOP,
Honorable Secretary Boston Old Brigade.
Referred to the Executive Committee.

CITY PLANNING EXHIBIT.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 20, 1911.

To the City Council:

In transmitting the accompanying letter from W. Templeton Johnson, Esq., assistant secretary to his Honor Mayor John E. Reayburn of Philadelphia, I beg to call your attention to my previous communications upon the same subject, under date of January 11 and January 23, and to recommend the passage of the accompanying order, appropriating one thousand five hundred dollars ($1,500) for the expenses of an exhibit at the Philadelphia City Planning Exhibition.

As noted in my previous communications, the city of Philadelphia will pay for the transportation, care and return of the exhibit, and will provide attendants. The exhibit will be displayed in the City Hall of Philadelphia for three weeks or more following the Third National Conference on City Planning, which is expected to occupy three days. As the date of the exhibition is from May 15 to June 15, immediate action is required in order that the exhibit of the City of Boston may be properly prepared.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

First Municipal City Planning
Exhibition in America,
Philadelphia, Penn., March 15, 1911.

Mr. William A. Leahy,

Mayor's Office, Boston, Mass.:

Dear Sir,—I am in receipt of your letter of March 13, and note that the City Council at its meeting on March 6 took no action toward the making of an appropriation for the preparation of an exhibit to be sent to Philadelphia.

Almost every day we are receiving enthusiastic letters from municipalities all over the country who are hard at work preparing comprehensive exhibits for their cities, and it would be very regrettable if a city of the size and influence of Boston should not be represented.

I hope that Mayor Fitzgerald will put this matter again before the committee at his earliest opportunity.

Yours very truly,
W. TEMPLETON JOHNSON,
Assistant Secretary.

Ordered, That to meet the expenses of an exhibit at the Philadelphia City Planning Exhibition the sum of one thousand five hundred dollars ($1,500) be, and hereby is, appropriated to be expended by the Art Commission, under the direction of the Mayor, and to be charged to the appropriation for Reserve Fund, when made.

Referred to the Executive Committee. (See Executive Reports.)

FOOTBRIDGE, DOVER STREET.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 20, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to forward a number of petitions signed by residents of South Boston and vicinity requesting that a footbridge be constructed adjoining the Dover Street Bridge during the closing of the latter structure to public travel. The opinion of the Commissioner of Public Works upon this request, appended hereto, is unfavorable to the desires of the petitioners, but if your honorable body should express the view that the detour of sixteen hundred feet via Broadway is more than the people of this district should be asked to make, and should favor an increase of the appropriation of his department by three thousand dollars ($3,000), which is his estimate of the cost of the proposed footbridge, I should be willing to recommend this increase.

Accompanying the letter of the Commissioner of Public Works and the petitions is a communication from the division engineer of the Bridge and Ferry Divisions.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.
(Annexed were the petitions referred to.)

Public Works Department,
City Hall, Boston, March 11, 1911.
To the Honorable the Mayor:

Re inclosed petition for temporary footbridge, pending repairs to Dover Street Bridge, I hereby concur in the attached opinion of Division Engineer Fay that such a footbridge, which would cost $3,000, is not needed in view of the fact that Dover Street Bridge will be closed for only a period of four weeks, and that the distance via Broadway is only 1,600 feet longer.

Respectfully,
L. K. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Public Works Department,
March 10, 1911.

Mr. L. K. Rourke,

Commissioner of Public Works:

Dear Sir,—The City Council last year made an appropriation for painting and repairing Dover Street Bridge. The painting of the fixed spans has been completed. The repairing of the draw span has been held up pending the completion of the work on Broadway and Dorchester Avenue Bridges, and we are now ready to proceed with that work. To repair the draw span it will be necessary to close the bridge to travel for a period of about four weeks. Petitions have been presented to the Mayor requesting that a footbridge be constructed to accommodate foot travel during the period of the repairs on the draw span. The appropriation already made for the work is insufficient to cover the cost of a footbridge, and if the footbridge is to be constructed it will be necessary to add the sum of $3,000 to the appropriation for this bridge. If the footbridge is not constructed the foot travel would have to cross Broadway Bridge, and from the corner of Dorchester avenue and West Fourth street in South Boston to the corner of Albany street and Dover street in the city proper the distance is approximately 1,600 feet longer by way of Broadway Bridge than the direct route by way of Dover Street Bridge.

In my opinion the temporary footbridge costing $3,000 is not needed, but if you think otherwise I would suggest you request the Mayor to ask the City Council for an increase of $3,000 in the appropriation for the repairs on Dover Street Bridge.

Yours respectfully,

FREDERIC H. FAY,
Division Engineer.

Referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

SALE OF CITY HORSES.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 20, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to recommend the passage of the accompanying order, authorizing the Commissioner of Public Works to sell at public auction or at private sale about fifty (50) horses at various intervals throughout the year. A letter from the commissioner requesting this authority is appended hereto.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
March 2, 1911.

To the Mayor of Boston:

Authority is respectfully requested to sell at public auction or at private sale about fifty (50) horses at various intervals during the year, the proceeds to be credited to the appropriation of the Highway Division of the Public Works Department.

Respectfully,
L. K. ROURKE,

Ordered, That the Commissioner of Public Works be, and hereby is, authorized to sell at public auction or at private sale about fifty (50) horses now in the custody of the department at various intervals during the present fiscal year.

CUSTODY OF MUNICIPAL BUILDING.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 20, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to recommend the passage of the accompanying order, transferring the care and custody of the municipal building on Blossom street from the Superintendent of Public Buildings to the Bath Trustees. A letter from the chairman of the Bath Trustees sets forth the advisability of immediate action on this question.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Bath Department,
Boston, March 14, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of the City of Boston:

My dear Sir,—In view of the near approach of the time when operations will start in renovating and improving the municipal building on Blossom street, Ward 8, I beg your approval of the following order, which I trust you will submit to the City Council, transferring the above named property to our custody.

We have at our disposal now the sum of $25,000 to carry on the proposed improvements, and as the building will eventually come under our direction we deem it advisable that the transfer be made at this time, before we start to expend the amount appropriated for our use.

"Ordered, That the care and custody of the municipal building on Blossom street, Ward 8, now in charge of the Superintendent of Public Buildings, be, and the same is, hereby transferred to the care and custody of the Bath Trustees."

Trusting that this will merit your immediate approval, I am,

Very truly yours,
RICHARD M. WALSH,
Chairman Bath Trustees.

Ordered, That the care and custody of the municipal building on Blossom street be transferred from the Superintendent of Public Buildings to the Bath Trustees.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

SUBSOIL IRRIGATION, BOSTON COMMON.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 18, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit a copy of a letter from the Superintendent of Public Grounds regarding the need of an additional appropriation of about seventy-five thousand dollars ($75,000), in order to complete the work of subsoil irrigation begun on Boston Common last year. The superintendent suggests that this further appropriation, like that which has already been made for this purpose, might be taken from the income of the Parkman Fund.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Public Grounds Department,
March 7, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—I wish to bring to your attention our experiment in the work of irrigation on Boston Common and our advancement in the resoling of about eight acres with the installation of an irrigation system.

We have now available but $31,000, approximately, and as it has been arranged to proceed with the work in the early spring (weather permitting) and there remains about twenty-three acres to be done in addition to the eight already covered, I would recommend an immediate appropriation from the Parkman Fund to continue the work of irrigation the coming spring, summer and fall.

To proceed with the work we should have at least an additional appropriation of $75,000. Based on our work of the past year this amount would be absolutely necessary. The experiment has proved highly satisfactory and should continue.

Respectfully submitted,
D. H. SULLIVAN, Superintendent.

Referred to the Committee on Parkman Fund.

REMOVAL OF MOTH NESTS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 20, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit a communication from the Executive Secretary of the United Improvement Association, calling attention to the necessity for immediate work by the City of Boston in removing gypsy and brown-tail moth nests from trees and foliage. A communication from the Superintendent of Public Grounds, in reply thereto, expressing the opinion that an appropriation of eighty-five thousand dollars ($85,000) is required for this work, is attached hereto for your information.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

United Improvement Association,
Boston, March 15, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of the City of Boston,
City Hall, Boston:

Dear Sir,—In accordance with a vote of the Executive Committee, I am instructed to bring to your attention the necessity for immediate work by the City of Boston in cleaning trees and foliage of gypsy and brown-tail moth nests.

From the Public Grounds Department the committee learns that about sixty men are at work, now in the West Roxbury district, in cleaning nests from the trees.

At the present rate at least a month will be consumed before the entire city is covered and by that time the gypsy and brown-tail moths will be alive, with the result that large numbers of trees will be ruined and the general public put to great inconvenience.

The committee hopes that you will give this important matter your immediate attention.

Very truly yours,
M. C. BERKOWITZ,
Executive Secretary.

Public Grounds Department,
March 17, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of the City of Boston:

Dear Sir,—In reply to the inclosed communication of the 15th inst. from Mr. Mortimer L. Berkowitz, Executive Secretary for the United Improvement Association, concerning the suppression of the gypsy and brown-tail moths throughout the city, I would say that it is impossible to cover the entire city on destruction work in one season with the limited appropriation allowed for the work.

We are guided in doing the destruction work by the state inspectors, who direct the moth men to the districts where the infestations are greatest, and other districts not covered by destruction work will be subjected to the spraying treatment which is also very effective, during the spring and early summer.

In order to cover the entire city on destruction work and follow it by spraying it would require a force of 150 men and an appropriation of $85,000, whereas the amount allowed this year for the purpose is only $40,000.

For the last two years I have endeavored to get property owners to co-operate with the city and state officials by caring for their trees on destruction work and have succeeded to a limited extent. It has occurred to me that this might be a good field in which the United Improvement Association could help along the work by influencing the members of their numerous associations to recommend this means to their friends, for which I would be extremely grateful.

Respectfully,
D. H. SULLIVAN, Superintendent.

Referred to Committee on Appropriations.

REOPENING OF CHARLESTOWN SEWER YARD.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 20, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit a letter from the Secretary of the Charlestown Improvement Association, notifying me that the association favors the reopening of the sewer yard in Charlestown, and suggests that this communication be referred to your Committee on Appropriations. A copy of the letter has been referred to the Commissioner of Public Works for a report upon the cost and feasibility of the proposed change.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Charlestown Improvement Association,
Charlestown, March 7, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of the City of Boston:

Dear Sir,—At last night's meeting of the association it was voted that you be asked to use your influence and endeavor to have the sewer yard here in Charlestown reopened and put on a good working basis.

Yours very truly,
DANIEL A. McVARISE, Secretary.

Referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

YACHT RACE TROPHY.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 20, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit a letter from Mr. Hollis Burgess, notifying me that the Boston Yacht Club will conduct an ocean yacht race next summer from Boston to Bermuda, and requesting that the city offer a trophy for the winner of this contest. In my opinion the suggestion is an admirable one and I recommend the passage of the accompanying order, appropriating the sum of five hundred dollars ($500) for such a trophy.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Hollis Burgess Yacht Agency,
15 Exchange Street,
Boston, March 18, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor,
City Hall, Boston:

Dear Sir,—In confirmation of my conversation with you at your office, I beg to say that the Boston

Yacht Club is going to conduct an ocean yacht race next summer from Boston to Bermuda, and that it is to be hoped that the City of Boston will offer a trophy for the winner of this contest.

This race, for sailing yachts only, is to start Saturday, June 3, at twelve o'clock, off the Marine Pier, South Boston, and finish off St. David's Head, Bermuda. I inclose two clippings from the Royal Gazette, Bermuda, of January 17 and 19, which will show the great interest taken in Bermuda in the coming event.

The city of Philadelphia last year offered a $1,000 silver trophy to the winner of the Philadelphia-Havana motor boat race, and as the Boston-Bermuda race will be of the greatest interest and importance, it is hoped that the City of Boston will offer a suitable prize of a value of $500 or $1,000.

The City of Boston in the past has always encouraged in every way the sport of yachting, and as this is the first time that Boston has been the starting point for the Bermuda race, a municipal prize would be highly appreciated by yachtsmen.

Bermuda is growing very rapidly as a winter and summer resort for Americans, and it is believed that this Boston-Bermuda race should eventually lead to the establishment of a steamship line between Boston and Bermuda, particularly if the City of Boston will assist in the development of trade and travel between the two places by officially recognizing this great race.

Entries already received for the contest are: Schooner "Vagrant," Harold S. Vanderbilt owner; Schooner "Shiyesa," J. V. Morrell owner; Schooner "Seneca," Demerest Lloyd owner; Schooner "Margaret," George S. Runk owner.

Other entries are certain to come in soon, particularly if the City of Boston will show its interest in the event by offering a trophy.

With best wishes,

Yours sincerely,
HOLLIS BURGESS.

Ordered, That to meet the expense of a suitable trophy to be awarded to the winner of an ocean yacht race to be sailed next summer from Boston to Bermuda, under the auspices of the Boston Yacht Club, the sum of five hundred dollars ($500) be, and hereby is, appropriated to be added to the appropriation for Mayor, Office Expenses, etc., when made.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

EXPENDITURES FOR "ZOO," ETC.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 16, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit the accompanying letter from the United Improvement Association, incorporating a recent resolution to the effect that not more than 50 per cent of the income of the Parkman Fund should be expended in any one year for the purpose of a zoological garden in Franklin Park, and an aquarium in Marine Park.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

United Improvement Association,
Boston, March 11, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor,
City of Boston, City Hall, Boston:

Dear Sir,—The delegates representing the Citizens and Improvement Associations, affiliated in the United Improvement Association, upon recommendation of the Committee on Parks and Playgrounds, at their meeting on March 1, voted to send to you the following resolution adopted at that time:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of the United Improvement Association that a wise and safe plan for the expenditure of the income of the Parkman Fund would be that not over 50 per cent of the income be expended in any one year for the purpose of a zoological garden in Franklin Park and an aquarium in Marine Park for these reasons:

"That a most cursory study of the situation as regards the condition of local parks shows that large and immediate expenditures are necessary for their improvement and bringing up to the proper standard."

The Committee on Parks and Playgrounds based its conclusions upon a general knowledge of the condition of local parks and playgrounds, which might be benefited by the income of the Parkman Fund.

The committee would especially call to your attention a letter under date of March 7, from Mr. D. Henry Sullivan, Superintendent of the Public Grounds Department, a copy of which was forwarded to this office, which contains recommendations for needed improvements in the local parks, amounting to $82,175, and to another letter under date of March 7, requesting that $75,000 be appropriated for additional work in resoling Boston Common.

The committee and the association believe, in view of these facts and figures, that at least one-half the income each year should be appropriated from the Parkman Fund for the benefit of local parks and playgrounds which were in existence in 1887.

Very truly yours,
M. L. BERKOWITZ,
Referred to Committee on Parkman Fund.

DISPOSAL OF CITY REFUSE.

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 16, 1911.
To the City Council:

I beg to transmit a letter from the Commissioner of Public Works, announcing a proposal from the Boston Disposal Company for disposing of the refuse of the City of Boston, with the exception of the West Roxbury and East Boston districts, for the ten years beginning January 1, 1912. The letter of the Commissioner of Public Works is accompanied by a communication from the president of the Boston Disposal Company, a copy of the charter of that company, a copy of the contract which the company stands ready to sign, and the plans of the proposed stations and terminals.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
March 13, 1911.

To the Honorable the Mayor:

In connection with the proposal of the Boston Disposal Company for the disposal of the city refuse, with the exception of the West Roxbury and East Boston districts, kindly note attached letter from the president of the Boston Disposal Company and also find attached the charter of said company.

Respectfully,
L. K. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
March 13, 1911.

To the Honorable the Mayor:

Inclosed find proposal of Boston Disposal Company for disposing of the refuse of the City of Boston, with the exceptions of the West Roxbury and East Boston districts, for the ten years beginning January 1, 1912.

I consider that this proposal offers a scientific solution of the problem at a reasonable figure, and would respectfully request that it be forwarded to the honorable the City Council for action, as per section 6 of chapter 486 of the Acts of 1909.

Also, find sketch plans of the proposed stations and terminals. There is a loan of $50,275.85 available now for the construction of the Freeport street terminal, and in addition to this it is estimated that $100,000 will be necessary to build all the terminals and stations. Therefore, if this proposal is approved by the City Council, the only immediate investment on the part of the city will be about $150,000 for the construction of these stations, of which $50,275.85 is available.

Very respectfully,
L. K. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

(Annexed was a copy of the charter referred to in letter from Commissioner of Public Works.)

Boston Disposal Company,
No. 511 Ford Building,
Boston, March 9, 1911.

Louis K. Rourke, Esq.,
Commissioner of Public Works,
Boston, Mass.:

Dear Sir,—Answering your letter of March 7, 1911, I would say the Boston Disposal Company is organized under the laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, the date of its charter being February 9, 1911.

The following are its officials:
Frederick H. Payne, President.
William J. Carlin, Vice President.
Edward R. Hastings, Treasurer.
J. Steuart Rusk, Clerk.

Lawrence M. Stockton, Counsel.

The above, with Albion F. Bemis, Theodore G. Bremer and John H. Gibbs are the board of directors.

It may be of interest to you to know the business standing of these men:

Mr. Payne is vice president of the Federal Trust Company, Boston.

Mr. Carlin is treasurer of the Coffin Valve Company and a heating and ventilating contractor.

Mr. Bremer is of the firm of Parker, Wilder & Co.

Mr. Bemis is a director of the Federal Trust Company and a former member of the Governor's Council.

Mr. Rusk is a patent attorney, and is retained by the American Pneumatic Service Company, and also has a private practice.

Mr. Stockton is a member of the firm of Stimson, Stockton, Livermore & Forbes, attorneys at law.

Mr. Gibbs is president of Winch Brothers' Company.

Mr. Hastings is of the firm of Devens, Lyman & Company, brokers.

The present office of the company is at 511 Ford Building, Ashburton place, Boston.

We propose to acquire from Mr. Willis C. Merrill, who is a stockholder and director in the New England Sanitary Product Company, the right to use certain of his patents, which represent the most modern and effective methods of treating refuse, and he will thereupon become one of our stockholders. Mr. Rusk, one of our directors, is also a stockholder and director in the New England Sanitary Product Company. No other person interested in the New England Sanitary Product Company is, or will be, connected with the Boston Disposal Company.

The only interest the Boston Disposal Company has in the affairs of the New England Sanitary Product Company is to acquire by purchase, on as favorable terms as possible, its plant and location. The Boston Disposal Company will have no relations with the New England Sanitary Product Company. On our purchase of the property the New England Sanitary Product Company will retire from business and have no part in our management or operation.

All of the directors and parties connected with the Boston Disposal Company are Boston business men and interested in the development of the city and have financial interests at stake.

The company is prepared to qualify in the usual bonds, which are required by a contract of this character.

It is the intention of this company to build and equip the most modern plant for the disposal of city wastes that has ever been built at the admirable location which it will occupy.

The enterprise will add a new industry to the business of Boston, and give employment to many men.

In the preparation of our proposition to the city the situation has been carefully considered with reference to the sanitary development and economical disposition of the waste material to be handled, and it calls for a type of advanced sanitary engineering, which can only be comprehended by a thorough understanding of the diverse conditions presented by the problem.

Our method embodies reduction and incineration of the highest form, and includes a modern high temperature destructor of the Heenan & Froude type.

In view of misleading public criticism we would ask you to call attention to the fact that the first offer made in reply to the invitations for proposals was figured by the city at $362,195 per year. This was on the understanding that the company was to build and maintain all the stations. On a subsequent request for modifications of the bid for disposal of the refuse of the whole city the price given by the company was $270,000 for the first year, with an increase of 2.6 per cent in each succeeding year over the previous year, the city to build and maintain stations.

After further conferences and discussions the city decided to leave out of the operation of the contract, at least for the time being, the East Boston and West Roxbury districts. The company therefore reduced its price for the first year, figuring on a population basis, to $234,940, the present price. The company further, on account of reduced plant capacity required by the modified conditions, reduced its yearly increase of price from 2.6 per cent to 2.1 per cent, the present figure. On this basis our total price for ten (10) years is $2,584,348.

It should be further noted that we have offered to reduce our price to the extent of $25,000 a year, should the city elect to do all the teaming within the city; that is to say, the transportation of refuse from the inland stations to the waterfront stations will, under the contract, be performed by us, although forming no part of final disposition. Should the city decide to undertake the transportation as above, the net total cost to the city during the ten years of the contract will be $2,334,348. We respectfully request a comparison of these figures with the cost to the city during the ten years of our proposed contract on any reasonable estimates.

In fairness to this company the city should remember that by letter to you, dated October 17, 1910, which accompanied the original bid, the whole plan of the company was submitted, so far as it could be without the actual organization of a corporation, and far from wishing to conceal the names of those interested, we have been, and are, anxious that the city and public shall have all the facts in regard thereto.

The present capital paid in is $5,000, which is sufficient for present needs, and in case the company enters into the contract all capital necessary to carry it out will be forthcoming.

Our operating staff includes men of experience and high technical skill, and assures the fulfillment of the contract with the greatest possible efficiency.

Our charter is herewith submitted for your inspection.

In case you or any member of the City Council desire a personal interview with the gentlemen associated together in this enterprise, we shall be pleased to make an appointment to suit your convenience, and go into the matter more in detail.

Respectfully yours,
FREDERICK H. PAYNE, President.

Contract for the Disposal of Refuse of the City of Boston.

The City of Boston, a municipal corporation of Massachusetts, and the Boston Disposal Company, hereinafter called contractor, a business corporation of Massachusetts, agree for the term of ten (10) years from and including January 1, 1912, as follows:

MUNICIPAL COLD STORAGE PLANT FOR CLEVELAND.

To reduce the cost of living, the city is planning to rent space to individuals in the municipal cold storage plant being installed in the new West Side market house. Individuals, restaurant keepers and grocery keepers will be encouraged to buy butter, eggs, poultry and other farm products direct from the farmer in summer, when the goods are comparatively cheap, and place them in the cold storage plant for winter use. If the plan succeeds in this case, it is the intention of the city to establish cold storage plants in different parts of Cleveland, in which space will be rented to individuals at a rate which will merely cover the cost of operation. Power to operate the plant is to be supplied by the municipal light and power system. It is thought that by this method high prices which prevail in winter can be broken. Farmers will receive better rates for their products, but the people will not be compelled to pay exorbitant prices now asked for food products by those who store goods in summer to sell in winter. It is believed by Public Service Director Lea that other cities will adopt the plan, if it succeeds here. The city owns a large farm in Warrensville, products from which will be stored for use in the Department of Charities.—Municipal Journal and Engineer.

No person other than employees of the city engaged in public work shall, in any street . . . place outside of any building or premises for removal any light refuse or rubbish that is likely to be scattered or blown about unless the same is properly packed, bundled or otherwise secured.

The Commissioner of Public Works has fixed 7 cents a barrel or bundle, not larger than a flour barrel, as a reasonable cost for the removal of store refuse, including ashes.

Persons having any ashes or store refuse, as above stated, which they wish removed at their expense, may have this service performed by the city on request, after April 10, 1911, by the delivery of a ticket to a representative of the department for each barrel removed.

DIMINISHING DEATH RATES.

Never before in the history of the world, probably, has life been held so valuable as now, and never before has the death rate been as low. The rates given in New York City for the last thirty-three years show a reduction from 28 per thousand to about 16 per thousand—over 40 per cent. While New York is to be congratulated on these figures, it is by no means exceptional in this improved condition. For instance, the figures for London, England, show a decrease of nearly 40 per cent during the same period, from 24.4 to 15.0. The figures of the actual lives saved are even more startling in their magnitude than the percentages. Assuming a population of four and a half million for New York, a saving of 12 per thousand means that under present conditions there are 54,000 less deaths per year than would have been the case thirty-three years ago. If the conditions have equally improved over the entire country with its ninety million population, we have an annual saving of 1,080,000 lives per year by improved sanitation, medical and surgical practice and other features of modern civilization which make to preserving health and life.

If we consider the matter a little further, the figures are still more encouraging. It is, of course, out of the question to expect that any acts or precautions of man can render the human race immortal. A certain number of deaths—probably 9 or 10 per thousand—are inevitable unless the average length of life be increased beyond the maximum attained by any except the very unusual cases. If we take these figures to be 10 per thousand, the preventable deaths thirty years ago in New York were about 18 per thousand and at present are about 6 per thousand; in other words, the preventable deaths have been reduced by two-thirds.

This is certainly a remarkable showing and cause for great honor to physicians and sanitarians.—Municipal Journal and Engineer.

FINANCE COMMISSION.

Boston, March 22, 1911.

To the Honorable the Mayor and City Council:

GENTLEMEN,—On August 17, 1910, shortly after the fire on Albany street, in the lumber district so called, the Mayor requested the Finance Commission to consider and report upon the following questions relating to the protection against fire in the City of Boston.

1. The establishment in the business district of a high pressure water service.

2. The strengthening of the laws relating to building construction.

3. The establishment of another fire signal station, to be used if fire should impair or destroy the efficiency of the present station.

4. Whether it is necessary to appoint one hundred more firemen.

The commission submits herewith its report upon these subjects.

1. HIGH PRESSURE WATER SERVICE.

The City of Boston is in some respects well protected against fire losses. The fire department force is a good one, the buildings in the city are low as compared with buildings in other large cities in the United States, notably New York, and the water supply is ample. There is now for the protection of a portion of the business district a high pressure service, supplied from salt water mains, operated with the aid of fireboats. These salt water mains extend from Central Wharf through Central street, Exchange place, Post Office square and Congress street to Congress Street Bridge. Moreover, Boston is surrounded with cities and towns which in the past have furnished valuable aid in extinguishing fires in Boston, and the future co-operation of such municipalities should be taken into account in considering any addition to Boston's fire-fighting equipment.

On the other hand, many dangers exist. Many of Boston's streets are narrow, particularly in the business district; there are many old structures in this district that are not of fireproof material; there are many danger spots along the water front; and there are great areas in the residential sections filled with tenements and apartment houses that have been constructed with little regard to the possibilities of destruction by fire.

The cost of providing a high pressure service for parts of the city outside the business district would be so great that it ought not to be considered. The fact that the city's net indebtedness, including its share of the state and metropolitan district debts, was $116,259,993.37 on November 30, 1910, practically prohibits the borrowing of the additional millions that such an undertaking would require. Moreover, the improvement of the building laws in the residential sections, together with the provision of additional ordinary fire apparatus, may solve the problem of fire protection in these sections without recourse to the costlier plan of furnishing a high pressure water service.

The commission believes that the city's financial condition does permit present consideration of the far less expensive establishment of a high pressure water service in the business district. In considering the need of this service the commission has had the benefit of the opinions of several engineers, including Frank A. McInnes of the Department of Public Works, Guy C. Emerson, engineer for the commission, formerly Superintendent of Streets, and George W. Booth, an engineer of the National Board of Fire Underwriters; of F. E. Cabot, the secretary of the Boston Board of Fire Underwriters; of Benjamin W. Wells and Samuel D. Parker, former Fire Commissioners; and of Charles D. Daly, the present Fire Commissioner; and it has concluded that such service should be provided.

In reaching this conclusion the commission has considered the many elements of danger in the business district, such as the narrow streets, the few open areas, the close formation of the lines of buildings on the various streets, the presence of many nonfireproof buildings and the faulty construction of many buildings and wharves from the standpoint of fire risks; and also the great value of the buildings in the district, the immense amount of business transacted there, the great direct loss that would result from a conflagration and the even greater loss to capital and labor that would follow upon the temporary suspension of business in this center of commercial and industrial activity. The commission has also considered the additional taxable values that would result from the improved system of fire protection and the prospect of increased revenue for the city as a substantial offset to its expenditure for the benefits conferred upon the property owners in the district.

The bill introduced by the Mayor, and now pending in the Legislature (Senate, 295), seems well adapted to secure the proper establishment of the service in question. Though it does not, in terms, limit the service to any particular section of the city, it is intended to apply only to the business district, and the total amount of the loans authorized in the bill, $1,000,000, practically confines the service to that district. The bill also insures continuous construction until the work is completed, as consecutive annual loans are provided for; and the total cost of the work may be kept within proper limits by the award of contracts after public competition for 85 per cent of the cost of construction as the bill requires. The bill also provides that the act shall not take effect until it is accepted by the Mayor and City Council, a provision not only desirable from the standpoint of the city's interests but also necessary in order to fix definitely upon the city government the responsibility for the debt which the execution of the work entails.

If the act is passed by the Legislature and accepted by the Mayor and City Council the plan prepared by the late City Engineer, William Jackson, and the less expensive plan suggested by former Fire Commissioner Benjamin W. Wells, should be considered before the contracts for the work are awarded, and the less expensive plan adopted if it seems to afford adequate protection. The Finance Commission does not pass upon the respective merits of the two plans but simply suggests their careful study in the interests of economy.

The routes covered by these plans, the estimates of cost, with the comments of the Finance Commission's engineer, appear in an appendix hereto annexed.

2. STRENGTHENING THE BUILDING LAWS.

This question is one which should be studied by experts in the building trades, architects, real estate owners and insurance men, aided by a competent lawyer familiar with the building laws. Since the Finance Commission was requested by the Mayor to examine this question he has appointed a special commission to study the question. This special commission has undertaken the work and has prepared a bill which has been submitted to the Legislature and is now under consideration. The Finance Commission, therefore, feels that it has been relieved of this task, one which it could not have performed without the aid of persons having special knowledge of the problems involved, such as the Mayor has appointed as members of the special commission.

3. AUXILIARY FIRE SIGNAL STATION.

The present Fire Commissioner stated to the Finance Commission that in his opinion the present station will be safe hereafter, as the fire hazard caused by the proximity of the old Fire Department repair shop has been eliminated by the destruction of that building, in place of which a new fireproof building is being constructed. In this opinion representatives of both the Boston and the National Board of Fire Underwriters concurred. The Finance Commission believes, therefore, that an auxiliary fire signal station will not be necessary.

4. THE APPOINTMENT OF ONE HUNDRED MORE FIREMEN.

The present Fire Commissioner believes fifty instead of 100 more firemen will be sufficient, and in this opinion the Finance Commission concurs.

The commission recommends:

1. That the Mayor's bill pending in the Legislature, providing for a high pressure water service (Senate, 295), be passed in its present form.

2. That upon enactment it be accepted by the Mayor and City Council.

3. That the plan of the late City Engineer and that of the former Fire Commissioner be studied, and the better one adopted before the contracts for the work are awarded.

4. That no auxiliary fire signal station be provided.

5. That not exceeding fifty additional firemen be appointed.

Respectfully submitted,
THE FINANCE COMMISSION,
by JOHN A. SULLIVAN,
Chairman.

APPENDIX.

The Finance Commission:

GENTLEMEN,—According to your instructions I submit herewith estimated cost of installing high pressure systems for fire protection in the congested business district of the city, according to the two plans so far outlined, namely, the plan developed by former City Engineer, William Jackson, and the plan outlined by former Fire Commissioner, Benjamin W. Wells.

The plan of Mr. Jackson contemplates the laying of pipe for fire service in practically all of the main streets in the area between Beach street and Hanover street, and between Tremont street and Atlantic avenue, with a small additional area in the West End. This plan contemplates a pumping station situated near the Boston end of Cambridge Bridge, taking water from the Charles River Basin. A total length of 62,440 feet of pipe will be needed, with 340 hydrants. The estimate of the Division Engineer of the Department of Public Works for the cost of the system is $1,000,000. This estimate seems to me to allow an unnecessarily large amount for contingencies, and, in my opinion, the work outlined should be done for not exceeding $850,000.

The plan of Mr. Wells contemplates the location of a pumping station on the Charles River Basin near Mt. Vernon street, a pipe leading across the Common, along Tremont street, down Winter and Summer streets, through High street, connecting with the present auxiliary fire main in Congress street. In addition to the route outlined, pipes are contemplated in Boylston, Mason, West, Temple place, Bromfield and School streets, between Tremont and Washington streets; also a pipe through Bedford street, between Washington street and Summer street. This plan would furnish a line of fire protection across the city, and would give additional protection to the retail shopping district. A total length of approximately 15,000 linear feet of pipe, with seventy hydrants, will be needed, and the estimated cost by Mr. Wells is $365,000. My own estimate practically confirms Mr. Wells's figures, being $355,000. It will be noted that the comparative cost of the two plans is not in direct proportion to the number of linear feet of pipe contemplated, the larger cost per linear foot of the Wells plan being on account of the large cost of pumping stations which are common to each plan, and on account of the greater percentage of large sized pipe in the Wells plan.

The plan, as outlined by Mr. Wells, seems to me defective in crossing the Common. It would be better to go around the Public Garden, through Arlington street, as contemplated in Mr. Jackson's plan, as a considerable area along Boylston street and about Park square will be furnished with fire protection, and the cost would not be greatly larger than by the route proposed.

The plan of Mr. Jackson shows a considerable length of large sized pipe in Cambridge and Green streets which does not seem to be absolutely necessary at the present time. The object of this pipe is probably to furnish a circulation of water in both directions from the pumping station and possibly to allow the laying of smaller pipes than would otherwise be used. I am of the opinion that a large portion of this pipe could be safely omitted from the plan and the present station at Central Wharf utilized to furnish additional pressure, if by any chance the pumping station should not be able to do so through one line of pipe.

Respectfully submitted,
GUY C. EMERSON,
Consulting Engineer.

The paste must be in good chemical and physical condition, and show 50 per cent actual (dry) arsenate of lead, not less than 15 per cent AS2O5, not more than 75 per cent soluble arsenates, no free acids, adulterants or inert substances and be subject to analysis by a city chemist. Samples for analysis to be taken from random barrels of each shipment, and the acceptance or payment for such shipments to be in accordance with the following reservation: An option is to be reserved to reject any or all barrels of arsenate of lead not measuring up to the foregoing analysis, and all bids shall be construed to mean that the bidders agree to the above option by the act of bidding; and, further, that material submitted which proves an analysis to be deficient in any material way shall in no event be paid for, whether it has been used, pending the obtaining of results of analysis, or not; and, further, that any shipment or shipments not received at the time designated, provided due time has been given the contractor to make prompt shipment thereof, may be rejected at the option of the Supply Department, whether such delay results from fault of the contractor or of a common carrier employed by him to forward same. Samples for analysis must be furnished with the proposal, and in awarding the contract consideration will be given to that product offered which chemical analysis shows to be the most valuable for the purposes for which it is required. The proposals will be publicly opened and read Monday, April 10, at 12 m. The Supply Department reserves the right to reject any or all proposals.

PROTEST AGAINST RAILWAY FREIGHT CARS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, March 27, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit a communication from the secretary of the South Boston Citizens Association relating to the service of the Boston Elevated Railway in South Boston, and opposing the granting of the privilege of adding freight and express cars to this service until needed changes are made in caring for passengers.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

South Boston Citizens Association,

South Boston, March 20, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor,

City Hall, Boston:

Dear Sir,—At a meeting of the South Boston Citizens Association held the 16th inst., the following resolutions were adopted, viz.:

Resolved, That the service of the Boston Elevated Railway, so far as South Boston is concerned, is less efficient than ever; the sidetracking of cars at Dorchester street has become a public nuisance.

The cars now running into the subway from here are of very little accommodation to the residents, the Huntington avenue or Back Bay line, no better.

We are opposed to granting the privilege of adding freight and express cars to this poor service until needed changes are made in caring for passengers, and would again recommend the immediate improvements in this direction which we have so many times called to the attention of the president and other officials; that all cars running to and from South Boston start from City Point and return there; that the Field's Corner and Meeting House Hill lines start from Dorchester street and return there, and not to cross Broadway; that suitable shelters be provided for waiting patrons; that time tables be provided and put in conspicuous places that people can see and read them; more frequent trips on all lines.

We respectfully urge his Honor the Mayor and City Council not to grant the permission to allow the carrying of freight and express packages at all until these much needed and absolutely necessary changes are made.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to his Honor Mayor Fitzgerald and the honorable City Council and the president and directors of the Boston Elevated Railway.

Yours truly,

HENRY J. D. SMALL, Secretary.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

PLANS FOR NEW CITY HALL.

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, March 27, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit a communication from George

H. Ingraham, Esq., relating to a plan which he has made for building a new City Hall on property occupied by the Natural History Building and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Boston, Mass., March 20, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,

Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—I have a matter which I should like to bring to your attention, and which I discussed with your secretary, and at his suggestion I am putting the information in writing. I left with him a scheme for building a new City Hall on the property occupied by the Natural History Building and the Institute of Technology. You are aware that the Institute of Technology is interested to sell its present property and move to a new site, but one of the restrictions on the present property on Boylston street is that the abutters have certain legal rights so that the property cannot be built except on one-third of the area. This, of course, hampers the sale of the property for business purposes. In building a building of the character of a City Hall it would, of course, be necessary to have some grounds around the building to set it off. If this property was taken by the city, the city would benefit the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in disposing of its site. As other cities have been endeavoring to take away from Boston the Institute of Technology, it seems to me that the City of Boston should make every effort to retain the institute in our city. It, therefore, seems to me that the site occupied by Technology and the Natural History Building is an admirable location for a new City Hall in view of the fact that the business of Boston is gradually extending into this section; also, there is a possibility of the Boylston Street Subway being built, enabling a City Hall station to be made in connection with the new building, and the new building would also be very near the geographical center of real Boston. I left a suggestive sketch with your secretary, showing the size of the building which could be built on one-third the area of this property; also, in connection therewith, the area of the present City Hall, and an elevation of the City Hall from Boylston street. These are mere suggestions, and if the building was built on this property, further studies of plans, details and elevations would be necessary. I might also add that the tower contemplated on this new building would be in such a position to be almost directly on the axis of Huntington avenue, so that one could obtain a vista down Huntington avenue from this tower.

In regard to the expense of this proposition, I have worked this out on the assessed values of the new site, and the present property occupied by the city in and about City Hall, which I have figured out on the inclosed sheet, showing an extra cost to the city for the new building of $454,600, taking the proposed improvements on the present old Court House Building as $800,000.

I simply submit this for your consideration as a possible solution of the question of the City Hall for the City of Boston, and a benefit also to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and not with any idea of trying to secure the commission for the building, although if the project was considered favorably by the city, I should expect to be shown the proper courtesy for the suggestion.

Yours very truly,

GEORGE HUNT INGRAHAM.

March 27, 1911.

To the Honorable the Mayor:

In connection with the attached communication from the Executive Committee of the honorable City Council, I beg to say that I am rather surprised that a matter of such vital importance as the disposal of the city refuse was not given more consideration. The problem of the disposal of city refuse strikes me as the most important problem which this administration has to settle. This is a matter which vitally affects the health and comfort of the inhabitants of Boston.

I would respectfully call your attention to section 6 of "An Act Relating to the Administration of the City of Boston and to an end the Charter of the Said City," passed in 1909. Said section provides that "no contract . . . for the collection, removal or disposal of refuse, extending over a period of more than one year from the date thereof, shall be valid without the approval of the mayor and the city council after a public hearing held by the city council, of which at least seven days' notice shall have been given in the City Record." It would certainly seem to me that the proposal of the Boston Disposal Company was serious enough to warrant the honorable City Council in complying with section 6 of said act and giving a public hearing on the matter before rejecting the proposal of said company. Further, in connection with the recommendation of the Executive Committee, said committee recommends that the Commissioner of Public Works "be requested to advertise in at least the ten largest cities in the United States, so as to invite bids from all sections, and that contractors be invited in said advertisements to submit definite propositions for the disposal of garbage, refuse and combustible waste, by reduction, incineration or otherwise." In connection with this recommendation, I would respectfully call the attention of the honorable City Council to section 29 of said act, which provides that all advertising in connection with contracts for work, etc., shall be done exclusively in the City Record.

Respectfully yours,
L. K. ROUBEK,
Commissioner of Public Works.
Referred to the Executive Committee.

DESTRUCTION OF MOTHS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 27, 1911.
To the City Council:
Owing to the demands that have been made by citizens' associations and others for a more effective treatment of the gypsy and brown-tail moth problem, I desire to recommend that the sum of fifteen thousand two hundred dollars ($15,200) be added to the appropriation for the Public Grounds Department. A letter of the Superintendent of Public Grounds, appended hereto, gives this figure as his estimate of the cost of purchase, equipment and maintenance of five spraying machines.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.
Public Grounds Department,
March 27, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of the City of Boston:
Dear Sir,—In compliance with your suggestion to submit an estimate of the cost for additional equipments for effectually suppressing the gypsy and brown-tail moths, I beg to say that the purchase of five new high power spraying machines, fully equipped, horses, labor, spraying material, etc., will require fifteen thousand two hundred dollars ($15,200).

Respectfully submitted,
D. H. SULLIVAN, Superintendent.
Referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

GENERAL IMPROVEMENTS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 27, 1911.
To the City Council:
The recent payment of a check for nearly a half a million dollars into the city treasury by the executors of the late Quincy A. Shaw estate leads me to suggest that the time is ripe for a broad general plan of improvements to meet the urgent demands in the different sections of the city. In my opinion the sum of one million dollars ($1,000,000) might be profitably spent in this manner. I would emphasize particularly the need of playgrounds, civic centers, convenience stations and drinking fountains in the following list, which I submit for your consideration.

East Boston:
Branch library.
Public landing.
Courthouse and police station.

Charlestown:
Branch library.
Courthouse and police station.
Playground, Ward 5.
Indoor bath house, Ward 3.
North and West Ends:
Branch library, Ward 6.
Convenience stations and drinking fountains, Ward 8.
South End:
Playground and civic center, Wards 7 and 9.
Convenience station and drinking fountain, Washington and Dover streets.
South Boston:
Municipal building.
Sanitary and locker building, Strandway Playground.
Roxbury:
Municipal building near Dudley Street Terminal.
Convenience station near Vine Street Church.
Enlargement of Orchard Park.
Playground on Parker Hill.
Fire protection for Parker Hill.
Drinking fountains in congested districts.
Dorchester:
Playground on Meeting House Hill.
Open-air gymnasium on Franklin Field.
Police station.
Convenience stations at Upham's Corner and Field's Corner.
West Roxbury:
Remodeling of Curtis Hall.
Playground, Jamaica Plain.
Playground, Forest Hills.
Civic center, West Roxbury.
Brighton:
Fire station, Oak square.
Civic center.

For some of these items appropriations already exist, namely:

East Boston:
Courthouse and police station.
Charlestown:
Branch library.
Bath house.
Roxbury:
Playground on Parker Hill.
West Roxbury:
Remodeling of Curtis Hall.

Transfers might also be made from the two loan appropriations for Bathing Establishment, Ward 15, and Land and Buildings, Sanitary and Street Cleaning Division, Dorchester, as these two appropriations have lain dormant for many years. By drawing upon the borrowing capacity of the city to the amount of about four hundred thousand dollars ($400,000), and using the income received from the Quincy A. Shaw estate, a round million would be available for the carrying out of this program. Estimates could readily be obtained from the departments affected and the items for different sections might be so correlated as to blend into a harmonious scheme.

Should your honorable body see fit to adopt this suggestion and through its committees to prepare such a careful report as the importance of the subject demands, I shall be glad to make the necessary recommendations for appropriation orders, when I have been favored with a statement of your views.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

The communication was referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

"The city shall (1) pay to the company the fair value of the entire plant, such value to be fixed at the beginning of the contract by expert accountants, payments to be made by the city in annual instalments, in accordance with compound interest tables; (2) pay to the company annually 6 per cent on the above value; (3) pay to the company annually the annual deficit of the company, not to exceed a certain fixed maximum, such deficit being the difference between the operating expenses of the company, and the profits made from the sales of the waste or its products. The maximum deficit in the beginning can be ascertained by estimates and possibly by a six months' trial. Provision for the increased operating expenses due to the growth of the city can be made by having the maximum deficit increased a certain fixed amount for every additional ton of waste disposed of; (4) pay each year to the company one-half of any reduction made in the year in the annual deficit, the other half to go to the city."

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE REPORTS.

Coun. BALLANTYNE, for the Executive Committee, submitted the following:

(1) Reports on petitions (severally referred to-day) for permits for children under fifteen years of age to appear at various places of amusement—that permits be granted, viz.:

Charles N. Woodbury, for children to appear at Appleton M. E. Church on March 28.

Horace M. Farrow, for children to appear at Bethel M. E. Church on evening of March 30.

Fred Thompson Bridge, for children to appear at Jordan Hall on May 12.

Reports severally accepted; permits granted on the usual conditions.

(2) Reports on order (referred to-day) that the Commissioner of Public Works be authorized to allow half holidays on Saturdays to all employees whose services can be dispensed with, without loss of pay, during the present financial year—that the order ought to pass.

The question came on accepting the report and passing the order.

Coun. SMITH—I hope an amendment which I shall offer will be accepted by the Council, providing that the order shall read, instead of "the Commissioner of Public Works," "the heads of all departments." That would simply mean that the order shall apply to all departments, instead of to one. I think that is only fair to the body of employees throughout the city. We should not single out one department and treat it in preference to others. So I should like to offer this amendment.

Coun. Smith's amendment to strike out "Commissioner of Public Works" and insert in place thereof "heads of all departments" was declared carried on a rising vote, 5 to 2, and the question came on the passage of the order as amended.

The order as amended was passed by a rising vote, 5 to 2.

(3) Report on message of Mayor and communication from Boston, England (referred March 20), relative to flag for Old Brigade of Boston, England,—that the same be placed on file.

Report accepted; order passed.

(5) Report on message of Mayor, communication and order (referred March 20) authorizing sale of horses in Public Works Department—recommending passage of order in the following new draft:

Ordered, That the Commissioner of Public Works be, and hereby is, authorized to sell at public auction about fifty horses now in the custody of the department, at various intervals during the present fiscal year.

Report accepted; order passed.

Coun. McDONALD, for the Committee on Ordinances, submitted a report on the message of Mayor and ordinance (referred to-day) amending section 1 of chapter 9 of the Ordinances of 1910, recommending the passage of said ordinance with the following amendments: In line three strike out the word "may" and insert the word "shall"; in line twenty-one strike out the word "may" and insert the word "shall."

Coun. CURLEY offered the following substitute: Section 1, chapter 9, of the Ordinances of 1910, is hereby amended by inserting after the word "substances" in the seventeenth line the words "store dirt, paper, and combustible refuse from mercantile and manufacturing establishments." (See Document 167, 1910.)

The report was accepted, and the question came on the adoption of the substitute offered by Coun. Curley.

The substitute was declared rejected by a rising vote, 2 to 5. Coun. Buckley doubted the vote and asked for the yeas and nays, and the substitute was rejected, yeas 2, nays 6, Coun. Buckley and Curley voting yeas.

The question came on the passage of the order as reported.

President COLLINS offered an order—That the President of the City Council be and hereby is authorized to approve the bills incurred by the City Council in connection with hearings held in the following-named high school halls, being each for five dollars ($5), the same to be charged to the appropriation for City Council, Incidental Expenses:

East Boston High School, February 6, 1911; Brighton High School, February 10, 1911; Dorchester High School, February 13, 1911; Charlestown High School, February 14, 1911; South Boston High School, February 15, 1911; West Roxbury High School, February 16, 1911.

HIGH PRESSURE SERVICE.

Coun. SMITH offered the following:
Resolved, That the City Council of Boston favors the passage of the bill now before the Committee on Cities enabling the City of Boston to appropriate and spend money for a higher pressure fire service.
Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, as I understand this bill it is one that the Mayor has introduced for high pressure water protection to the city, especially in the downtown district. Coming on top of the disaster in New York, it seems to me we ought to give weight to this bill, give it immediate attention. It has been passed upon by various Fire Commissioners and ex-Fire Commissioners, and I offer the resolution to-day, not in order that we may form a quick judgment on the bill, but simply to bring it before the body. I would ask to have it referred to the next meeting of the Council, simply to give the Council time to look into the matter.
The resolution was assigned to the next meeting of the Council.

RESOLVE CONCERNING PORT OF BOSTON.

Coun. CURLEY offered the following:
Resolved, That in the opinion of the Boston City Council the advancement of the commercial interests of the port of Boston require that the restrictions upon the loan of $3,000,000, authorized by the Legislature, for the development of land owned by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts at East Boston, be removed, as recommended in the inaugural of his Excellency Governor Eugene N. Foss.
The question came on the adoption of the resolution.
The resolution was passed.

GENERAL RECONSIDERATION.

On motion of Coun. ATTRIDGE the Council, refused a general reconsideration of all action taken to-day.

Adjourned, on motion of Coun. ATTRIDGE, at 6.54 p. m., to meet on Monday, April 3, at three o'clock p. m.

WILL START A MUNICIPAL RESTAURANT.

Kansas city is going into the restaurant business and no longer will those who visit Swope Park, in this city, forgetting to take their lunch, be compelled to go hungry while they roam over the 1,324 acres within its confines. The City Park Board has decided that hereafter a real old-fashioned country dinner will be served on the grounds during the summer. The lunch stand, which has heretofore been leased, will be operated by the city and, besides the dinner, meals can be obtained at any time. Charges for the food sold at the park will be regulated so as to only pay the actual expense of the business. As all city employees must take the civil service examination, the cooks, waitresses and waiters will have to pass this before they can be employed. All of the equipment used in a first-class restaurant will be purchased by the city for use in its café.—Municipal Journal and Engineer.

AUTO PAY CAR IS PLANNED.

An ordinance to equip the city of St. Louis with an automobile pay car, in which representatives of the City Treasurer will travel to the city institutions and other outlying districts to pay off city employees, was introduced into the council at a recent session. The automobile is to be assigned to the City Treasurer's office, and is to be equipped with a stationary strong box for safeguarding the funds transported and stations for armed guards. An appropriation of $4,000 is carried by the bill.—Municipal Journal and Engineer.

FREE MUNICIPAL CONCERTS.

There will be no municipal concert during the coming week. During the following week a trio concert will be given at the Girls' Latin School, Huntington avenue, on the evening of April 18. The schedule for the balance of the season is printed below, and consists of three trio concerts and an organ recital. The last orchestral concert of the season was given on Friday evening, April 7, at Faneuil Hall.

We are glad to announce that the Directors of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, on Falmouth and St. Paul streets, have very kindly granted to the trustees the use of their magnificent church and organ for the purpose of giving a free organ recital on Monday evening, April 24, 1911. This concert will be one of the most important ever given by this department, and from the demand already made for tickets will be highly successful. Prof. John A. O'Shea will preside at the organ and will render a program that will demonstrate the various tones and powers of this grandest of all musical instruments.

Tickets may be obtained at the office of the Music Trustees and at the various branch ticket offices throughout the city

LAND VALUES TAXATION.

In the course of an interesting communication to us, Mr. John G. Nixon, assessor and superintendent at the Rate Department, Corporation Offices, New-castle-on-Tyne, comments upon the statement made at the Council of the English League for the Taxation of Land Values, "that the taxation of land values (that is, the raising of all rates and taxes on the land value and not upon the buildings) is no new idea, for bills for the taxation of land values had been before the House of Commons on behalf of municipalities for a long period, and that from 1902 to 1906 on three separate occasions the second reading had been carried by good majorities in a House of Commons overwhelmingly Conservative." These statements, Mr. Nixon points out, are entirely misleading and incorrect. The bills alluded to have very little in common with the land clauses of the Finance Act (1909-1910). The Land Value Assessment and Rating Bill, which was presented in the House of Commons by Mr. Trevelyan and supported by Mr. Harwood Banner, Mr. Bell, Sir John Brunner, Dr. Macnamara, Sir John Woodhouse, and others, was a well-considered bill of only eleven clauses. It did not deal with (1) increment duty, reversion duty, or duty on mineral rights; (2) the annual value of all hereditaments had to be taken as the basis of assessment, and not the capital value; (3) the bill did not apply to rural districts, but was confined to London and boroughs and urban districts of England and Wales; (4) and, what is perhaps the more important from a municipal point of view, the produce of the land value assessments had to go to swell the funds of the local and not the imperial exchequer. Therefore to say that the principle of the taxation of land values is not new, and, to quote the land value bills, which found support from both sides of the House of Commons, as an argument to justify the land value clause of Part I. of the Finance Act, is a complete distortion of the facts of the case. It is also asserted that municipal and rating authorities generally for the last twenty years have been agitating for the taxation of land values. "This is quite true, but one rather suspects that if the municipalities had known that the Chancellor of the Exchequer intended to commandeer the whole produce of the land value taxes for imperial purposes, the large expenses incurred on sending deputations to the numerous conferences throughout the kingdom would have been saved. It will be admitted that it was the persistent effort put forth by the local authorities at the various conferences that made the taxation of land values possible."—Municipal Journal.

NATIONAL CONFERENCE ON CITY PLANNING.

The Third National Conference on City Planning will be held this year at Philadelphia, May 15, 16 and 17. Since the very successful conference at Rochester in May, 1910, the value of such a meeting is becoming more generally recognized not only among architects and engineers but among city officials of broad view, and business organizations of progressive spirit. Prepared papers will serve merely to guide the discussion into specific channels and avoid waste of time in random talk.

Among the papers which will be presented are the following: "Street Widths and Their Subdivisions for Various Purposes," Mr. Nelson P. Lewis, Chief Engineer Board of Estimates and Apportionment, New York City; Mr. John Nolen, Fellow A. S. L. A., Cambridge, Mass.; Mr. Charles Mulford Robinson, Rochester, N. Y. "The Principles of a Uniform American City Planning Art," Andrew Wright Crawford, Esq., Associate City Solicitor, Philadelphia; and "Taxes, Assessments and Condemnation," Hon. Lawson Purdy, LL. D., President Department Taxes and Assessments, New York City. In connection with the conference the first municipal exhibit of city planning will be held at City Hall, to which councils have appropriated $10,000. A city planning automobile tour of the city is being planned for the members of the conference and specially invited guests.

A cordial invitation is extended to all who are interested in city planning to attend the sessions of the conference. For further information regarding the program, or details of membership, inquire of the secretary, Flavel Shurtleff, 19 Congress street, Boston, Mass.

POSTAL BOXES IN CARS.

Washington, D. C., soon may have street car letter boxes. The scheme already has been tried successfully in several other cities. Announcement was made at the Post Office Department recently that the local street railway companies are being communicated with regarding the installation of letter boxes on each car passing the city post office or any of its substations. At first but a few mail boxes will be installed, but if the idea is found feasible, the boxes will be placed on a majority of the street cars of Washington, according to present plans. Passengers can post their letters on the street cars without the necessity of alighting and looking for a mail box. The boxes can be emptied every time the cars pass the post office and the delivery of mail expedited.—Municipal Journal and Engineer.

BUILDINGS, STRANDWAY PLAYGROUND.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 31, 1911.

To the City Council:

Permit me to call your attention to a loan appropriation amounting to fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) for Bathing Establishment, Ward 15, which has long lain dormant. In the meantime the Strandway Playground, which is in the same ward, has been developed and is more and more frequented each year. The need of a locker and sanitary building on that playground has been felt for some time, and I beg to recommend the passage of the accompanying order, transferring the sum of twenty thousand dollars ($20,000) from this appropriation to an appropriation for Locker and Sanitary Building, Strandway Playground.

Letters from the secretary of the South Boston Citizens Association, the chairman of the Board of Park Commissioners and the secretary of said Board, favoring this transfer and giving estimates and comparative figures, are attached hereto.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

South Boston Citizens Association,
February 18, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor,
City Hall, Boston:

Dear Sir,—At the last meeting of the South Boston Citizens Association vote was passed favoring the division of the $50,000 Ward 15 bath house fund, and favoring the expending $25,000 for a building to contain lockers, shower baths and sanitary arrangements on McNary Park and the remainder to form a nucleus for a municipal building in South Boston.

Yours truly,
HENRY J. D. SMALL, Secretary.

Board of Commissioners of the Department of Parks,
March 22, 1911.

Mr. William A. Leahy, Secretary,
Mayor's Office, City Hall, Boston:

Dear Sir,—In answer to your inquiry about the cost of sanitary buildings, the Franklin Field Building has cost $39,629.87; Columbus Avenue Building Sanitary and Locker Building, $12,212.77; William Eustis Sanitary Building will cost about $14,000.

Yours truly,
GEORGE F. CLARKE, Secretary.

Board of Commissioners of the Department of Parks,
March 18, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor,
City Hall, Boston:

Dear Sir,—Your message making inquiries regarding a locker building at the Strandway Playground, made through Mr. Clarke, our secretary, has been received.

In reply I would say that our letter in the summer of 1909 to Mayor Hibbard and the Board of Aldermen discussed the subject of a locker building for that playground, and it was then proposed to include in it a gymnasium and bath and apply to it a fund of $50,000, which had been appropriated by the city for a municipal gymnasium and bath in Ward 15, but which sum was inadequate to build such a building and buy a lot. By placing it on the Strandway Playground the latter expense was to be avoided.

In the spring of 1910 the matter was again brought up in the City Council, and the Park Commission urged very strongly that a sanitary and locker building on the Strandway Playground was very much needed, and it was then thought that a portion of such a building as would be ultimately needed might be then built for perhaps $14,000, and we again suggested that the money already appropriated for the bath house in Ward 15 might be used here and all these utilities thus be housed on the Strandway Playground, and we had some correspondence with you on this general subject in April, 1910.

There can be no question but that there is need of a locker and sanitary building on the Strandway Playground, which is already large and much used and which eventually is to be a very important playground. It would be possible to build a part of a future building, as has been heretofore suggested, but it doubtless would be better, if the money can be had, to build a reasonably large building which would serve the increasing needs for some time to come. We should suggest that the most appropriate thing to do would be to build a building somewhere in cost between that just completing on the William Eustis Playground and the larger building that is at Franklin Field. The sum of $25,000 would do this satisfactorily, and if you find it possible to transfer also the Ward 15 appropriation for bath house, so that it could be built at the same time and in the same character of design, so as to form one group of buildings, we think the whole would form a very useful structure.

Yours truly,
ROBERT S. PEABODY, Chairman.

Ordered, That the sum of twenty thousand dollars ($20,000) be transferred from the appropriation for Bathing Establishment, Ward 15, to an appropriation for Locker and Sanitary Building, Strandway Playground, said appropriation to be expended under the direction of the Board of Park Commissioners.

Referred to the Executive Committee, on motion of Coun. KENNY.

SALE OF VOTING BOOTHS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 30, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to recommend the passage of the accompanying order authorizing the Board of Election so that the additional sum of two hundred and thirty thousand dollars ($230,000), which is needed to complete the plans for the Aquarium at Marine Park and the Zoological Garden at Franklin Park, should be provided before June 1, 1912, the date on which the Board hopes to open the latter institution to the public.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Board of Commissioners of the Department of Parks,
March 22, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor,
City Hall, Boston, Mass.:

Dear Sir,—At the end of our annual report recently handed to you the plans we have in mind for the establishing of the Aquarium and Zoological Garden are described. We inclose herewith a copy of this portion of our report and respectfully ask you to hand it to the Committee on the Parkman Fund of the City Council so that they may consider it and tell us as early as possible whether we can follow the program there described. We need this information because we can very shortly begin construction work on plans now being well advanced.

Yours very truly,
ROBERT S. PEABODY, Chairman.

In our last report we suggested various methods of creating attractions in Franklin Park. Very soon thereafter the opportunity presented itself for establishing the Zoological Garden at Franklin Park and the Aquarium at South Boston to be paid for from the Parkman Fund, and we made a report to you and the City Council some months since regarding the designs for these. Since then we have carefully studied in greater detail the aquarium building. Our advisers have visited New York, Washington and Detroit and have consulted with the authorities there, and we have engaged Dr. Bean of Albany to review our drawings and advise with us regarding them. We hope to start on building the aquarium as soon as the season opens. We have also worked over in detail the general plan for the Zoological Garden in Franklin Park and the more detailed designs for winter bird house; the summer outdoor flying cage or aviary; the duck pond; the bear den and also dens for various other animals. Mr. Hornaday, the director of the Bronx Zoological Gardens, has at our request been a second time to Boston, reviewed all our work and advised with us professionally and to our great advantage. We offer the following program as what we should like to do as regards the Zoological Garden.

We desire to open the Zoological Garden on June 1, 1912. In that event we should not accept any animals before April 1, 1912. The whole of 1911 and the entire spring of 1912 would be required for preparations. On June 1, 1912, we should like to have two good buildings ready, namely, the bird house and the building that would finally be the deer house but which temporarily would contain any animals requiring indoor care. The accompanying plan will show where after mature study we now plan to place these different buildings and dens, etc., with which to start the Zoological Park. The estimate for all this preparation would be as follows:

Commissioners to sell certain iron voting booths which are no longer required for the purposes of the Election Department.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Ordered, That the Board of Election Commissioners be, and hereby are, authorized to sell at public auction or private sale certain iron voting booths, which are no longer required for the purposes of the Election Department.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

MUNICIPAL LIGHTING PLANT.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 1, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit a letter from the secretary of the Boston Central Labor Union proposing a plan for the ownership and operation of a municipal lighting plant, by which in his opinion the city could save about two hundred thousand dollars ($200,000) in the course of ten years.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Boston Central Labor Union,
Boston, March 23, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—We herewith inclose a copy of a plan and schedule for ownership and operation of a municipal lighting plant for the City of Boston, a copy of same is now in the hands of the Commissioner of Public Works, Hon. Louis K. Rourke, for his consideration and action.

In view of the fact that the schedule is based on actual prices and consumption of supplies and shows that its adoption by the city means a saving to the public funds of nearly two hundred thousand dollars of the taxpayers' money over the lowest bid submitted to the city, and in view of the fact that with the saving of nearly two hundred thousand dollars of the taxpayers' money the citizens will receive a superior lighting of the streets and the lamplighters a fair wage for work performed, we ask your Honor to indorse this plan and schedule for the ownership and operation of a municipal lighting plant, as a measure based on sound business principles; an economic administration of the public funds; an improved public service; and fair treatment to the public employee.

Prior to the present contract, lamplighters received $2.25 per diem; when prices were lowered their wage was cut to $2 per day.

If lower prices prevail, a similar reduction will take place. It will be an actual profit to the city, save money, and bring wages to $2.25, besides a guarantee of better lighting, and have it under city control.

Very respectfully,
HENRY ABRAHAMS, Secretary.

Mr. Louis K. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works,
City of Boston:

Cost of ownership and operation (including charges for purchase, interest, maintenance and depreciation) of a municipal lighting plant:

Depreciation of plant, $2,000 per year, per lamp per year.....	18
Total cost of ownership, maintenance, operation and depreciation, per lamp per year.....	20 58
Lowest bid submitted to city for street lighting, per lamp per year.....	22 30
Saving to the city by establishment of municipal lighting plant, per lamp per year.....	1 72
Saving to city in one year by establishing municipal lighting plant.....	18,920 00
Saving to city in ten years, the life of proposed contract, by establishing a municipal lighting plant.....	189,200 00
Deducting cost of plant.....	126,500 00
Leaving to the city at end of contract term a complete lighting plant free from all debt, and a surplus of cash amounting to.....	62,700 00

The lighting plant, as suggested above, will permit of the attachment of an automatic lighting machine whenever in the judgment of the city officials such attachment would be for the interests of the city.

PLAYGROUND, ROXBURY CROSSING.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 1, 1911.

To the City Council:

As a result of a public hearing given in Tremont Hall last Thursday evening upon the need of playground accommodations in the district about Roxbury Crossing, I have come to the conclusion that the appropriation already made for this purpose will not be sufficient. In my opinion the district is so congested and the population is so lacking in opportunities for recreation that a second playground should be provided, in addition to the one for which an appropriation has already been made.

I would ask your honorable body to consider this subject and desire to assure you that I shall be heartily in favor of the expenditure of any reasonable sum which will be required for this purpose.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit an important communication from the Fire Commissioner, inclosing a copy of a proposed amendment to the city ordinances.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Fire Department, March 28, 1911.

Mayor:

Sir,—This department has made a careful study of the fire limits of the City of Boston. We find a concurrence of opinion on all sides that now is the right time to materially extend the area inside of which only buildings of first or second class construction are permissible.

This matter has been given the careful consideration of the engineers of the National Board of Fire

Underwriters, who recently investigated the Fire Department condition in this city; and it has also had the consideration of the secretary of the local Board of Fire Underwriters.

I inclose herewith a copy of the proposed amendment to the city ordinances.

This amendment extends the fire limits to include all of Charlestown and a large part of the old portions of South Boston and East Boston. It also extends the present fire limits of the city from a line running through the center of Ruggles street to a line running through the center of Dudley street.

This department requests that this matter be brought to the attention of the City Council for their careful consideration.

Very respectfully,
CHARLES D. DALY,
Fire Commissioner.

BRANCH LIBRARY, NORTH END.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, April 1, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit a communication from the president of the Library Trustees, accompanied by a report from the trustees and a colored drawing referring to the need of a new branch library in the North End, and giving estimates of the cost of such a building if erected upon an estate on North Bennet street.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

The Public Library,
Boston, March 21, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor:

My dear Mr. Mayor,—I am sending with this a communication from the Library Trustees with regard to the establishment of a branch library in Ward 6. I hoped to be able to bring it to you personally, so that I might state to you by word of mouth how strongly the trustees feel in favor of doing what they recommend in this communication. I have no doubt, however, it will appeal to you as it does to them, and I therefore send this letter rather than wait for a personal interview, which, owing to your engagements and mine, I am unable to obtain to-day.

I should be glad, however, to call on you for a few minutes with regard to the matter at any time when you can make an appointment to-morrow.

Mr. Kenney, Mr. Carr and Mr. Boyle have all personally examined into this matter, and are very much in favor of acquiring the property and making a branch library at the North End. Either of them would be glad to call upon you with reference to the matter at any time you may desire to see them, I have no doubt. I remain,

Yours sincerely,
J. H. BENTON.

The Public Library,
Boston, March 17, 1911.

To His Honor John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of the City of Boston:

Sir,—The Trustees of the Public Library of the City of Boston have the honor to submit this communication with reference to the need of further library accommodations for that part of the city known as the North End, substantially within the limits of Ward 6.

The trustees have maintained a reading room in the building occupied by the North Bennet Street Industrial School at 39 North Bennet street, which was opened November 3, 1899. It has never been satisfactory for library purposes, but was the best that could be obtained with the means at the disposal of the trustees. In their fifty-eighth annual report, for the year 1909-10, they stated that "these rooms are wholly inadequate for library purposes."

They have also maintained since June 9, 1903, a reading room on the ground floor of the building at 207 North street, which was adequate for its purpose although inconvenient and not suitable in many respects for proper library service. This building, however, has been sold and the tenancy of the library terminated by the new owner. All the library accommodations for this part of the city are now necessarily supplied at the North Bennet street reading room, where some additional room has been obtained, but only for temporary purposes. It will be seen, therefore, that the provision for library service for the people of the North End of the city is wholly inadequate, and there is imperative need that something should be done without delay to provide that part of the city with such library service as the people obviously have a right to expect. It was the opinion of the trustees, as expressed in their fifty-eighth annual report, transmitted to your Honor in February, 1910, that "there should be a building for a new branch at the North End at an early date," and they are of the same opinion now, the need for such accommodations being even more imperative than at the time this report was made. The situation is so fully set forth in the report of the examining committee, appended to the report of the trustees recently transmitted to your Honor, that we beg leave to refer to that as a fair statement of the situation. We quote from the report of the subcommittee, who made careful personal examination of the situation and whose report was adopted by the full committee. They say:

"Ward 6 is set off by itself, at a considerable distance from any other station of the library. Even the West End Branch is more than a mile away through the crowded, busy streets, where children could not be safely sent even in daylight; and the Central Library in Copley square is inaccessible for either children or adults without the payment of two car fares.

"In the industrial school at 39 North Bennet street there have been two small rooms given to the use of the library from 4 till 10 p. m. The rooms are respectively 24 feet by 25 and 24 feet by 26.5. A record is kept of the number of persons who come to the place for reading and of those who come to take or return books. The rooms are so small and so crowded that scarcely any effort has been or should have been made to increase the use of them. Nevertheless, the custodian reports the following remarkable figures for the months of November and December, 1910:

	ATTENDANCE.		BORROWERS.
	November.	December.	November.	December.
Smallest daily number.....	114	199	75	61
Largest daily number.....	412	453	249	266
Average daily number.....	287	323	160	176
Average weekly number.....	1,790	1,753	1,035	1,056
Total for month.....	7,190	6,699	4,142	4,573

"About one-fifth of the number of borrowers is included also in the recorded attendance. Eliminating this duplication the number of applicants served at this station of the library during the two months of November and December, 1910, is thus shown to be 20,861. The deposit of books at North Bennet street has been a very small one because of scanty room, and the demands of the readers have been filled chiefly by books ordered from the Central Library. Every morning a long list of these orders was sent out, and the following tables show the number of books distributed during the months of November and December, 1910, from the Central Library:

Distribution of books from the Central Library at North Bennet street:

	November.	December.
Smallest daily number....	23	17
Largest daily number....	78	73
Average daily number....	49	48
Average weekly number....	294	288
Total for month.....	1,176	1,248

"The books delivered from the Central Library to this reading room during the two months of November and December, 1910, numbered 2,424. Thus here children have been obliged to order books largely from the Central Library, without the opportunity of looking over the books—a marked contrast with the opportunities for children at the Central Library and some branches.

"The most striking proof, however, of the book hunger of the children of Ward 6 cannot be put into figures. It is to be seen by anyone who will go to the reading rooms in the afternoon of any winter day. Let any warm-hearted student of social conditions go to the North Bennet street reading room at the hour when the boxes of books come in from the Central Library. Let the visitor stand for a half hour at the delivery desk, and watch the eager faces and the outstretched hands of the children. The bright-eyed Italian boy, the keen-faced Jewish girl, the Greek or Portuguese is often ragged and ill-fed, and bears the marks of the home where severe poverty cramps and dwarfs the life; but if the boxes contained sweetmeats or toys, they would hardly be more joyously greeted than are these piles of rusty books. Among the children whom we call happier than those who fill North Bennet street there are too many who must be coaxed or driven to taste the joy of reading. But in North Bennet street the worn, shabby book is the key to a palace of delight, and the crowded rooms are positively ablaze with the sheer happiness which radiates from the faces of the scores of reading boys and girls. There is surely no part of our city where the hunger for books is so keen and so universal as among the crowded tenements of the North End, where the children of twenty different nations are being made—well made or ill made—into American men and women.

"So much for the nature of the need for books and for a place to read them. Now we must pass to some consideration of the extent of that need. Let us set down a few figures, representing actual conditions in Ward 6. The population of Ward 6, according to the census of 1910, is 35,758. This has not yet been classified as to place of birth, but by applying the percentages obtained from the state census of 1905, it is possible to reach a result which shall be substantially correct. We may say, accordingly, that the Italians comprise 67 per cent (23,957), the Hebrews 18 per cent (6,436), the Irish 7 per cent (2,503) and that the remaining 8 per cent is distributed among several different nationalities. About one-sixth of the population (in round numbers, 6,000) consists of children between the ages of five and fifteen. There are eighteen public school buildings in the ward, at which 7,361 pupils are in attendance. Some of these, of course, live outside the ward boundaries, but would naturally use the library agencies, as they use the schools within the ward.

"The congestion of population in this quarter of the city is very great. Ward 6 contains one and nineteen hundredths per cent of the land area of the city, and five and thirty-three hundredths per cent of the city's population is found in it. The number of dwelling houses (exclusive of hotels) is 1,513, and allowing for the nine unoccupied houses the resident population approximates twenty-four to each house. The average in the city at large is a little less than ten persons in a house. About one-third of the families in the ward are living in tenements of two rooms each, and about one-third in tenements of three rooms each. This congestion is increasing rather than diminishing. Conditions as to sanitation may have improved slightly in ten years, but the increase in population during the last five years is nearly twenty per cent, while the gain in the city at large has been but twelve per cent. Five years ago the population in Ward 6 numbered about 102 to the acre. To-day it averages 122 persons to the acre as against 27 per acre in the city at large. This acreage includes, of course, the streets and all open spaces, but even so it will be seen that Ward 6 has an extraordinary congestion.

"Anyone familiar with the city knows that there has been no increase of living space in the North End in the last five years, or, indeed, in the last decade. The land was all built over many years ago, and the tenements were full to overflowing when the state census was taken in 1905. Yet since that time more than five thousand persons have been added to that teeming population.

"The committee finds, then, in Ward 6 a large and increasing population, made up chiefly of foreign-born elements, having a large number of children, and these children notable among the city's girls and boys as having eager, acquisitive and ambitious minds. Their longing for books amounts to a passion. They find in reading all the romance and imaginative experience for which childhood so ardently seeks. Moreover, the use of books by these children must in most cases be confined to the rooms provided by the city. Reading at home is impossible for a twelve-year-old boy when his five younger brothers and sisters are crowded into a two-roomed tenement, in which all the domestic work of the household is conducted, and where the short winter days are lengthened only by the light of one kerosene lamp.

"Under all these circumstances, the cry for better library facilities for the North End of Boston should not go another year unheeded. Your committee feels thrust upon them the solemn responsibility of speaking for those who cannot speak for themselves. No child of the thousands who play on the streets of that part of the city should ask the City of Boston for a book and be sent empty-handed away.

"It is difficult to state the conditions, the need, the opportunity, too strongly. The chairman of this subcommittee will not soon forget a single incident which he witnessed in the squalid North street reading room. The books were being distributed from the big wooden chest, while the children crowded about as at the unearthing of hid treasure. One little chap on crutches waited impatiently in the background. It seemed as if the last book had been taken out when his thin voice cried, 'Oh, teacher, ain't my Brownie book come?' There was a whole world of bitter disappointment in his tone. Then from the very bottom of the box his Brownie book was brought forth, he snatched it, tucked it under his arm, swung bravely off on his crutches to a corner of a table, seated himself, buttressed his elbows on the table and his head on his hands, and in two minutes had left behind him lameness and poverty and ignorance, and had become one who might well be the envy of a king.

"The demand of these children is not only for fairy stories and for all the mass of imaginative material in the general class of 'juvenile literature,' but also for the books which open the world of nature and of art to their minds. 'A book all about moths,' 'a book where I can learn how to call the stars,' 'a book with pictures of the North Pole,' these are the sort of requests which pour into the ears of the attendants in the children's room in the North End. Surely if the city has any duty, she has a duty to the children of these newcomers who have yielded to her dangerous lure; and a first step in that duty is the satisfaction of their voracious hunger for books."

In this urgent state of affairs the trustees have deemed it their duty to ascertain whether some method could not be devised for providing the North End with suitable library accommodations, and to bring the same to your Honor's attention. They have therefore fully investigated the matter of obtaining land and building for a branch library at the North End. They find that the city can purchase an estate now occupied by the Church of St. John Baptist, on North Bennet street, comprising 4,980 feet of land with a substantial building thereon, for the assessed valuation of $38,000, and they have taken an option to the city to purchase the estate at any time within ninety days from March 15, 1911, at that price, which they believe to be reasonable. This estate is, in the judgment of the trustees, properly located to serve library purposes in Ward 6. It is near the main avenues of travel but sufficiently removed therefrom to avoid noise of street cars and teams. It is nearly opposite the open grounds connected with the municipal gymnasium, and in the vicinity of several large schools which would be served by the library station. The building is approximately 56 feet by 71 feet in size.

The trustees have had the building carefully examined by Messrs. Maginnis & Walsh, architects, who report to them that the walls and foundation are in good condition and of adequate thickness to permit remodeling for library purposes, and also that it is feasible to make such changes and reconstruction of the building as will provide two stories, each with a floor area of approximately 3,500 square feet, and a flat roof. Such reconstruction would give an adequate room for adults and a small hall seating about 325 persons on the first floor; and on the second floor good reading and reference rooms for children, with excellent top lighting. Provision can also be made if desired, for an open-air reading room upon the roof for summer use. New heating apparatus could be placed in the basement, which would also amply provide for storage and work rooms. The character of the building as thus remodeled is shown by a sketch of the front, provided by the architects, which is herewith transmitted. Rough plans of the interior as remodeled are in preparation but they are of substantially such changes as have been above indicated. The cost of making these changes in the building has been estimated by the architects at $38,000 for second-class construction, which in this case would, as we understand, be permitted, or $42,000 for first-class fireproof construction. The difference is so slight that we are of the opinion it would be better economy in the long run to adopt the fireproof method of construction. We append a copy of the estimate.

In conclusion we beg to say that in making this recommendation as to the needs of the North End we are not unmindful of the needs of various other parts of the city for improved library service, notably East Boston, the district served by the Broadway extension reading room, and Charlestown. But it is impossible that all these needs should be met at once, and we are of the opinion that the improvement which we suggest at the North End should be undertaken and carried out now, to the end that thereafter improvements of a similar character may be made in other parts of the city which may be found to require them and where they can be provided within the means at the command of the city.

We earnestly request, therefore, that an appropriation be made sufficient to enable the trustees to purchase the land at the price of $38,000, and to remodel the building at an expense of $42,000, making $80,000. In addition to this the appropriation should include $5,000 for the expense of fittings for the building for library use, making a total of $85,000, to accomplish the purpose the trustees deem desirable.

Respectfully,

J. H. BENTON, President.
(Inclosures.)

Estimate.

March 10, 1911.

Dear Sir,—We estimate the cost of remodeling the building on North Bennet street, in accordance with the sketches which we have made on the basis of the scheme suggested by you, at approximately $38,000 for second-class construction and $42,000 for first-class construction.

We ought to add that the building law will sanction second-class construction in this particular case. The difference in cost, however, is so slight that you may be disposed to accept our recommendation in favor of the fireproof method.

Very truly yours,

MAGINNIS & WALSH.

TAXATION OF TRUST SAVINGS.

Coun. SMITH offered the following:
Resolved, That the Boston City Council approve the immediate passage of House Bill 774 for taxing deposits in the savings banks departments of trust companies.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, I would like to ask Coun. Smith, through you, if that bill went through immediately, whether the City of Boston would get its taxes on those deposits for this year?

Coun. SMITH—No, it would not. I meant to make that plain. The tax is assessed as of April 1, and April 1 has passed; but it would operate for the coming year, and, while we may think the bill is sure to go through another year and this thing is not apt to happen again, nevertheless we thought that last year and were disappointed. It seems to me time to act upon this now, while the matter is before the Legislature, not waiting for the bill to be introduced a third time next year.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, I am heartily in favor of doing anything that will bring to Boston the taxes it ought to have. At the same time I am not so much in favor of taxing the deposits of poor people in savings bank institutions, people who are already bearing more than their share of the burdens of the community. It seems to me, however, that the Council has no right to interfere with legislative matters, that it has no right even to censure the members of the Legislature from Boston, no matter what their attitude has been. They are answerable to their constituents, just as we are answerable to ours. While it may be well sometimes to pass resolutions and send them to the Legislature, I do not believe that is what we were elected for by the citizens of Boston. I wanted to talk this way when other resolutions were introduced but because of certain things I kept my mouth closed and did not do so. But it seems to me we ought to get down to the business of the city and not interfere with the business of the Legislature. We are going a little too far. Let us get down to the real solid business of the city, for which we were sent here. I am in favor of passing this resolution to-day, or of anything that will bring to Boston that which it ought to have. But here we are just a shade too late. Why were these resolutions not introduced last week, when they might have been of some advantage to us if we could have hurried the Legislature up to pass the measure so that the City of Boston could have reaped the benefit this year.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I should like to offer an amendment if agreeable to Coun. Smith. That is, I would like to have the City Council instruct or request the members of the General Court who reside in the City of Boston to vote for this bill. I should like to offer that as an amendment. The resolution was amended by adding the words "and requests the representatives in the General Court from Boston to vote in favor of said bill."

The question came on adopting the resolution as amended.

The resolution as amended was adopted.

HIGHER PRESSURE SERVICE.

Coun. SMITH called up unfinished business, No. 3, viz.:

3. Resolved, That the City Council of Boston favors the passage of the bill now before the Committee on Cities enabling the City of Boston to appropriate and spend money for a higher pressure fire service.

The resolution was adopted.

GENERAL RECONSIDERATION.

Coun. BALLANTYNE moved a general reconsideration on all matters acted upon to-day, hoping the same would not prevail. Lost.

Adjourned at 6.41 p. m., to meet on Monday, April 10, at three o'clock p. m.

MORE PARKS FOR ST. LOUIS.

St. Louis has a City Plan Club which is the result of the movement for more parks, connecting and encircling boulevards and a better general city plan. There are twenty-eight parks, no two of which are connected by direct parked thoroughfares. Last November the proposition to create a park and boulevard reservation district of about 250 square miles was defeated, but it will be voted on again in 1912.

The new fifteen-mile boulevard known as the Kings highway will unite about 2,000 acres of the larger parks. It will be from 100 to 350 feet wide, most of it through existing streets, so that it will be necessary only to widen the thoroughfare and continue it and lay out the parking scheme. The most expensive section will be a monumental viaduct of reinforced concrete nearly half a mile long over several railroad tracks. A great variety of trees and shrubs will be used. The plans for the parking are under the care of Mr. George E. Kessler. Few single or scattered trees will be used, but groups of similar trees or shrubs will be placed along the parking spaces between streets.

Munroe, suggesting a more extended use of school buildings for various civic activities, the Finance Commission suggesting that the School Committee consider the subject and report directly to His Honor the Mayor.

Placed on file, and the Secretary directed to inform His Honor the Mayor that however favorably inclined the School Committee might be to the proposition, it is unable to proceed further than it does at present in the direction suggested without receiving additional money from other sources than those now available for school purposes.

DEATH OF ALBERT PERRY WALKER.

The Board unanimously directed that the following entry be made upon its minutes:

The School Committee has learned with regret of the death of Albert Perry Walker, late head-master of the Girls' High School, which took place on Mar. 28, 1911, and hereby records a brief appreciation of his long and faithful service in the public school system of Boston.

Mr. Walker was born in Alton Bay, N. H., in June, 1862, and entered the Boston service as a junior master in the English High School in September of 1887, where he subsequently attained the rank of master. On Jan. 23, 1905, he was transferred to a mastership in the Normal School.

Mr. Walker's ability and efficiency in these schools had marked him for further promotion when a suitable opportunity should present itself, and his election as head-master of the Girls' High School to take effect Sept. 1, 1907, seemed but the beginning of a long service in a position of large responsibility in which he might win wider appreciation, and further increase the well deserved reputation that was his as a capable educator, while still in the maturity of his powers. His administration of this large school was wise and conservative, yet progressive, and his sudden and unexpected death was most regrettable.

The School Committee extends to Mrs. Walker its respectful and sincere sympathy, and joins with the many friends of Mr. Walker in their sorrow over the loss of one who filled most creditably a high position in the public school service of the city.

ORDERED. That the salary and other accounts due Albert Perry Walker, late Head-Master of the Girls' High School, be paid to his widow, Mary E. Walker.

ANNUAL APPROPRIATION ORDER.

The Board took up for consideration the annual estimates and the appropriation order, prepared and submitted by the Acting Auditor in accordance with the rules, as follows:—

SCHOOLS.

Appropriation 1911-12.

To the School Committee:—

In compliance with Section 80 of the Rules, I submit herewith the estimates and itemized appropriation order to cover the expenses of the public schools for the financial year 1911-1912:—

The average valuation of the city for the three years, 1908, 1909 and 1910, with all abatements allowed up to December 31, 1910, as certified to His Honor the Mayor by the Board of Assessors is $1,355,416.829.54. This is the sum upon which all appropriations by the City Council and the School Committee for the financial year are based.

The School Committee is authorized by law to appropriate the following sums:—

(a) Three dollars and seventy cents upon each one thousand dollars of the valuation of the city for the public schools and their support, of which amount not less than forty cents upon every such one thousand dollars shall be appropriated solely for new school buildings, lands, yards and furnishings, and not less than twenty-five cents upon every such one thousand dollars shall be appropriated solely for alterations and repairs of school buildings. (Chapter 448 of the Acts of 1901, Chapter 170 of the Acts of 1903, Chapter 205 of the Acts of 1906 and Chapter 388 of the Acts of 1909.)

(b) Four cents upon each one thousand dollars of the valuation of the city for organizing and conducting physical training and exercises, athletics, sports, games, and play and for providing proper apparatus, equipment and facilities for same in buildings, yards and playgrounds under the control of the School Committee or upon any other land it may have the right to use for the purpose. (Chapter 295 of the Acts of 1907.)

(c) Two cents upon each one thousand dollars of the valuation of the city for the service of nurses in the public schools. (Chapter 357 of the Acts of 1907.)

(d) Five cents upon each one thousand dollars of the valuation of the city for the establishment of a permanent school pension fund and the payment of pensions to retired teachers. (Chapter 589 of the Acts of 1908 and Chapter 617 of the Acts of 1910.)

(e) The unexpended balance of the financial year 1910-11.

(f) The excess of income for the financial year 1910-11 over that estimated.

(g) Estimated income for the financial year 1911-12.

Of the forty cents on each one thousand dollars of the valuation of the city (amounting to $542,166.73) which the School Committee is authorized to appropriate for new school buildings, lands, yards and furnishings, the sum of $450,000 was appropriated on March 27, 1911, and in consequence this item does not appear in the appropriation order as proposed.

The appropriation order is based upon the following sums available:—

$3.95 per $1000 for general purposes.....	$1,134,021.33
.25 per $1000 for repairs and alterations to school buildings.....	238,854.21
.04 per $1000 for physical education.....	54,216.67
.02 per $1000 for nurses.....	27,108.33
.05 per $1000 for pensions.....	67,770.84
Unexpended balance general appropriation 1910-11.....	35,093.17
Excess of income over amount estimated 1910-11.....	13,648.57
Estimated income 1911-12.....	88,286.88

Total amount to be appropriated.....$1,759,000.00

Exclusive of the sums set aside for pensions, physical education, repairs and alterations to school buildings and rents of hired buildings, the amount of money available this year for general school purposes and the service of nurses in excess of the amount available for the same purpose last year would be $290,162.86 if it were not necessary to make an appropriation for water this year amounting to $67,000 and which reduces this amount to $223,162.86.

The following statement shows the reasons for this increase:—

Increase in Money Available.
Valuation for 1911-12.....	$1,355,416,829.54
Valuation for 1910-11.....	1,323,892,973.85
Increase in valuation.....	$31,523,855.69

Money Available for General Purposes and Nurses Only.

Increase due to increase in valuation if portion of tax rate had remained the same.

(Last year's rate 1910-11).
General purposes.....	$2.95 per $1000
Nurses.....	.02 per $1000
	$2.97

$2.97 on each $1000 of $31,523,855.69.....$93,625.25

Increase due to increase of 10c. per $1600 on the new valuation:—

$0.10 on each $1000 of $1,355,416,829.46.....	$135,541.68
Increase from above two sources.....	229,167.53
Increase from increase in income and unexpended balance.....	64,114.36

Total increase for general purposes and nurses only.....$293,281.89

Deduct increase for rents.....3,000.00

$290,281.89

Deduct difference in sums given for repairs in excess of 25c. per $1000 in 1910-11 and 1911-12.....119.03

$290,162.86

Deduct new appropriation for water.... 67,000.00

Net increase in money available for above purposes.....$223,162.86

The increases in salaries of instructors for the past two years have been as follows:—

1909-10 over 1908-09.....	$130,829.52
1910-11 over 1909-10.....	136,039.34

The estimated increase in salaries of instructors for the current year over that of 1910-11 is $130,586.25 without any change in the existing schedule.

The total amount of the several items of the estimates exceeds the amount of money the School Committee can legally appropriate by the sum of $36,915.21, and it will therefore be necessary to reduce expenditures below the estimates by the following sums:—

Salaries of instructors.....	$10,000.00
Supplies and incidentals.....	20,915.21
Fuel and light.....	6,000.00
	$36,915.21

These necessary reductions have been indicated after the corresponding total of each item.

I recommend the passage of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,

William T. Keough,
Acting Auditor.

Placed on file.

TOWN PROMOTION AND CITY PLANNING.

The Second Conference on City Planning was, taken as a whole, a valuable symposium on the forecasting of the future city. A score of distinct phases of the subject received expert treatment, and valuable suggestions were offered in the irregular discussions. To a visitor at the conference the number of viewpoints on city planning which were presented during the sessions must have been very interesting. The civil engineer, the landscape gardener, the settlement worker, the traffic expert, the building architect and representatives of many other lines took part in the discussion. Each called attention to different phases of city planning which should be encouraged if the future city is to be a well rounded one.

The sociologists and housing experts showed the effect of moving a factory from a crowded city district to more healthful surroundings in the country. While all the deductions made were doubtless true, yet curiously enough in all the discussion of the subject only the effect upon the city as a whole and upon the people employed in the particular industry seemed to be given any consideration. It appeared to be taken for granted that whatever was good upon esthetic and sanitary grounds would in some way have to fit in with the plans of the manufacturer who employed the workers and who selected the site for his factory location.

We might all agree that any city would be more healthful, more convenient for residence and more beautiful if there were no smokestacks, switching tracks or machinery within its boundary lines; but we must not forget that before we can plan very far on the city beautiful we must usually first consider some of the problems of the city industrial.

Town promotion and city planning are not contradictory nor are they synonymous terms. We promote the commercial interests of the town to-day, and confidently expect that town will develop into a prosperous city in the future. We plan the growth of the town to-day, and as confidently expect it to evolve into the beautiful and convenient city in the future. Town promotion deals with present prosperity, and city planning deals with future comfort. Both ideas are essential, and they should be inseparable. The town promoter in planning the industrial life of a community should be guided and sometimes held in check by intelligent thought concerning the consequences upon future city development. In turn as well should the city planner, while considering how best to conserve the comfort and beauty of a place, have due regard to the industrial forces which make possible a realization of his desires. It is unfortunate that in a gathering of recognized city planning experts there seems to be no place for the municipal investigator with a town promotion viewpoint or the manufacturer whose problem the theorists would help to solve. While a clash between commercial interests and those devoted to public comfort and civic beauty is at times inevitable, yet all students of municipal problems should realize that the best town promotion is in perfect harmony with sane city planning.

Commercial clubs are striving by methods sometimes more clever than economic to attract new industries to their towns. Often a cash bonus or other inducement is offered, and even sometimes a town relinquishes part of its taxing privilege in order to put a new factory stack within the city limits. While these strenuous efforts are being made the thoughtful ones of the commercial club membership recognize that even though natural advantages are good, and artificial baits are attractive the prospective factory is difficult to secure if the town is not regarded as a desirable place in which to live. Often before the manufacturer looks for a factory site he inquires concerning the advantages of the town in matters of education, health, recreation and general comfort. Thus the civic beauty, the convenient streets, the public open spaces, the sanitary buildings and all subjects connected closely with or part of city planning form a valuable medium through which may be secured increased commercial prestige.

The city planner, in recommending a zone system in which factories and residences will not encroach on each other's rights, may have in mind principally the welfare of the householder; but nevertheless, if the plans are logical, there will be equal benefit to the factory owners. A system which prevents the dangerous intermingling of industrial and residence features makes possible for the manufacturer increased trackage for shipping, larger freedom in the generation of power for his plant, and in many ways facilitates the operation of his factory on a more economical basis.

Many of the principal phases of recognized city planning, are as much a part of logical town promotion. A street planned in its arrangement and its width so as to combine the maximum of usefulness with the minimum of waste obviously promotes city growth. The inconvenient or highly congested street prevents the development of the territory to which it leads. So in nearly all phases of city planning and town promotion the same goals are reached from different starting points.

Most of the present active movements in city planning profess to be concerned little with conscious attempts to increase population. Nearly all the plans seem to relate to the forecasting or the consequences of city growth rather than to methods of attaining the growth. To a student of town promotion problems it seems logical that the city planner should be as much interested in the methods of growth as in the dangers coming after the growth has been secured. In every city where commercial associations are striving to make census figures higher those engaged in city planning should interest themselves in the activity of the association so as to lend aid in directing the growth which probably is bound to come whether consciously sought or the result of natural development.

It is a queer state of affairs where in any growing city the interests of the commercial association and the civic improvement club appear to lead in opposite directions. A study of the situation would probably reveal the fact that neither body is working along lines which tend toward the city's greatest benefit. Possibly the members of each, without realizing the fault, are encouraging movements which if fully carried out would advance private rather than public interests.

Co-operation in all civic endeavor appears to be logical and possible even in the largest cities. The experiments which are now being tried should be watched with much interest both by city planners and town promoters. The Boston 1915 plan and similar movements which contemplate the well balanced development of the city proper, and of the community of which the city is the logical commercial center, should furnish an example of co-operative effort which will be extremely helpful in bringing about the proper union of all activity in city planning and town promotion.—The American City.

STONE ROAD, NEW YORK-MONTREAL.

A complete stone road all the way from New York to Montreal is now practically assured. The Senate finance committee has reported favorably Senator Emerson's bill appropriating $2,500,000 for highway improvements, to connect incomplete highways from New York to Rouse's Point. These improvements are to be made along the east side of the Hudson to Albany, and then north to Rouse's Point, filling in the bad spots here and there. The Canadian authorities have already arranged to build a complete stone road from Montreal to connect with this State's highway work at Rouse's Point.—Municipal Journal and Engineer.

DEAR SIR,—I respectfully ask your approval of a contract with Wright & Ditson Company for the installation of the gymnastic apparatus in the Paris Street Gymnasium, in East Boston, for the sum of $1,975. PLANS FOR FUTURE

A new Commission on City Plan, appointed by the Board of Estimate, is to lay out a scheme for the entire future development of New York, to which all construction of boulevards, streets and avenues, subways, water front, etc., must conform. One of the first reform steps will be to protect congested avenues from illegal encroachments of property owners.

It has been suggested that certain narrow congested streets should be used for northward traffic only, and others nearby for southward traffic only. A suggestion to relieve Nassau street involves the laying of a subsidewalk there in place of the present vaults and private cellars. The storekeepers might be recompensed for the appropriation of their cellar space by the additional showcases they could build along the new thoroughfare.

FINANCE COMMISSION.

BOSTON, April 8, 1911.

HON. JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor:

SIR,—On April 1, 1911, the Finance Commission received a communication from your Honor asking the reasons for the commission's recommendation to the Legislature of an increase in the amount the Boston School Committee is now authorized to appropriate, so as to make the appropriations sufficient to permit an increase in the salaries of teachers; and also inquiring as to why the commission has not yet reported the results of its investigation of the management of the public schools.

The commission respectfully submits herewith the information desired:

I. THE PROPOSED INCREASE OF TEACHERS' SALARIES.

The commission on March 29, 1911, sent a communication to the Legislative Committee on Cities recommending legislation which would increase the appropriation for the support of the Boston public schools in the sum of ten cents for the first year, and for each succeeding year in the sum of twenty cents, upon each one thousand dollars of valuation on which the appropriations are based, for the purpose of enabling the School Committee to provide more adequate salaries for teachers in the elementary and certain other grades of the public schools.

Before this communication was sent the commission had been informed that your Honor had agreed with the School Committee that some means ought to be provided for increasing salaries of teachers in elementary grades; that a plan had received favorable consideration, which would leave the School Committee free in the present year to use the $67,000, which otherwise would have been needed to pay its water tax (but which your Honor is said to have agreed to remit), for the increase of elementary teachers' salaries, the installation of water saving devices in the schools, and the repair and alteration of school buildings,—$40,000, $17,000 and $10,000, respectively,—to be used for these purposes; and that it was also agreed that further increases in teachers' salaries should be made if the present Legislature should authorize an increase in the amount the School Committee is permitted to appropriate for the support of the schools.

The commission had also learned before it sent its communication to the legislative committee that the School Committee, which is obviously the best judge of the adequacy of teachers' salaries, had decided to favor an increase for next year of ten cents, and for each year thereafter twenty cents, on each thousand dollars of valuation upon which the appropriations are based, the object being to devote the greater part of the additional appropriation to an increase of the salaries of the teachers in the elementary schools from the present minimum of $552 a year and maximum of $936 a year, to a minimum of $600 and a maximum of $1,032, and, if it should appear that the public interests require it, to make corresponding increases in the salaries of other and smaller groups of teachers so as to preserve just proportions in the entire schedule.

The commission attached great weight to this decision of the School Committee, knowing that it had given the subject long and careful study, and had considered the financial condition of the city, the justice of the teachers' demands, and the interests of the children in the public schools.

Independently of the decision of the School Committee, the commission would have been strongly inclined to favor the increase as a result of its own investigations of the school system.

REASONS FOR THE COMMISSION'S RECOMMENDATION.

1. Existing Inequalities in Compensation.

The commission has long been aware of the inequality in the compensation of the large number of elementary school teachers who are paid a minimum of $552 and a maximum of $936, and that of other employees of the city, including those in the Suffolk County departments, an inequality not fully appreciated except by those familiar with the actual conditions of the municipal service. The service that a faithful and efficient school teacher renders to the community is one of the greatest importance, yet it would seem that no other class in the city's employ is so poorly paid, considering the value of the services performed.

It is not necessary to make a detailed comparison of the salaries of men in various branches of the city's service and the salaries of its women school teachers; it is sufficient for the present to note that gross inequalities exist. A comparison of the salaries of the women teachers who receive a minimum of $552 and a maximum of $936, and who constitute about two-thirds of the entire teaching force, and the salaries of women in other branches of the public service is more pertinent. Here the inequality is substantial. Of the 162 women clerks rated as clerks, clerical assistants, recorders, comparers, pagers, etc., in various city and county departments, only 11 receive less than $600 a year. One of the 11 receives $500; 3, $520 each, and 1, $550; the other 6 receive $580, or $28 more than the minimum ($552) paid to the school teachers in question. The other 151 women clerks receive between $600 and $1,500, the highest pay being $564 more than the maximum pay of the teachers after 8 years of service. Forty-seven of the women clerks receive more than the maximum paid to school teachers, and 6 others receive an amount equal to the teachers' maximum. A number of those rated as clerks are engaged in the simplest kind of work, such as copying, and some of these copyists receive between $1,000 and $1,200 a year, the latter figure being $264 more than the teachers' maximum.

Of the 36 women rated as stenographers, there are 4 court stenographers who receive $2,500 a year each, but the salaries of these 4 highly skilled stenographers do not afford a just basis of comparison with the salaries of the school teachers in question. Of the other 32, stenographers 1 receives $364 a year; 1, $520, and 30 receive more than the teachers' minimum of $552, the payments ranging between $580 and $1,500, the lowest being $28 above the minimum and the highest $564 above the maximum of the teachers.

Of the 8 women employed as secretaries or assistants, 1 receives $1,740, 2 others over $1,000 and the rest receive less than $1,000 a year. None, however, receive less than $700 a year, or $148 more than the school teachers' minimum.

The five women rated as bookkeepers receive from $780 to $1,560 a year, all being above the teachers' minimum, and three above the teachers' maximum.

The twenty-four women rated as printers, including compositors, copyholders, operators, proofreaders and linotype operators, receive compensation ranging from $955 to $1,300 a year, the minimum and maximum being greater by $403 and $364 respectively than the compensation of the school teachers. Eighteen of the twenty-four printers receive more than the teachers' maximum.

The eight women rated as visitors receive from $750 to $1,100 a year, the lowest being $198 above the minimum and the highest $164 above the maximum of the school teachers. Four of the eight visitors receive more than the teachers' maximum.

The foregoing shows inequalities indefensible from any just point of view. The commission believes that if the value of the service rendered should be made the standard by which to fix compensation, as it ought to be, the salaries of the teachers would be increased and that of many other employees of the city would be reduced. The commission does not base its recommendation for an increase in the school teachers' pay upon the fact that other employees of the city whose services are less valuable receive greater compensation; nor upon the fact that the salary schedule, fixing the teachers' pay at a minimum of $552, with a maximum of $936 after eight years' service, was established in 1896 and has since been maintained without change, though the cost of living has greatly increased meanwhile; but it makes its recommendation upon the ground that the school teachers, under the conditions confronting them to-day, dealing as they do with large and widely varying classes of children, and performing a task which makes large drafts upon their nervous energy, render a service to the community of greater value than is represented by the purchasing power of the money they receive. In arriving at this conclusion due allowance has been made both for the smaller number of days of actual attendance at the schools as compared with the number of working days of other city employees, and for the time necessarily devoted by the teachers to school work and study after school hours, in the holidays and during vacation time.

2. The City's Ability to Pay the Increased Salaries.

Believing that justice requires the increase, the commission thinks it should be given even though it should necessitate an increase in the tax rate. But if economy is practiced the tax rate need not be increased. The total amount required to meet the increase can easily be saved if the following suggestions are adopted:

A. Dispense with all Superfluous Employees.—This recommendation does not mean that day laborers of long service, who are incapacitated by age, should be removed. The expense due to their retention can be gradually reduced by declining to fill vacancies resulting from natural causes.

B. Reduce the salaries of the city's clerks and employees above the grade of clerks to a basis nearer the level of the compensation paid by the state.

As shown in the commission's last annual report to the General Court, these salaries are 50 per cent higher on the average than the state pays for similar service.

C. Gradually reduce the size of the city's maintenance forces in the Department of Public Works and extend the scope of the contract work correspondingly.

3. Possible Economies in the School Expenditures.

Can the Schoolhouse and School Departments by the practice of economy save enough to meet the proposed increase in teachers' salaries, without increasing the appropriations now authorized by law? If they can the request for authority to increase the appropriations should not be granted.

A. The Schoolhouse Department.

Under the new system of erecting schoolhouses, a considerable amount of the initial expense formerly incurred in using the method of first class construction, so-called, is saved; and if the present system is maintained considerable sums will be saved hereafter, unless the new system shall prove to be more expensive than the former system as to the repairs subsequently required. Economies may be effected also if public competition for contracts for repairs and alterations of school buildings, for even comparatively small amounts, is substituted for the present method of awarding such contracts. The report of the expert employed by the commission shows that a considerable number of these smaller contracts were let last year without public advertisement for bids. It is possible also that other economies can be effected by the Schoolhouse Department, but the commission is not yet prepared to speak definitely upon this subject. If these various economies are effected the appropriations, and the tax rate to a corresponding degree, can be reduced.

Yet none of the economies now being effected by the Schoolhouse Department, or that may be effected hereafter, can be utilized to create a fund out of which school teachers' salaries may be increased, as under the statute (1909, chapter 388, section 1) the School Committee must appropriate solely for new school buildings, lands, yards and furnishings an amount not less than forty cents on each one thousand dollars of the valuation upon which appropriations are based, and must also appropriate solely for repairs and alterations of school buildings an amount not less than twenty-five cents on each one thousand dollars of such valuation; and, in the opinion of the commission, none of the money appropriated for such purposes can lawfully be used for any other purpose.

B. The School Department.

Discontinuance of Certain Branches of Instruction.—If the public should demand the abolition of kindergarten, cooking, sewing, drawing and music classes, physical education and manual training, a considerable sum would be available for the increase of the salaries of the remaining teachers. But the commission has seen no evidence of any general demand for the abolition of any of these courses; on the contrary, each is stoutly defended by numerous advocates. Moreover, the School Committee has no present intention of abandoning any of these courses. The commission, therefore, regards the possibility of thus saving money and applying it to the proposed increase of teachers' salaries as too remote to be of any material value in connection with the question now under consideration.

Reduction in the Cost of Administration.—The School Committee spent last year $3,995,237.66, exclusive of the cost of land and new buildings, repairs and alterations, rental of hired school accommodations, and teachers' pensions. Wherever the phrase "total expenditures of the School Committee" is used hereinafter it means the $3,995,237.66 above referred to.

Taking the cost of administration as fairly represented by the total payments to the various officers of the public schools, their assistants and the truant officers, it appears that the amount expended for this purpose last year was $106,730.54, or 2.7 per cent of the total expenditures of the School Committee. This does not seem an unreasonable expenditure for administration, and the commission doubts whether it can be reduced with justice to the administrative force or to the school system. Further investigation may possibly show ways of economizing with safety, but even in that event the total saving must necessarily be so small as to make it a negligible factor in the attempt to secure, within the present authorized school appropriations, the proposed increase of the salaries of a large number of elementary teachers.

Reduction in the Cost of Janitors' Service.—The amount spent last year for the salaries of janitors was $253,270.94, or 6.3 per cent of the total expenditures of the School Committee. The payments to janitors are based upon rates for various kinds of service, under a schedule adopted in 1904 as the result of careful investigation by the School Committee. It does not give satisfaction to the janitors now, as they think the rates too low. Whenever it is revised it is more likely to be upward than downward. If any reduction should be made, it would necessarily be so small as to furnish little aid in the plan to increase teachers' salaries. The commission believes that no attempt should be made to reduce it.

Reduction in the Cost of Physical Education.—The amount spent for this purpose last year was $67,434.57, or 1.6 per cent of the total expenditures of the School Committee. As already stated, this course is not likely to be abandoned. Even if the School Committee should decide to discontinue this service, legislative authority for the discontinuance would have to be procured, as the service is required by chapter 295 of the Acts of 1907. While physical education remains a feature of public school instruction the entire amount authorized by law to be expended for the purpose (4 cents on each $1,000 of valuation) will in all probability be expended. Moreover, the commission is of the opinion that any saving in the cost of physical education could not lawfully be applied to the increase of teachers' salaries, as the statute directs that appropriations for physical education shall be made "solely" for that purpose.

Reduction in the Salaries and Expenses of School Nurses.—Last year there was expended for this purpose $27,220.06, or six-tenths of 1 per cent of the total expenditures of the School Committee. There seems to be no feasible way in which the School Committee can accomplish a reduction of its expense for this item. If the nurses should be transferred to the Health Department and the School Committee should retain its appropriating power undiminished, the money now utilized by the School Committee for the nurses' salaries and expenses would then be made available for increasing school teachers' salaries. But if the Legislature should authorize the transfer it would undoubtedly take from the School Committee the power given by chapter 357 of the Acts of 1907 to appropriate money for the nurses. Thus the School Committee fund would disappear and with it the possibility of saving. The commission, therefore, sees no opportunity in this quarter for providing a fund available for increasing school teachers' salaries.

Reduction in the Cost of Supplies and Incidentals, Including Text-books.—The amount expended last year for this purpose was $210,035.03, or 5.2 per cent of the total expenditures of the School Committee. The expenditure for text-books was $65,020.49. The amount which may be appropriated for these purposes is not fixed by law, but it is confined to narrow limits by other virtually fixed charges against the general appropriation for the support of schools, such as officers', teachers' and janitors' salaries and fuel and light. The necessity for economy in the purchase of supplies and incidentals has been so great at times as to cause the furnishing of a poor quality of paper to the pupils in the schools and to make the janitors use brooms and brushes after they had become practically useless. The school supplies, such as paper, blotters, ink, pens, pencils, etc., have been purchased under a system which the expert employed by the commission believes could be improved in some particulars; but he heartily commends the care exercised by the purchasing agent and states that the prices have been astonishingly low. The commission believes that the average annual expenditures for supplies and incidentals should be increased rather than diminished, and that no reduction in quantity or quality should be made in order to provide a fund for the increase of teachers' salaries.

The commission, at its public hearings, heard complaints to the effect that text-books were sometimes retained in use for so long a period that they had become practically useless. Some much worn and dilapidated books were put in evidence at one of the hearings. The commission believes that enforced economy has in some instances prolonged the use of text-books to an extent that endangered, if it did not actually impair, the efficiency of the instruction.

The text-books have been bought by the purchasing agent at the lowest prices he could obtain and he has been successful in securing liberal discounts on old books which have been returned. The commission's opinion is that the purchasing agent has obtained the best results possible under the system in vogue as to the purchase of text-books and it has no doubt that he has at all times performed his duties faithfully, honestly and with strict regard for economy. Means of improving the system have been suggested and the consideration of such means is desirable, as Boston pays more for text-books than some other cities which, unlike Boston, purchase on long term contracts. The amount annually expended for text books is, however, so small that any possible saving effected would not go far enough toward meeting the proposed increase of teachers' salaries to warrant a reduction in the extra allowance asked for in the pending legislation.

Reduction in the Cost of Fuel and Light.—The amount spent for these purposes last year was $157,446.77, or 3.9 per cent of the total expenditures of the School Committee. The possibilities of economy in these particulars are limited to a narrow compass.

The School Committee purchases its coal on contracts, awarded after public advertisement for bids. The contracts for bituminous coal provide for a chemical analysis and for the payment of premiums or the deduction of penalties, according as the quality is found by the chemist to be above or below the standard defined in the contract. The contracts for anthracite coal do not provide for chemical analysis, but do require the dealer to specify in his proposal the mines from which the coal is to be taken, and the proposal is made a part of the contract. The expert employed by the commission has examined the coal contracts and the expenditures thereunder for the four years 1906-1909, inclusive, and he states that the results indicate that the city's financial interests have been well protected.

The School Committee has made numerous efforts to procure lower rates from the electric light company, but so far without success. Unless the electric light company reduces its rates, or the School Committee provides a cheaper lighting system of its own, but little economy can be effected in the cost of lighting.

The commission believes that economies in fuel and light are speculative and cannot be counted upon to add to the fund available for the payment of teachers' salaries.

The Need of Additional Appropriations.—The total expenditures of the School Committee last year were $3,995,237.66. Of this amount $3,173,099.75, or almost four-fifths of the whole, was expended for teachers' salaries, and $822,137.91, or slightly above one-fifth, for other purposes. It would be impossible to economize sufficiently in the branches which consume one-fifth of the total expenditures to enable the School Committee to increase substantially teachers' salaries, which now consume four-fifths of the total expenditures. Nor could the proposed increase in teachers' salaries be met by the additional amounts made available by increased valuations under the present statutory limitations upon the appropriating power, as such additional amounts will be needed to meet the automatic annual increases under the existing minimum and maximum schedule, the demand for a more liberal allowance of supplies, and the increased cost of other branches of school administration due to the increase in the number of pupils. There is no practical way of effecting the proposed increases except through a grant of legislative authority to increase the amounts which may now be appropriated under the statutes.

Summary of Conclusions.

1. That the teachers are entitled, on account of the value of their services, to increased compensation.

2. That the proposed increase of teachers' salaries cannot be effected by reductions in the expenditures of the School Committee without detriment to the school system as a whole.

3. That the only practical way to effect the increase is by securing legislative authority to add to the School Committee appropriations next year an amount equal to ten cents upon each one thousand dollars of the valuations upon which appropriations are based, and twenty cents for the succeeding years.

4. That the increase in the appropriations need not cause any increase in the tax rate if economies in other departments are effected, as previously herein suggested.

II. THE COMMISSION'S DELAY IN FILING A REPORT UPON ITS INVESTIGATION OF THE SCHOOLS.

The request for an investigation was made on March 17, 1910. The reasons for delay will be apparent to your Honor upon an examination of the long list of questions referring to other matters submitted to the commission by your Honor after the date of the request for the school investigation. Assuming that your Honor may have overlooked this list, or may have failed to consider the time necessary to be devoted to the important questions thus subsequently referred, the commission annexes hereto the list with a request that your Honor note that reports have already been submitted upon twenty of the twenty-eight questions thus referred, and that the time spent in this manner has excluded the possibility of completing a task of such magnitude as the investigation of the public schools.

Respectfully submitted,
THE FINANCE COMMISSION,

Chairman.

BOSTON, April 10, 1911.

To the Honorable the City Council:

GENTLEMEN,—The Finance Commission received from the Assistant City Clerk, on April 4, 1911, the following communication:

April 4, 1911.

BOSTON FINANCE COMMISSION:

GENTLEMEN,—The City Council has under consideration the following order:

Ordered, That from the cash surplus in the treasury, there be appropriated the sum of $800,000 to be expended by the Superintendent of Public Buildings, after plans and specifications shall have been approved by the City Council, and the contract for the same shall have been approved by the Finance Commission, for the erection of an annex to City Hall on the site of the present Old Court House.

The City Council voted, at its meeting on April 3, 1911, to request the Finance Commission to submit a report on or before the next meeting of the City Council, April 10, 1911, as to the advisability of adopting the said order.

Respectfully yours,

W. J. DOYLE,
Assistant City Clerk.

The commission respectfully suggests that the order, in its present form, be not passed.

The order is obviously designed to protect the city against loss resulting from the erection of the building under defective plans and specifications, or under a contract either defective in form or objectionable because of circumstances connected with its award. To safeguard against such loss, the order in effect provides that no part of the money appropriated shall be spent until the plans and specifications have been approved by the City Council and the contract has been approved by the Finance Commission.

In the opinion of the Finance Commission, the charter provisions impose limits upon the powers of the City Council and the Finance Commission, respectively, which the order in question exceeds. The City Council has the power to vote appropriations, but in the opinion of the commission it has no power to compel the executive department to postpone the expenditure of the money thus appropriated until conditions annexed to the grant of money have been complied with. The Finance Commission possesses supervisory powers only under the charter, and cannot by vote of the City Council be authorized to exercise executive functions such as the order under consideration seems to require. The approval of the plans and specifications by the City Council, and of the contract by the Finance Commission, as conditions precedent to the expenditure of the money by the executive department would constitute participation in the executive business of the city and would therefore be contrary to existing law.

It would seem to follow, therefore, that if the appropriation were made under such an order as the one in question, the money would become available for the use of the executive department in the construction of the building, but the conditions annexed to the appropriation could be disregarded. In other words, the executive department could adopt plans and specifications and make a contract for the erection of the building without submitting the plans and specifications to the City Council or the contract to the Finance Commission.

The City Council can, if it chooses, withhold the appropriation until plans and specifications are drawn which meet its approval, and until the form of contract meets the approval of the Finance Commission. The executive department, however, would not be required to submit the plans and specifications to the City Council or the form of contract to the Finance Commission, and if it should choose not to do so and the Council should thereupon decline to appropriate the necessary money, the erection of the annex would be indefinitely postponed.

The Finance Commission believes that the erection of an annex to City Hall upon the site of the Old Court House would be a practical solution of the problem of providing the additional accommodations needed and would avoid the disadvantages resulting from the erection of a new City Hall at a distance from the present site, which would render it inconvenient to the general public in the transaction of its business with the various city departments. A modern office building on the Old Court House site, with a bridge across Court square, connecting the new building with City Hall, would facilitate the transaction of the administrative business of the city by bringing the various departments into closer relation, and would make a reduction in expenditures possible, because of these improved facilities and the saving of rentals which would otherwise be necessary for outside accommodations.

The commission believes, however, that the City Council should request the executive department to furnish full information as to the plans for the new building, the probable cost, and the method which is likely to be employed in the selection of an architect and the award of the contract for the erection of the building. The commission suggests that the information should cover the following matters:

1. A statement showing the width of the streets surrounding the Old Court House site and the average width of the same.

2. An opinion from the Corporation Counsel as to the height to which the building could be erected under the provisions of section 18 of chapter 550 of the Acts of 1907; and also as to the legal right of the city to construct a bridge over the street, between City Hall and the proposed annex, if such a bridge should seem to be necessary.

3. A statement showing the dates of the expiration of the leases of various hired quarters occupied by city departments.

4. A careful estimate of the cost made by the Building Commissioner.

The commission suggests that after the doubts as to the legal right of the city to erect a building of the proposed height (125 feet), and to build the bridge aforesaid, have been cleared up, and after the City Council has received full information as to the plans and specifications, the form of contract, the estimates of cost, and other information which has previously been suggested herein as important, the appropriation should be made. The commission also suggests that the appropriation be accompanied by a resolution of the Council, expressing the opinion that the architect should be selected after public competition, in order to insure competent service at reasonable rates.

Respectfully submitted,

THE FINANCE COMMISSION,

Chairman.

BOSTON, April 12, 1911.

HON. JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor:

SIR,—On July 2, 1910, a vacancy was created in the Boston Board of Health. An appointment was made to the board by your Honor, on July 5, 1910, but the Civil Service Commission did not regard the appointee as qualified by education, training or experience and the appointee was not confirmed. No permanent appointment to the Health Board has since been made, but a temporary appointment, so-called, was made on August 8, 1910. The temporary appointee, in the opinion of the Finance Commission, is not qualified by education, training or experience for the task, and the administration of the duties of the Board of Health must necessarily have been hampered during the eight months in which he has acted as a member of the board.

The commission has twice recommended that your Honor make an appointment to this office which would be in harmony with the letter and spirit of the charter. Thus, on August 17, 1910, the commission advised your Honor: "That the Mayor consult physicians and sanitary engineers of high standing in their profession, who are familiar with modern scientific public health administration, for the purpose of obtaining names of persons eligible for the office of Health Commissioner; and that a competent person be appointed to that office." Again, on October 13, 1910, the commission called your Honor's attention to the fact that, "This appointment has ceased to be a temporary one within the meaning of the law, and your Honor should appoint a qualified person as Health Commissioner at the earliest possible moment. The continuance in office, under the guise of a temporary appointment, of one whose qualifications would not be likely to secure the approval of the Civil Service Commission if the appointment were made in the regular way provided by the charter tends to demoralize the administration of the Health Department and to menace the safety of the public."

Six months have now elapsed since the recommendation, but no appointment has yet been made. The commission respectfully renews its recommendations of August 17, and October 13, 1910, that a competent person be appointed as Health Commissioner.

As the members of the Board of Health have equal authority and each exercises executive powers, all should be specially fitted for their tasks. The commission believes that the best equipment available for the service is required in the interests of the public. No one whose attention has been devoted almost wholly to politics and who has had no special education, training or experience qualifying him for the office should be appointed simply because he has been in touch with large numbers of citizens during his political career. An intimacy with great numbers of people, incidental to an active participation in politics, may constitute a formidable obstacle to the successful discharge of the duties of a Health Commissioner, and thus tend to disqualify rather than to qualify a politician for this particular office. Every order of the Board of Health to make cleaner and more wholesome butcher shops, bakeshops, or restaurants, to provide more air and light in tenements, or better ventilation, or improved sanitary conditions, in fact, every order and regulation of the board, affects the financial interests of some individual. The first impulse of many who find themselves called upon to spend money for improvements ordered by the Board of Health is to avoid compliance by bringing political pressure on the members of the board. For this particular position one who is in touch with the people, in the sense of having had political relations with them throughout a whole lifetime, may be the person who can be least relied upon to stand by his associates in the Board of Health in the enforcement of orders affecting great numbers of manufacturers, shopkeepers, victuallers, peddlers and owners of tenement houses. Only a person of great public spirit and unusual courage can deal successfully with such problems. One who has been accustomed to procure favors of one kind or another for people who do not always understand the necessity of making financial sacrifices in compliance with orders of the Board of Health, cannot be depended upon to compel hundreds, perhaps thousands, of comparatively poor persons to suffer temporary financial loss, interruption of business, and other inconveniences which the public interest may demand.

In view of the fact that there are two physicians on the board, the commission recommends the appointment of a qualified sanitary engineer as a third member of the Board of Health.

Respectfully submitted,

THE FINANCE COMMISSION,

Chairman.

MUNICIPAL DENTAL CLINIC STARTED.

An entirely new form of philanthropy is to make its appearance in Tacoma, Wash., this spring. Children of the poor are to have their teeth examined free of charge by the best dentists in the city, who will fill cavities, stop decay and relieve sufferings of the little ones who are at present obliged to exist in agony because their parents or guardians lack the means to pay for dental care. The dentists, through the Tacoma Dental Society, will take turns giving their services free of charge, receiving the little sufferers every Saturday afternoon in a municipal dental clinic to be established in the City Hall.—Municipal Journal and Engineer.

RUINOUS AUTOMOBILING.

The park authorities of Chattanooga are greatly incensed at the complete ruin of the roads laid out and built at great expense in Chickamauga Park, through which automobiles are allowed to run at high speed.

SPECIAL ASSESSMENT LAW FOR STREET IMPROVEMENTS IN BOSTON A FAILURE.

CITY UNABLE TO COLLECT AN EQUITABLE SHARE OF THE COST IN PROPORTION TO BENEFIT.

The statute relative to the assessable distance for street improvements, as it relates to the City of Boston, arbitrarily fixes the distance at 125 feet in any direction from the improvement. Inquiries fail to show that in other states such a limitation is placed upon betterment assessments. On the contrary it seems to be the general practice in all important cities that, in making betterment assessments for street improvements, the authorities doing this work are permitted to assess wherever they find that a benefit has been conferred. This ought to be the rule in Boston, and until it is permitted the city can hope to get back but little of its outlay for street improvements by this method.

The distance of 125 feet works well enough when applied to residential streets. On such streets the Board of Street Commissioners rarely find occasion to levy assessments for this distance, and it would not do so even with the 125-foot distance removed. The benefit caused by the laying out of a street that is purely residential seldom extends beyond the property abutting thereon, and owners of property in close proximity to such a street need have no fear that by the removal of the 125-foot distance they will be made to suffer financially.

Where the 125-foot limitation has worked disastrously has been in connection with the great boulevards and main highways extending into the outlying districts, such as Huntington avenue, South Huntington avenue, Blue Hill avenue, Columbia road, Bennington street, Hyde Park avenue and Belgrade avenue. Each of these thoroughfares opened up a wide territory, and by them, rapid and convenient means of access to and from the heart of the city were made possible.

These great avenues cost the city millions of dollars and greatly increased values in sections that had previously been difficult of approach; yet under the law the Board of Street Commissioners could not assess a large part of the property that received a great benefit because of the 125-foot limitation.

The Columbus avenue improvement is a conspicuous example of a great thoroughfare opened for the purpose of giving better transportation facilities to a wide territory which before was lacking much in this respect. This avenue cost for land and buildings, grade damages and for construction, $1,818,901. All that the Board could assess because of the 125-foot limitation was $373,000, and this was practically all on property abutting on the avenue. A considerable amount of this assessment was abated because it was subsequently shown, after years of stagnation, that property on the avenue itself was not benefited to the slight extent originally estimated by the Board. A wide area beyond the 125-foot distance was greatly benefited, but it could not be reached under the law.

The Huntington avenue and South Huntington avenue improvements, by reason of their opening a direct route to Jamaica Plain and West Roxbury, have materially aided in land development far beyond the avenues themselves. These two avenues cost the city $811,285, but, under the 125-foot limitation, the Board could assess only $273,347.

The making of the Bennington street boulevard in East Boston was a great benefit to almost the entire island. It cost to lay out and construct $781,691, yet the Board found it impossible to assess more than $54,812. Had there been no limitation to the distance that the Board might have gone in assessing the benefit at least one-half the cost might have been returned to the city.

Probably the most striking example of the injustice of the 125-foot limitation is seen in the Columbia road improvement. This great avenue cost the city, in a round sum, $3,000,000. Of this amount $1,792,492 was expended by the Board of Street Commissioners for land and grade damages and for construction, the balance being expended by the Park Commissioners. It is generally admitted that this boulevard gave a distinct benefit to a very large part of Dorchester and South Boston. In fact the property most benefited, especially in Dorchester, was not that abutting on the boulevard but such as communicated with it by the intersecting streets. The Board fully appreciated this fact when the assessments were made, but the law kept it within the 125-foot distance, with the result that only $296,443 was levied.

The examples might be multiplied, but this would seem to be sufficient to show how unjust to the great body of taxpayers this limitation is. Altogether, since the street laying-out act of 1891 was passed, the city has expended $16,042,561.68 under the act. Only about one-third of this amount could be assessed upon property benefited because of the costly main avenues and boulevards, and the limitation of the assessable distance to 125 feet; and in all likelihood, when the assessments are finally paid, it is very doubtful if the city will have got back 25 per cent of the cost. Had this limitation never been put in the law, there probably would be more money available for the laying out and construction of streets than the borrowing capacity of the city now permits.

OPENING OF CURTIS HALL.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 8, 1911.

To the City Council:

In reply to your request, contained in an order passed at the meeting of March 27, that the Superintendent of Public Buildings inform the Council as to when Curtis Hall is to be opened to the public for use as a municipal building, library, etc., I beg to transmit a letter from the superintendent, in which he states that the building will be completed about August 1, but notes that before it can be occupied it will be necessary to provide the sum of fourteen thousand dollars ($14,000) for maintenance during the last six months of the present financial year. Appended to his communication is a copy of a letter from the A. Varnerin Company, who are the contractors for the reconstruction of the building.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Office of Public Buildings Department,
April 5, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of Boston:

Sir,—Regarding the inclosed order of the City Council requesting information as to when Curtis Hall will be opened to the public for use as a municipal building, library, etc., I wish to advise you that I anticipate that the said building will be completed about August 1 and send you inclosed herewith a copy of a communication which I have received from the A. Varnerin Company, who are the contractors for the reconstruction of the building, in which they specify the same date for completion.

Before the building can be occupied it will be necessary to provide the sum of fourteen thousand dollars ($14,000) for the maintenance of same during the last six months of this financial year.

The building to be occupied as a branch library is a new building located on the same lot with the Curtis Hall building. It is now very nearly completed, but not as yet accepted by me. I have contracted for practically all of the furniture and furnishings, most of which is of special design, as approved by the librarian of the Boston Public Library.

It will require six to eight weeks to finish the building.

Yours respectfully,
M. J. FISH,
Superintendent of Public Buildings.

A. Varnerin Company,
General Building Contractors,
10 Tremont Street,
Boston, Mass., April 3, 1911.

Mr. Fish,
Superintendent of Public Buildings,
City of Boston:

Dear Sir,—In response to your conversation with our Mr. Varnerin a few days ago about delays at Curtis Hall we will say, on September 2, 1910, his Honor the Mayor of Boston approved the contract with our company. The work was started immediately after his approval. You will, of course, understand that the difficulties of putting in new foundations under the rear part of the building were such that it had to be handled very carefully; this we done. There were some delays caused by the necessity of shoring, which had to be done before any work could be started. When we did have a fair start the cold weather overtook us, which you know has been such that very little could be accomplished on the exterior of the building. However, the interior, to our mind, has progressed as well as could be expected with the difficulties we had to overcome.

The building at present is practically ready for plastering, and now that the cold weather has passed it will be a very short time before the grounds and exterior work is cleaned up.

The entire building will be ready for occupancy not later than August 1, 1911. This would make eleven months from the date of signing, which we consider is little enough time to complete a building of this kind, with the amount of work that had to be accomplished, as you know a reconstruction job is a different proposition than new work.

Hoping this explanation will be satisfactory to you and waiting further instructions, we remain,
A. VARNERIN COMPANY,
by ANTONY VARNERIN, Treasurer.

Referred to Executive Committee.

INDORSEMENT OF STREET LIGHTING PLAN.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 8, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit a letter from the assistant secretary of the Massachusetts State Branch of the American Federation of Labor, indorsing a plan for a street lighting system presented by the Lamplighters' Union to the Commissioner of Public Works.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Massachusetts State Branch,
American Federation of Labor,
Boston, April 1, 1911.

His Honor John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of Boston,
City Hall, Boston, Mass.:

My dear Sir,—One of the greatest questions before the community is the question of municipal ownership, and we have had the matter of the Lamplighters' Union presented at the meeting of our executive board by a committee from said organization, and a plan which they submitted to the Commissioner of Public Works, as well as your Honor, which we believe would be a great benefit to the community, if adopted.

At a meeting of the executive board held on March 29, it was unanimously voted to indorse the same. We have learned that each member of the city government received a copy of the proposition submitted to the Commissioner of Public Works. We trust that the City Council will adopt it.

Trusting that it will meet with your favorable support, believe me to be Respectfully yours,

MARTIN T. JOYCE,
Assistant Secretary.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

LIGHTING CONTRACT, ETC.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 8, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit a letter from the Commissioner of Public Works, accompanying a contract signed by him with the Rising Sun Street Lighting Company for the lighting of certain streets, tracts and areas in the city with approximately eleven thousand (11,000) gas lamps. In addition to this contract the commissioner has submitted for transmission to your honorable body three bids for equipment from the Pressure Lighting Company, the Automatic Gas Lighting and Equipment Company and William A. Rumpf and Leo Robinson, together with communications from the Lamplighters' Union and the Pressure Lighting Company, which were received after the bids were opened, and a statement from the supervisor of street lighting, bearing upon the letters from Mr. R. Momand of the Pressure Lighting Company.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
City Hall, April 6, 1911.

To the Honorable the Mayor:

On February 11, 1911, the Commissioner of Public Works advertised for bids for lighting certain streets, parks and alleys with approximately 11,000 gas lamps. At the same time the department also advertised for bids for furnishing the equipment, with a view to the city's doing its own lighting. On March 4, 1911, the bids were opened. The only bid received for furnishing, maintaining and operating approximately 11,000 gas lamps was from the Rising Sun Street Lighting Company, which bid, with my approval, I submit herewith for the consideration of the City Council and yourself. The Rising Sun Street Lighting Company now has the contract for lighting these lamps, and the proposal which is before you is a substantial reduction from the present price.

In connection with bids for equipment were received three proposals, which I also send for your information.

If the City Council should decide that it is for the best interests of the city to purchase the equipment and do its own lighting, I will say that the cost of operation is problematical; and in this connection, I submit communications from the Lamplighters' Union and the Pressure Lighting Company, which were received after the bids were opened.

Very respectfully,
L. K. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

(Annexed were communications referred to and the contract, all said papers, with accompanying message, being ordered printed as a public document later in the meeting.)

Referred to the Executive Committee.

The loam for the Fens and the planting of Commonwealth avenue appeared in the list which we presented to you when asking for appropriations for maintenance, but as the amount we requested was not authorized by you and as the amount you did approve will not cover our full list of proposed work, we add these on this list.

In explanation of the above list we add the following notes:

1. On Medford street is an entirely unused and undeveloped lot in the control of the Park Department. We desire to plant it and grade it and make it an agreeable children's playground.

2. By building a two-storied shelter building across the whole width of the upper part of Copp's Hill Playground, with necessary toilets at the end of each story, a very large area would be given on which little children could play and their mothers could sit and sew and enjoy the extremely agreeable view and the fresh air. It seems to us that this would be equivalent to adding at very small cost a considerable playground in this neighborhood.

3. We desire to make these improvements on the locker building by way of making its finish worthy of the surroundings.

4. We desire to place two gateways in the fencing of this playground to add a certain value and dignity to the city property which lately has been, as you know, greatly improved but lacks this finish.

5. Tennis courts in Franklin Park are grass courts, and it is not possible to put up surrounding nets without marring the landscape. Although they are much enjoyed, they are not suited to vigorous or advanced tennis playing, and we desire to build on Franklin Field some courts where more advanced playing can be carried on. At present those seeking this convenience have to go to Wood Island Park.

6. This refers to improving the piece of land purchased by the Park Commission about four years ago and yet undeveloped.

7. The seats and fence at these heights, the construction of which was charged to maintenance and of a temporary character, are now in poor condition and it is necessary that they be renewed in a substantial manner.

8. There still remains a little grading to be done at this playground.

9. The improvements here suggested are desirable at this playground.

10. The improvements here suggested are very necessary at this playground.

11. The improvements here suggested are very necessary at this playground.

12. From time to time grading has been in progress as opportunity offered, with a view to bringing the field to final finished condition. We should like to continue this work, especially as it furnishes work for our men in winter which can be done economically at that time.

13. This building would be a desirable addition to the shops we now have at Franklin Park, especially as a safeguard against fire.

14. Nothing has been done in the way of planting at Castle Island. It is a very beautiful place and we should like to start the planting of trees and shrubs and have it done so as to gradually lead towards the original plan designed by Mr. Olmsted.

15. This is a very necessary repair and until it is made the playground cannot be put in proper order.

16. These improvements would add to the conveniences at Olmsted Park.

17. You will remember that we did not have enough last year to finish the work laid out for this playground, and this appropriation will take the place of a transfer of funds which was proposed at the end of the last financial year.

18. These improvements are much to be desired at this playground. The sanitary building is especially needed.

19. This playground is much used and very attractive, but towards the street the wall is unfinished and unsightly.

20. This park has been very carefully planted and put in excellent order except that it needs more loam and stone steps for the steep paths.

21. We have been offered a portion of beach without the land behind it and we think it would be very desirable for the city to thus extend the beach.

22. This building is very largely used and there are no conveniences there. The amount named, however, will only provide a sanitary building. The amount should be larger, say $20,000, if lockers and spray baths are to be provided.

23. A good deal of land has been filled to add to the extent of the Strandway Playground, but we have no money with which to grade it.

24. As you know, a shelter has been built here, but we had no money with which to build a sanitary.

25. As you know, a shelter has been built here, but we had no money with which to build a sanitary.

26. The grade of the Fens has been, as you know, raised without any material expense to the city, but we haven't any money with which to cover it with loam. The pumping plant has been suggested in previous communications with you and we believe that it is very important to have it. Our suggestion that the water be led in from Charles river through the Fens and out from the marginal conduit does not meet with favor because we are told the water cannot be spared from the basin, but the pumping plant proposed herewith will create a circulation through the Fens. Unless something of this sort is done we believe that it is only a question of time when the water in the Fens may give serious trouble.

27. This is an item which has repeatedly come before you. The extension of Commonwealth avenue should be planted with trees. We never have enough money with which to do this.

Yours truly,

ROBERT S. PEABODY,
Chairman.

Referred to the Committee on Finance.

BUILDINGS ON BACK BAY FENS.

Coun. HALE offered the following:
 Whereas, The land occupied by the Back Bay Fens was purchased with the definitely expressed intention of using it solely for park purposes, and only such land acquired as was necessary for carrying out a carefully prepared design; and

Whereas, A vacillating policy in the management of any park is wasteful in the extreme, every change of purpose and design being a hindrance to the natural increase in the value of the park; and

Whereas, The residents of the Back Bay have paid betterments on account of this park, and transactions in abutting lands have been made upon the basis of the continued use of the Fens for park purposes; and

Whereas, It is therefore a grave legal question whether the Legislature has the right to authorize the diversion of this land to other uses without providing for the payment of damages, which would involve litigation and serious delay in the construction of the High School of Commerce and other school buildings; and

Whereas, There is a large amount of vacant land fronting on the Back Bay Fens which may be purchased for school purposes at reasonable prices; therefore be it

Resolved, That the members of the City Council oppose the passage of House Bill No. 573, or other legislation, permitting the erection of schoolhouses in the Back Bay Fens.

Referred to the Executive Committee on motion of Coun. KENNY.

PUBLIC HEARINGS, PLAYGROUND SITE.

Passed.

REPAIR OF STREETS, ROXBURY.

Coun. CURLEY offered an order—That the Commissioner of Public Works be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to cause Rogers avenue, Leon street and Greenleaf street to be placed in proper condition for public travel.

Passed.

INVESTIGATION OF BUILDING DEPARTMENT.

Coun. CURLEY offered an order—That a special committee of three members of the City Council be appointed by the President to investigate the Building Department.

The order was passed.

Later in the session Coun. BALLANTYNE said: Mr. President, I move a reconsideration of the vote whereby Coun. Curley's order was passed, requesting the President to appoint a committee of three to investigate the Building Department. If this motion prevails, I shall ask that the order be referred to the Law Department for their opinion as to the powers of the Council in that direction. There is some question as to the rights of the Council to investigate any of the different departments of the city. If that motion prevails I shall move that reference.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I may say that I have no objection to a motion to reconsider if there is a question as to our rights in the matter. The only thing is that if reconsideration prevails I believe it would be advisable to settle the question, because it has always been customary to appoint committees to investigate, and I doubt whether that section of the statute has been abrogated by the adoption of the present city charter. Is it your idea to have the entire matter referred to the Corporation Counsel?

Coun. BALLANTYNE—Yes.

Reconsideration prevailed, and the matter was referred, on motion of Coun. BALLANTYNE, to the Law Department for an opinion.

Coun. SMITH, for the Committee on Public Lands, submitted the following:

ADDITIONAL EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE REPORTS.

Coun. ATTRIDGE, for the Executive Committee, submitted the following additional executive reports:

(a) Report on the ordinance (referred March 20) to amend section 1 of chapter 9 of the Revised Ordinances of 1910 relative to storekeepers—that no further action is necessary.

Report accepted.
(b) Report on communication from the Mayor, with accompanying communication from the Election Commission relative to new precinct, Ward 20 (referred February 20), that no further action is necessary.

Report accepted.
(c) Report on order (referred last year) for employment of Frederick J. Glenn as assistant to the City Messenger—that said order ought to pass. The order was as follows:

Ordered, That Frederick J. Glenn be and he is hereby employed as an assistant in the City Messenger's office, and that he receive compensation at the rate of $900 per annum, the same to be charged to the appropriation for City Council, Incidental Expenses.

The report was accepted, and the question came on the passage of the order.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I am going to vote against the adoption of that order. It does not seem to me that under all the circumstances the Council should at this time go into that matter. Under the new organization of the city government, with a board of nine, meeting but once a week, I believe that the City Messenger's Department as it is at present constituted is quite sufficient and able to take care of and discharge all the duties of the office. As I have already said in executive session, I think this will be establishing a precedent for other positions to be created. I don't believe this is essential; I do not believe that this additional assistant is needed at this time. The department at the present time is running satisfactorily. No one offers the slightest criticism of it. The work is being performed by the City Messenger and his assistant to the satisfaction of everybody. In view of the fact that we have so few meetings, none at all in the forenoon, and as the Board itself meets but once a week, I think the two gentlemen now looking after that department are sufficient. Therefore I shall vote against the adoption of the order.

Coun. HALE—Mr. President, I think that we ought to amend this order by reducing the amount to $750. I should like to offer that as an amendment, and then I shall vote in favor of the order.

Coun. CURLEY—Mr. President, I would move a further amendment, that the salary paid be $800.

Coun. Curley's amendment, reducing the amount of compensation to $800 a year, was adopted, and the order as amended was passed, Coun. KENNY calling for the yeas and nays, yeas 5, nays 4.

Yeas—Coun. Attridge, Buckley, Curley, Hale, McDonald—5.
Nays—Coun. Ballantyne, Collins, Kenny, Smith—4.

(d) Report on message from the Mayor and order appropriating $800,000 for City Hall annex (referred to-day)—that the order ought to pass.

Coun. ATTRIDGE—Mr. President, on behalf of the Executive Committee I desire to say that the committee referred the communication from the Finance Commission to the Law Department, and that Judge Corbett of the Law Department appeared before the committee and addressed them in reference to one or two legal points connected with the communication from the Finance Commission. The committee, after listening to Judge Corbett, decided to report back that the order ought to pass. I simply make this statement for the purpose of having it upon the records, so that the people of Boston may know that we discussed these matters with the members of the Law Department.

Report accepted, order passed, yeas 9, nays 0.

BIDS FOR WORK ON ANNEX.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, in connection with the vote just taken I desire to offer the following resolution:

Resolved, In the opinion of the City Council the interests of the city require that in the preparation of plans and specifications for the construction of the annex to City Hall that public competition be invited.

The resolution was adopted.

Coun. ATTRIDGE—Mr. President, I move you, sir, that there be an amendment attached to the appropriation for the Department of Public Works, Bridge and Ferry Division, $3,000, for a footbridge over Fort Point channel, Dover Street Bridge.

Coun. Attridge's amendment was adopted, and the question came on the adoption of the Appropriation Bill as amended.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, may I offer another amendment,—that $1,700 be added to the appropriation for the Art Department, for retouching, reframing and rehanging pictures in Faneuil Hall?

Coun. BALLANTYNE—Mr. President, I would move to further amend by making the Art Department appropriation $2,500 instead of $1,500, thereby adding $1,000.

Pres. COLLINS—Does the councilor accept the amendment?

Coun. SMITH—I do.

Coun. Ballantyne's amendment was adopted, and the Appropriation Bill was thus amended, adding $1,000 to the appropriation for Art Department.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, I would further move to amend the order, in connection with the appropriation for water service, that any surplus of revenue necessary to meet any of the above named charges be used towards the reduction of water rates for the following year.

Coun. Smith's amendment was rejected by a rising vote, 3 to 5.

The Appropriation Bill as reported, with the above two amendments, was adopted, yeas 9, nays 0.

AWARDING CONTRACTS FOR ADDITION GIRLS' HIGH SCHOOL.

The Mayor has approved the request of the Board of Schoolhouse Commissioners that they be permitted to invite proposals without public advertising for bids on the work incidental to the proposed additions to the Girls' High School. In making this request the Board stated:

"The Schoolhouse Department have prepared plans for extensive alterations and additions to the Girls' High School on West Newton street. It will be necessary to do all this work during the summer vacation, and it must be finished for the opening of school in September. The Board feels that on account of the short time in which to do this work that it should have permission to pick out the firms to compete, as public competition might result in giving us men not properly equipped to do the work in the short time at their disposal. For these reasons the Board asks your Honor's permission to invite a number of our leading builders to compete for the work, without advertising."

In addition to above permission the Mayor has authorized the Board to include in the contract and specifications an allowance in the sum of $6,500 to cover the estimated cost of the electrical work. It is intended that this work will be bid on later, the lowest bidder to be accepted as a subcontractor by the general contractor on the building.

CONTRACTS FOR SIDEWALKS.

On April 17 the Mayor granted to the Commissioner of Public Works permission to award contracts, without advertising, for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in the streets of the city to Robert Eager, Jr., Michael D. Russo, John Varnerin & Sons, Simpson Brothers Corporation, Warren Brothers and the Lowe Armington Company, the estimated amount for labor and materials to be furnished by the contractor to be over $2,000.

"The contractors who lay artificial stone sidewalks furnish a surety company guaranty bond for maintaining the work for a period of five (5) years to the satisfaction of the Commissioner of Public Works. The amount paid by the city toward the cost of constructing these sidewalks is a fixed one (6 cents per square foot), equal to one-half the cost of a brick sidewalk, which the city assumes as its share of the cost of a new sidewalk. The list submitted for your approval includes all reputable companies known by this department who desires such a contract with the city.

L. K. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works."

PERMISSION TO CONSTRUCT.

L. K. ROURKE,

FINANCE COMMISSION.

BOSTON, April 15, 1911.

HON. JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor:

SIR,—On March 27, 1911, your Honor requested the Finance Commission to investigate the transaction which resulted in the transfer of the land and building of the Museum of Fine Arts in Copley square to an unincorporated association known as the Copley Square Trust, and to report whether "there was any moral or criminal liability on the part of those concerned" in the transaction.

The commission respectfully submits the following report:

The Museum of Fine Arts is a corporation whose property is held for a public purpose and is exempt from taxation. Having made arrangements for the erection of a new Art Museum on another site, the trustees desired to sell the old Art Museum on Copley square and the land on which the building stood, so as to procure money to aid in the erection of the new building. The needs of the Art Museum at this time were very peculiar. Owing to the nature of the large collection in its charge, it could not vacate and deliver its old premises until a new permanent home for its art treasures was provided and their transfer completed without loss and inconvenience to the public,—a task which would take several years to accomplish. At the same time it was necessary for the Museum to realize a part of the value of its old home in cash at once, in order to provide a new home. This created an almost unique situation.

A purchaser, however, was found and a plan devised to meet the situation. The Copley Square Trust was organized for the purpose of acquiring the property of the Museum on Copley square and an agreement was made with the trustees of the Museum for the purchase at a price of $1,800,000. The payments were to be made in installments of $500,000 each on June 20 of the years 1902, 1904 and 1906, and the balance of $300,000 on the date of delivery of possession of the property, the date to be June 20 of the year 1907, or 1908, or 1909, at the option of the trustees of the Museum. The trustees of the Museum were also bound to deliver a deed of the property in escrow to the Old Colony Trust Company upon the payment of the first installment; and the Old Colony Trust Company was to deliver the deed to the Copley Square Trust when the full purchase price was paid, or when, at the option of the trust, it demanded the deed and gave its note for the balance of the purchase money, secured by mortgage of the land, together with a lease to the trustees of the Museum for a term ending at the time fixed for the payment of the last installment, but not earlier than June 20, 1907, in any event.

Under these agreements the property was sold and paid for, and delivery of possession was made to the Copley Square Trust on June 19, 1909, the deed being recorded in the Registry on that date. An installment of $500,000 on the purchase price was paid by the Copley Square Trust to the trustees of the Museum on each of the following dates: June 20, 1902, June 20, 1904, and June 20, 1906, and the balance of the purchase price, $300,000, was paid on June 19, 1909.

Your Honor states that "as a result of this complicated and peculiar transaction no taxes were paid upon the property in the years 1903, 1904, 1905, 1906, 1907, 1908 and 1909, although in the opinion of many persons there had been a complete transfer of title and the property was taxable to the Copley Square Trust." As already stated, the property of the Museum of Fine Arts was exempt from taxation, and consequently no attempt was made by the assessors to tax the Museum on its real estate or on the money paid to it by the Copley Square Trust. The assessors did, for the year beginning May 1, 1909, assess a tax upon the Copley Square Trust for the $1,500,000 which had been paid by the trust to the Museum trustees as installments on the purchase price; and also assessed a tax upon $63,200 of other personal property of the trust on the basis of a statement filed by the Copley Square Trust with the assessors as to the amount of their taxable property. No question was raised as to the validity of the tax on the $63,200, but the Copley Square Trust, believing that the tax on the $1,500,000 paid in installments had been illegally assessed, paid it under protest, later applied to the assessors for an abatement, and upon their refusal brought a suit against the City of Boston in the Superior Court, which court reported the case to the Supreme Judicial Court for the Commonwealth on the pleadings and an agreed statement of facts by the parties.

The Supreme Judicial Court in a decision handed down on April 4, 1911, decided that the tax had been unlawfully assessed upon the money paid in installments, as the title to the money thus paid was in the Museum trustees, and was not money at interest belonging to the trust within the meaning of the statutes. The court said: "We feel constrained to construe the contract as calling for payments in advance, which transferred the title to the money absolutely to the Museum, and made the Museum the owner, not only of the legal title to the real estate by virtue of its deed which had not been delivered, but of the sums of money advanced in payment for it. After making these payments in advance the petitioners had no longer any title to the money paid, nor any claim upon the Museum for it. No debt was created in their favor. Their equitable title was to the land. If they failed to perform their contract, the Museum might hold the money as forfeited, unless it elected to demand specific performance. Under this arrangement the petitioners had no money at interest, within the meaning of the statute, even though a payment was to be made to them in the final settlement which is referred to in the contract as interest. It follows that they were not taxable for the money advanced upon their contract, in part payment for the land, and that they are entitled to an abatement of the tax."

It thus appears from the decision of the Supreme Judicial Court that the Copley Square trustees were correct in assuming that the money paid to the Art Museum Trustees in installments was not properly taxable. If the Copley Square Trustees had believed this money to be taxable they would not have undertaken the purchase of the property unless the Art Museum Trustees agreed to pay the tax. This would have required the Art Museum to pay 5.90 per cent for the use of the money instead of the 4.25 per cent which they actually paid. Thus it appears that it was the Art Museum and not the Copley Square Trust which benefited by keeping the property in non-taxable form.

The Copley Square Trust throughout the entire transaction acted openly and without any attempt at concealment of its purposes. All of the details of the transaction were attended with publicity. Thus it appears that the agreement between the Art Museum Trustees and the Copley Square Trust for the purchase of the property was made on April 22, 1902, and recorded in the Registry of Deeds for Suffolk County on April 25, 1902. (See Book 2821, page 120.) The agreement states in substance that the Museum Trustees are to sell and the Copley Square Trust to buy the property upon the terms which are set out in an agreement of the same date between the same parties, and on file with the Old Colony Trust Company of Boston. The assessors, or any one else having a legitimate interest in the transaction, could have ascertained the terms and conditions of the sale by examining the instrument on file at the Old Colony Trust Company. It also appears that a declaration of trust by the Copley Square Trustees was made on April 22, 1902, and recorded in the Suffolk Registry of Deeds on April 25, 1902, which instrument sets forth the general purposes of the trust, its capital, the value of its shares, the form of its certificates, and other material matters, including two important statements, one, to the effect that the money of the subscribers shall be used to pay to the trustees of the Museum of Fine Arts installments on the purchase price of the property, the other, to the effect that, until the purchase under the contract with the Art Museum Trustees had been completed by the delivery of the deed and possession, the Copley Square Trust should pay dividends to their subscribers at the rate of 4 per cent per annum on the amounts paid in by them. It also appears that the Copley Square Trustees, on April 20, 1902, wrote a letter to the brokers who were to place the certificates of the Trust on the market, stating, among other things, that: "The Museum retains possession of the premises until May 15, 1907, or 1908, or 1909, as decided by it prior to October 1, 1905, and pays interest therefor, which will enable the trustees to pay semi-annually dividends at the rate of 4 per cent per annum on all sums paid in until actual possession is delivered as above." This letter was embodied in a circular which the brokers sent out broadcast in the endeavor to procure subscribers to the trust. From these various documents anyone having an interest in the subject could have procured complete information as to all the essential particulars of the transaction.

The Corporation Counsel of the city, who, because of his connection with the suit brought against the city to recover the taxes paid, is familiar with all the details of the transaction, has stated that if the Copley Square Trust had the legal right to act as they have done, they also had a moral right to do so. The Finance Commission is of the same opinion. It believes that the transaction was not obnoxious either legally or morally, and it therefore answers both of your Honor's questions in the negative.

Respectfully submitted,

THE FINANCE COMMISSION,
by JOHN A. SULLIVAN,
Chairman.

BOSTON, April 20, 1911.

HON. JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor:

SIR,—The commission respectfully calls to your attention certain irregularities in the method of awarding a contract for furnishing and installing gymnastic apparatus in the East Boston gymnasium.

On January 29, 1910, the Bath Department advertised for bids for furnishing and installing gymnastic apparatus in the East Boston gymnasium on Paris street. Bids were received from two concerns, which were opened on February 9, 1910, the bids being as follows:

Narragansett Machine Company, $2,049; Wright & Ditson Company, $2,200.

The then Chairman of the Bath Trustees states that your Honor intimated that you would prefer that local concerns be favored in the award of contracts; but the Bath Trustees, notwithstanding this intimation, awarded the contract to the lowest bidder, the Narragansett Machine Company. The chairman stated also that your Honor later qualified your statement concerning the giving of a preference to a local concern in the award of this particular contract. The contract has never received your Honor's approval, however.

The personnel of the Board of Trustees of the Bath Department was changed later in the year. The chairman resigned on April 26, 1910, and another was elected chairman. He also resigned on July 19, 1910. Meanwhile, other members were appointed to the board in May, June and July of that year, among them the present chairman. One member of the former board was reappointed and the board now consists of five members only,—all appointees of your Honor,—as two vacancies have not been filled. The present chairman stated to the Finance Commission that he had supposed that everything had been done to consummate the contract, until he learned near the middle of February, 1911, that your Honor had not approved it. He then called upon your Honor and left the papers and the next day went again to your Honor's office and received papers with the information that you had not approved the contract. The chairman stated that a few days afterwards he sent a letter to the Narragansett Machine Company as follows:

February 20, 1911.

NARRAGANSETT MACHINE COMPANY.

MR. A. J. THORNLEY,
Providence, R. I.:

MY DEAR SIR,—I remit herewith your certified check for $500, which was deposited with us in connection with the contract for the installation of the gymnastic apparatus at the Paris Street Gymnasium in East Boston. We have decided to readvertise for bids for the installation of the above mentioned items, and trust that you will find it convenient to submit to us an additional bid for items which will be submitted to you within a few days.

I trust this matter does not inconvenience you, and that satisfactory arrangements may be made in the future.

Very truly yours,

RICHARD M. WALSH,
Chairman Bath Trustees.

It will be observed that the lower bidder, having waited for about a year to receive the contract to which it was justly entitled, received instead its certified check for $500, with an intimation that another bid would be expected, but without any disclosure of the reasons for the failure to approve the contract on the original award. The reason for failing to give such information to the successful bidder is that the new Board of Bath Trustees, according to the statement of its chairman, never learned the reasons for your Honor's failure to approve the contract.

Five days after the sending of this letter to the Narragansett Machine Company the Bath Department again advertised for bids for the gymnastic apparatus, and two bids were received as follows:

A. G. Spaulding & Brother, Inc., deliver and erect for $2,086; Wright & Ditson, deliver and erect for $2,075.98.

The Narragansett Machine Company, having lost confidence in the good faith of the city, did not bid. The lower bid in the second competition was $26 higher than the Narragansett Company's bid in the original competition, and the Bath Trustees, therefore, could not award the contract to the lower bidder in the second competition without exposing themselves to criticism. They avoided this by asking the Wright & Ditson Company to scale its second bid down, and the company then made an offer of $1,975, which the Bath Trustees accepted and your Honor approved. This was $74 less than the lower bid in the original competition, and, so far as the records go, they show an apparent saving of $74 to the city. Whether it is an actual saving cannot be determined, however, as the Bath Trustees did not ask the Narragansett Company whether they would scale down their original bid of $2,049. If they had done so they might have received an offer less than $1,975. It is doubtful whether any money has been saved it as a result of this transaction, but if any saving has been accomplished it has been at the expense of the city's reputation for fair dealing with contractors in a public competition. The loss of such a reputation must result in narrowing the field of competition, with an eventual money loss to the city far outweighing any petty saving in a single instance.

Respectfully submitted,

THE FINANCE COMMISSION,

Chairman.

ONE HUNDRED SIXTY MILE CANADIAN CANAL

The Trent Valley canal, Canada, is now open from Orillia to the Trent river, a distance of about 160 miles. The canal, according to a report by Mr. Harry P. Dill, United States consul, was begun before the confederation of Canada and has involved an expenditure, up to 1911, of $7,873,501. The route utilizes nearly twenty lakes and numerous rivers, and when completed will form an inland waterway from the Bay of Quinte, Lake Ontario, to Georgian Bay and the great lakes. The section from Rice lake to Lake Ontario, seventy-one miles, is under contract, at an estimated cost of $6,759,000. It is the most expensive section of the whole canal, and follows the general course of the Trent river. On this section there are to be eighteen locks, with a total fall of 369 feet.

CITY FEARS WATER FAMINE.

Northampton, Mass.—The city of Northampton, which a few years ago thought it had a water supply that would be sufficient for a great many years, finds that notwithstanding the water commissioners have provided a storage capacity of nearly 500,000,000 gallons, in a long drouth, such as that of the past fall and winter, there is great danger of a water famine. Forty years ago, when the first reservoir was built, with a capacity of 100,000 gallons, it was predicted that this would be sufficient to supply the town with water for about 100 years. Engineer Goodhue of the State Board of Health is surveying the surrounding country for the purpose of recommending the most desirable place for a reservoir that will hold about half a billion gallons.

DOVER STREET FOOTBRIDGE.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 14, 1911.
To the City Council:

I have carefully considered the order of your honorable body appropriating the sum of fourteen million five hundred sixty-two thousand six hundred sixty-seven dollars and sixty-two cents ($14,562,667.62) for the city and county for 1911-12 and have reduced this amount by the sum of three thousand dollars ($3,000) by eliminating the item for "Temporary Footbridge, Dover Street," added to the appropriation for the Department of Public Works. While I have expressed a willingness to approve this item I am advised by the Corporation Counsel, in a communication forwarded herewith for your consideration, that a previous recommendation of the Mayor is requisite to the validity of any vote of your honorable body increasing any appropriation from taxes or adding any item to such appropriation.

I desire, therefore, in order to comply with the necessary legal forms, to recommend the passage of the accompanying order, appropriating the sum of three thousand dollars ($3,000) for temporary footbridge, Dover street, to be expended by the Commissioner of Public Works.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Law Department,

Boston, April 13, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, Mayor,
City Hall, Boston:

Dear Sir,—Your letter of the twelfth instant, concerning a vote passed by the City Council increasing certain items of the budget, such items being, "Increase the item for the Art Department of $1,500 to $2,500; under Public Works Department, Bridge and Ferry Division, insert the following item: Temporary footbridge, Dover street, $3,000," was received. You inquire as to whether the approval of the Mayor, required by section 3 of chapter 486 of the Acts of 1909, can be given after the passage of the vote or whether it must precede such passage.

I know of no similar provision in any city charter and can find no decision of any court on the matter. It therefore must be decided by the language of the section itself.

As far as the clause which you quote is concerned, I think that the approval of the Mayor could be given after the passage of the vote. The doubt arises from the language used in the first part of the section which in substance is that all appropriations to be made from taxes, revenues or any source other than loans shall originate with the Mayor who shall submit to the City Council the annual budget and may submit thereafter supplementary budgets.

Taking this section as a whole, I am of opinion that all the items of the annual budget must originate with the Mayor and that the items referred to are not legally a part of the Appropriation Bill and that it would be safer for you to call the attention of the City Council to the fact that all appropriations must originate with the Mayor, that you have no objection to these items, but, in order to remove any doubts as to their legality, recommend that these items be passed by separate vote.

Yours respectfully,

THOMAS M. BABSON,
Corporation Counsel.

Ordered, That the sum of three thousand dollars ($3,000) be added to the appropriation for Dover Street Bridge, to be expended by the Commissioner of Public Works for a temporary footbridge, and that the said amount be raised by taxation upon polls and estates taxable in the City of Boston.

The order was passed, yeas 7, nays 0.

APPROPRIATION FOR MERIDIAN STREET BRIDGE.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 14, 1911.
To the City Council:

For the reasons set forth in the accompanying communications from the Commissioner of Public Works and the Division Engineer of the Bridge and Ferry Division, it seems to me urgently necessary that the appropriation for the reconstruction of the Meridian Street Bridge should be increased by the sum of sixty-three thousand dollars ($63,000), which is the amount needed, according to the estimates made by the city engineers, for the widening of the draw to a width of 100 feet. I recommend therefore the passage of the appended order, which provides this additional sum.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

City of Boston,

Public Works Department,

City Hall, April 14, 1911.

To the Honorable the Mayor:

In connection with the Meridian Street Bridge reconstruction, kindly note attached report of Division Engineer Fay upon the matter.

Inasmuch as the United States engineer insists on a channel one hundred feet in width and will not approve the reconstruction of the bridge with the channel of less width, I would suggest that you recommend the Honorable City Council to provide an increase of $63,000 to the present appropriation, in order to comply with the decision of Colonel Abbot.

Respectfully,

L. K. ROURKE,

Commissioner of Public Works.

City of Boston,

Public Works Department,

Bridge and Ferry Division, April 14, 1911.

Mr. L. K. Rourke,

Commissioner of Public Works:

Dear Sir,—On the occasion of the visit of his Honor the Mayor and City Engineer Jackson to Washington in June, 1910, an understanding was reached between the city authorities and the War Department by which the latter would agree to the city's plan for repairing Meridian Street Bridge by the construction of a new steel draw span in place of the existing wooden draw span and by making necessary repairs to the pile structure, leaving the two waterways at their present width, namely, 59 feet each. It was upon this plan that an appropriation of $125,000, for repairs to this bridge was made available last summer. In compliance with the requests of wharf owners on Chelsea creek above the bridge for a wider channelway, the city later agreed to the widening of each channel by 11 feet, and plans were prepared and bids received on February 28, 1911, for the reconstruction of the bridge with channels 70 feet wide. An understanding having been reached between the Superintendent of Streets and officials of the Boston Elevated Railway Company, by which that company would share in the expense of the work, owing to provision being made on the bridge for its heavy cars, it was possible to provide in the reconstruction for wider channels at extra expense without increasing the city's appropriation.

Since the conference between the city officials and those of the War Department last June the situation has changed, owing to the fact that Congress has made an appropriation for the survey of Chelsea creek with a view to dredging that waterway to a depth of 30 feet. It is practically certain that upon the completion of the surveys this fall Congress will at its next session authorize an appropriation for this dredging, and when the work is carried out, that channel will be available for the largest steamers now entering Boston Harbor. In view of this improvement of Chelsea creek a channelway through the bridge wider than 70 feet seems necessary to properly provide for navigation purposes, and the United States engineer officer in Boston, Colonel Frederic V. Abbot, insists upon the need of a channel at least 100 feet in width and will not approve the reconstruction of the bridge with a channel of less width.

Inasmuch as it is necessary to secure the approval of the War Department for any work that can be done, and as the Secretary of War is likely to be guided in his decision by the recommendations of his local officer in Boston, the city will undoubtedly be forced to accept this decision. At present the draw span of this bridge is in such a dilapidated condition that it is unsafe for street car travel and may at times become unsafe for travel of any kind, and something should be done at once.

The bridge can be reconstructed with a single channel 100 feet in width, provided the present appropriation be increased by the sum of sixty-three thousand dollars ($63,000).

As the projected improvement of Chelsea creek will add to the taxable valuation of East Boston, and as the bridge as thus reconstructed will provide all facilities needed for navigation for years to come, thereby postponing for some years the building of a permanent bridge on this location, it is recommended that this additional appropriation be made.

Respectfully,

FREDERIC H. FAY,

Division Engineer.

Ordered, That the sum of sixty-three thousand dollars ($63,000) be hereby appropriated, to be expended by the Commissioner of Public Works in the reconstruction of the Meridian Street Bridge; and that to meet the said appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized to issue from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

Referred to the Committee on Finance.

EXPENDITURE OF PARKMAN FUND INCOME.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 14, 1911.
To the City Council:

A review of the various improvements made from the income of the Parkman Fund shows that thus far the entire income has been expended for the Aquarium at Marine Park and the Zoological Garden at Franklin Park, the bandstand on the Common, and certain general improvements on the Common and on the Charlesbank. In the meantime various recommendations have been made by civic organizations and city departments, which, if carried out, would consume the revenue from this source for several years to come. Among others I may point out the sum of two hundred thirty thousand dollars ($230,000) which has been requested by the Park Department for the partial completion of the Zoological Garden and the Aquarium before June 1, 1912. The recommendation of the United Improvement Association that the smaller parks of the city receive attention, and the specific request of the Charlestown Improvement Association that a part of the revenue be devoted to work upon the parks in that section of the city.

It is obvious that the time is ripe for a comprehensive plan by which the income of this fund could be laid out for a series of years and the various schemes proposed be brought together in some harmonious relation. With reasonable care in the investments the income from the Parkman endowment will amount to about two million dollars ($2,000,000) in the next decade, or twenty million dollars ($20,000,000) in a century. It would seem that with such an enormous sum assured for a particular purpose, the opportunity to utilize it in a large way and in accordance with some program prepared by competent experts is too inviting to be ignored. I suggest that the Parkman Fund Committee consider the matter from this point of view and devote itself to the task of outlining a plan for the application of the income during the next five or ten years.

Incidentally, I beg to call your attention to the absence in Boston of any institution corresponding to the horticultural buildings which are so attractive a feature of Belle Isle Park in Detroit, the Bronx and Central Parks in New York, and the south and west side parks in Chicago. These buildings are filled the whole year round with flowering plants or herbs and shrubs interesting for their foliage and arranged so as to produce miniature landscape or garden effects, while occasional displays of flowers appropriate to certain seasons correspond to the flower shows which are held from time to time in Boston under private auspices. The pleasure afforded by these floral displays is of the most refined character and they are made a means of instruction to school children and others. I suggest that the Parkman Fund Committee consider the establishment of such a building in one of our larger and more central parks.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Referred to the Committee on Parkman Fund.

TROPHY FOR YACHT RACE.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 14, 1911.
To the City Council:

I have been informed by Mr. B. S. Permar, chairman of the regatta committee of the Boston Yacht Club, that there is considerable doubt whether six yachts will enter for the Boston-Bermuda yacht race to be held this summer. As the condition attached to the order passed by your honorable body at its meeting of March 27, and approved by me, requires that this number should participate it is obvious that there is some danger that the City of Boston trophy cannot be awarded to the winning yacht and the race will thereby lose much of its zest and distinctive character. Mr. Permar assures me that four entries are expected and that this is about the usual number for contests of this exacting nature. I have therefore drafted the accompanying order and recommend its acceptance by your honorable body, with the understanding that unless four yachts actually take part in the race the trophy will not be awarded.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

Ordered, That so much of an order passed at the meeting of the City Council held March 27, and approved by his Honor Mayor Fitzgerald as restricts the number of yachts which must participate in the Boston-Bermuda yacht race before the trophy provided for in that order can be awarded, be rescinded.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

The vote whereby the order was referred to the Executive Committee was reconsidered, on motion of Coun. BALLANTYNE, and the order was passed.

FIRE ESCAPES, PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, April 11, 1911.

To the City Council:

I beg to transmit a communication from the Superintendent of Public Buildings, containing his report upon the need of fire escapes on some of the more important buildings of the city, including the City Hall, Faneuil Hall, and others of considerable historic importance. I would suggest that a committee of your honorable body investigate the conditions in these buildings and make a report which might form the basis of an appropriation order after due consideration and the recommendation which is required by law.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. FITZGERALD, Mayor.

City of Boston,

Office of Public Buildings Department,

Old Court House, March 8, 1911.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Regarding the matter of public buildings, in charge of this department, which are not properly equipped with fire escapes and easy means of egress, I wish to call your attention to some of the most important, which I have personally inspected and some of which I find are in a deplorable condition. It is true that this condition has existed for many years.

The City Hall building has but one main stairway and in case of fire it would be difficult, if not practically impossible, for all employees and others having business in the building to escape. The Building Commissioner (Mr. Everett) and myself have inspected this building and have come to the conclusion that fire escapes must be erected at once, and he has so notified me and given me ten days in which to prepare to carry out the requirements of his department in this matter.

In order to make easy means of access to the fire escapes it will be necessary to cut through several brick partition walls and to support the weight of walls with iron beams, also to rearrange plumbing apparatus, etc., where the same comes in way of such openings. This is necessary in order that escapes may be reached without going into the corridors. I estimate that the amount required for City Hall will be $3,500.

Another very important building which should have immediate attention is the Wayfarers' Lodge on Hawkins street. This building, as you are aware, is of second-class construction, with wood-yard adjoining, and practically no fire escapes. It is three stories high with dormitories on the second and third floors. These dormitories are furnished with sleeping accommodations for about two hundred and fifty people, and I am informed are usually occupied to their full capacity at night.

Fire escapes should be erected on three sides of this building with proper means of access to same. I estimate that the amount required on this building will be about $800.

The Faneuil Hall building has one main stairway up through to the top of building and a small spiral stairway from rear of stage in the lower hall to the street. I think that the lower or main hall could be easily vacated in case of fire, but the quarters on the top floor, which are occupied as an armory by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, must be provided with escapes from rear end of building to the street. This will require the cutting through of brick walls, etc., and I estimate that the cost of same will be about $1,500.

The old City Hall building at City Square, Charlestown, has but one main stairway. The second floor is occupied as a branch of the Public Library and consequently is much frequented by children. Fire escapes should be provided without delay. I estimate cost here to be $350.

The old Cross Street Schoolhouse on Cross street, Charlestown, is a two and one-half story wooden building, occupied by the Colonel F. B. Bogan Camp, Spanish War Veterans, and has no ready means of access. The second floor contains a hall in which, at times, social functions are held and consequently visited by a number of people. I feel that escapes should be provided here and estimate cost to be $150.

The old Armory Building on Winthrop street, Charlestown, occupied on first floor by Fire Department and upper floors formerly used for militia purposes. It is expected that the upper floors may again be occupied, in which case fire escapes will be necessary and I estimate amount required here will be about $475.

The fuel house, on Main street, Charlestown, is occupied on upper floors by the G. A. R. Post No. 149 and with but one stairway. They sometimes hold social functions in these quarters and it would be difficult to escape in case of fire or panic. I feel that proper fire escapes should be provided, to cost about $175.

The conditions at the old Smith Schoolhouse on Joy street, which is occupied by the Robert G. Bell Post No. 134 G. A. R., are practically the same as at the above mentioned building and fire escapes should be provided and will cost about $250.

The Thomas Street Schoolhouse is occupied by Boston Post No. 200 G. A. R., and has but one stairway. On the second floor is a fair sized hall used for socials, meetings, etc. This building should be provided with fire escapes which would cost about $150.

The Westerly Hall building on Centre street, West Roxbury, is a two and one-half story building of wooden construction with but one stairway. The second floor is occupied as a branch of the Public Library and consequently is much visited by children. Proper fire escapes should be provided immediately. I estimate cost on this building to be about $190.

The old town hall, Brighton, is a two and one-half story wooden building with but one stairway. The wardrobe is on the first floor and the second floor is leased to Post No. 92 G. A. R., in which socials are often held. I estimate that cost of providing fire escapes on this building to be $150.

The courthouse in Roxbury district has but one main stairway and should be provided with fire escapes in the rear of building, to cost about $175.

The courthouse in the South Boston district is occupied by court room on first floor, with wardrobe on second floor and upper hall occupied by G. A. R. Post, and has but one stairway. Under these conditions it is absolutely necessary that fire escapes be immediately provided and same will cost in the vicinity of $250.

The courthouse in Dorchester district is a three story brick building with court room on first floor and two upper floors occupied as a branch of the Public Library. The library quarters are much frequented by the residents in this vicinity and the need of fire escapes here is urgent. I estimate the cost of above to be about $350.

In connection with the above work of installation of fire escapes it will be necessary to do considerable carpentry and mason work in providing easy access to same and I am of the opinion that about $1,000 will be required for this purpose.

Consideration has been given to the matter of providing fire escapes on the Old State House building. This building is much frequented by visitors to the city and has but one main stairway, with no means of passing from one end of building to the other without crossing over this stairway. It is possible that fire escapes could be dispensed with here by limiting the number of persons going into the upper floors of the building at any one time.

To recapitulate, I estimate that the amount of additional appropriation required on account of the above will be eighty-six hundred ninety (8,690) dollars for public buildings, general expenses, and seven hundred seventy-five (775) dollars for appropriation for county buildings.

Yours respectfully,
M. J. FISH,
Superintendent of Public Buildings.

Coun. BUCKLEY, for the Committee on Claims, submitted a report on the petition of H. G. Spence and Lizzie C. Hurd (referred last year) for a hearing on claim for damages to estates on Crafts street by change of grade—recommending reference of same to the Board of Street Commissioners.

Report accepted; said reference ordered.

GENERAL RECONSIDERATION.

Coun. BUCKLEY moved reconsideration on all business transacted at the meeting, hoping that the same would not prevail. Lost.

THE NEXT MEETING.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. Chairman, I move that when we adjourn it be to meet subject to the call of the Chair.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, I see no reason for varying the ordinary custom of meeting on Monday. I wondered if Mr. Buckley had any special reason for changing the day or leaving it to the discretion of the Chair?

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, I have no special reason, but if there is not a large amount of business to be transacted there is no necessity for meeting. A few of the members with whom I have talked have thought it was a good idea to omit the meeting on Monday, unless we had to have it. For that reason I made the motion. I had as leave be here Monday myself, but if there is not a big docket I see no necessity for it.

Coun. BALLANTYNE—Mr. President, I was in favor of adjourning over to a week from Monday until I had a talk with the chairman of the Committee on Finance, and found that there were some matters in the hands of the chairman that ought to be acted upon Monday.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Then, Mr. Chairman, I withdraw my motion.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I move that when we adjourn it be to meet at four o'clock on Monday. I think only a short meeting will be required.

Coun. BUCKLEY—Mr. President, if we meet at all on Monday I want to meet at three o'clock. It may seem all right to some members to come here at four, but we met here last week at three and were here till ten. I think we ought to get through our meetings as early as possible, and that we ought to meet at the regular time, three o'clock. I am perfectly willing to be here at three o'clock. Therefore, I would move that when we adjourn it be to meet on Monday next at the regular time, at three o'clock in the afternoon.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, there are but one or two matters coming up on Monday, I understand, and therefore I think those of us who are obliged to be elsewhere might save that extra time by not being brought here at an unnecessarily early hour. Therefore, I hope my motion, that when we adjourn it be to meet on Monday next at four o'clock p. m., will prevail.

Coun. Kenny's motion was lost.

Coun. Buckley's motion, that when the Council adjourn it be to meet on Monday, April 17, at 3 p. m., was carried.

Adjourned, on motion of Coun. BUCKLEY, at 2.34 p. m., to meet on Monday, April 17, at 3 p. m.

Monday, April 17, 1911.

Regular meeting of the City Council, held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, at three o'clock p. m., President COLLINS in the chair. Absent—Coun. Curley.

The Council voted, on motion of Coun. BALLANTYNE, to dispense with the reading of the records of the last two meetings.

POWER OF CITY COUNCIL TO INVESTIGATE.

The following was received:

Law Department,

Boston, April 15, 1911.

To the Honorable City Council,

City Hall, Boston:

Gentlemen.—There have been referred to me two orders offered by members of the City Council, one providing for an investigation of the bids submitted for the reconstruction of the wardrobe in Ward 8, and one providing for an investigation of the Building Department, both investigations to be made by committees of three members of the City Council. I am requested by your honorable body to give my opinion as to the power of the City Council to make such investigations.

In my opinion the City Council has no authority to make such investigations. By chapter 486 of the Acts of 1909 the duty of making such investigations has been taken away from the City Council and given to the Finance Commission by sections 18, 19 and 20 of said chapter. The investigating powers of the City Council under the charter amendments are those given to it by section 7 of the charter amendments. Any action taken under that section must be by the City Council and not by a committee thereof.

Yours respectfully,

THOMAS M. BABSON,
Corporation Counsel.

WORK ON CITY HALL ANNEX.

Coun. KENNY—Mr. President, I desire to rise to a question of personal privilege in connection with the action of the Council on Monday last in appropriating $800,000 for the construction of the City Hall annex. It appears that, notwithstanding the resolutions of the Council which were passed on Monday last to the effect that the Mayor invite competitive bids for the preparation of the architect's plans and specifications, contrary action has been taken by the Mayor's office.

The Council voted at 3.33 p. m., on motion of Coun. McDONALD, to take a recess subject to the call of the Chair.

the construction of sewerage works, under the provisions of chapter 426 of the Acts of 1897, and chapter 204 of the Acts of 1908, and that to meet the said appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized to issue, from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds of the city to said amount.

Coun. SMITH—Mr. President, while I am going to vote for this order, it is on the understanding that we are not taking any attitude as to permanent improvements which can be authorized under loans, but that we are simply putting that question over for discussion and decision for some future time. I have personal opinions on that matter, and I simply abrogate them at this time without deciding the matter at all.

PARK DEVELOPMENT IN THE SOUTHWEST.

The reports of new park improvements are almost bewildering in their number and interest. Redlands, Cal., has just voted enthusiastically to spend $80,000 for park purposes, $10,000 of which will be used for playground equipment. San Diego is going to spend $1,000,000 to improve its 1,400 acres of city park. These sums are to be secured by the sale of bonds, but Houston, Tex., is to have park improvements costing $150,000, to be paid for out of the general revenues without any bond issues.

The park system of Oklahoma City has been increased by a gift from Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Harn of several tracts of land worth $75,000. The most valuable tract, about 700 feet long, to be known as the Alice Harn Park, is to be improved with peristyles and a sunken garden, and will provide a large playground. Later on Mr. Harn will present a suitable fountain.

Two other generous citizens of Oklahoma City, Mr. Edwin F. Sparrow and Mr. Andrew Goodholm, have given land valued at $36,000 for two pleasure grounds almost in the heart of the city. Their accessibility, their abundant shade and natural attractiveness make these two plots of eight and three acres respectively well suited for playgrounds and garden spots.

GENOA HAS FIRST COMFORT STATION OF ITS KIND IN EUROPE.

The only public comfort station of its kind in Europe has recently been opened in Genoa, Italy, in the harbor and business sections, which are quite a distance from the homes of the working people.

The structure is principally of reinforced concrete. All the piping is carried through air chambers between inner and outer walls. The inner walls are enameled and the floors are tiled. Broad stairways of solid marble lead down to the arcade, on one side of which are offices, telephone booths and the reading and writing rooms, on the other side the tub and shower baths, while at the end are barber shops, package rooms and lavatories; the boiler rooms, fans and ventilators are in an extension. The heating is by the hot water system, and electric fans are used to supply fresh air and remove the foul. In ten hours 450 tub baths can be supplied.

MINNEAPOLIS TO HAVE MUNICIPAL ART MUSEUM.

Owing to the energy of the Minneapolis Society of Fine Arts the city is to have an art museum. Ten acres of land in a fine location have been given as a memorial to the first mayor of Minneapolis, and the building fund amounts to more than $400,000. The museum will be more than a mere storehouse of works of art; it will undoubtedly carry on the work of a people's institute as well. The campaign for this object has been a remarkable illustration of careful planning and of the enthusiastic co-operation of all the people.

FIFTEEN MILLION DOLLARS TO FIGHT TUBERCULOSIS.

In 1910 nearly $15,000,000 was spent in the United States for the study and prevention of tuberculosis, an increase of $7,000,000 over the expenditure for 1909. Nearly twice as much public money was spent for this purpose last year as in 1909. The expenditure of public money will be greatly increased next year in Illinois, for Chicago has assumed a special tax to enable her to carry out the first complete city plan for the care of tuberculosis. Rock Island has taken similar action.

MUNICIPAL TAXATION AND CONGESTION.*

MR. CHAIRMAN AND GENTLEMEN,—I thank you very much for the honor you have conferred upon me by asking me to address the New York City Commission on Congestion of Population and this distinguished audience. I shall not give you pretentious advice, but simply state what some of our great German cities are doing in the same field of activity. Practically every big city in every industrial country must face the question of congestion, especially in Germany and in those places in New England where the tenement house exists very generally.

During the whole period of the rapid growth of our German cities we left the whole work of town planning and housing to the activity of private individuals.

We have, of course, in every town a Board of Supervisors, who formerly did nothing more than the title of the board indicates; they did nothing on their own initiative in the field of town planning. The primary reasons for appointing such boards was to secure the community against the dangers of fire and careless house construction. If you look through the innumerable state and municipal laws concerning the housing problem as a whole, you soon will see that these reasons are still in effect to this very day. The law defines the material out of which the house may be constructed, the quantity of light and air which must be provided, the height of the house, the width of the street, the material of the roofs, the slope of the staircases and a multitude of other details too numerous to mention.

What they did not do and perhaps could not do was to cope with the problem of congestion, as it was manifested in overpopulation of given districts of every tenement house and of every room in such house. A speculative movement in real estate bought up and is still buying all the land around the cities and the steadily growing industrial centers, enhanced the value of lands, consequently the rents, and forced a great part of the population as a consequence of this to live under trying conditions.

The overcrowded tenements are the graves of civilization and manhood, of hope and ambition. About in the same proportion as the value of land increased, the expenditure of the community for the prevention of crime, sickness and misery increased.

All this is familiar to you and I have no intention of boring you by repeating trite commonplaces. Let us come to the point: The war against these evils and their causes. There is no patent medicine which we can take to relieve the congestion of population. The problem is a complex one and needs a combination of several remedies.

The often advocated measure of municipalization or nationalization of the land is not to be treated by this committee, because such measures after all could not be the work of one single town; I, therefore, will not discuss it.

What we have to do is in my opinion: First, we must extend the area to be used for housing purposes; second, we must provide for light and air, and for playgrounds and parks in the new quarters; third, we must provide adequate means of transportation for every citizen of the community; fourth, we must make our towns beautiful when we execute such reforms.

Albert Sudekum, member of the Reichstag, before the New York City Commission on Congestion of Population, October, 1910.

We soon realize that the whole problem resolves itself into the question, how can the land be cheapened. For if the land is inexpensive we can build inexpensive houses and spare playgrounds and secure a pretty environment.

You cannot cheapen the land in the heart of the business section of the city—we have no desire to do that—and it would probably be unwise to attempt to cheapen all lands used specially for business and not for housing purposes. But there are quantities of unimproved land, the price of which can be maintained on a reasonable level. That is a question of town planning. We ought not to wait until the private enterprise opens up the block around the suburban districts. The present procedure is for the private enterpriser to bring the town into the country; what we must do, is to bring the country into the town. The municipalities must be given the right not to lay out, but to build the roads and streets, as, for example, the city of Frankfurt is given the right. The municipality ought to be allowed to lay out its roads and highways without regard to the boundaries of private property. What we must overcome is the pure individualistic dogma, that property rights must not be interfered with. May I be permitted to use a simile? To-day I found in the Outlook of this week an article on vaccination and smallpox. An anti-vaccinationist points out in it the similarity. Who is so blind as not to see the truth in this reasoning. Now property rights are not more sacred than personal rights and private property must defer when the needs of the community demand it. The method of compensation is a secondary consideration and may be different in different places.

But the days of roads and highways are gone. Nobody can afford the time necessary to walk to one's business. There must be cheap and efficient means of transportation. In my opinion neither the surface cars, the subway or the L are the most efficient means of transportation; it is pre-eminently the railway connection with the largest number of lines, possibly the state or municipally controlled railway that would be most desirable. As long as the local means of transportation are in the hands of private companies that aim only at profit, there is of course little hopes of achieving this end.

But I told you there are several ways of attacking the evil of congestion, and if under existing conditions one cannot be used the other can. Even a private company will follow in the direction of demand, and if the demand migrates to the suburbs the private company will pursue it. Hence it follows that we must accelerate the extension of our cities.

We can do this by forcing the property owners to improve their land. How can we do that. The answer is: By taxation. In my country, we generally tax unimproved land double the rate on improved land. The property owner may stand it for a time, but he will soon realize that his business requires the improvements. That is to say, he begins to build. And that is the desideratum, for we need more houses for dwelling purposes. Many housing reformers overlook the fact that it is of no social value to expel a horde of tenement inmates from one section and to herd them into another. A simple-minded policeman may be content to adopt such methods, he may believe that the war against congestion is compared to the crusade against the adulteration of food, but the far-seeing statesman ought to use more intelligent tactics. You have no right to destroy one tenement unless you are prepared to open the doors of at least two new and better houses.

Many German towns are beginning to construct houses on their own grounds and at their own expense. For instance, the town of Ulm constructed in eighteen years more than four hundred houses for working people in 1908 alone, forty-eight family houses costing 1,850,000 marks; the same town supports a number of co-operative housing societies; it owns more than two-thirds of the whole area; it is continually buying more land and does not sell a square foot of it. This example of Ulm has been followed by many other towns and is acknowledged to be the best preventative of congestion. But it may be a question if the method can be carried out on a larger scale in our greater cities—our capitals of industry.

Town planning as I described it above is a very expensive undertaking for a municipality. As a consequence the question of how to provide the money arises. There is plenty of money in the world, and all we have to do is to take it from those who can earn it without toil and sweat. This brings me to the taxation of unearned increment. While discussing this question, bear in mind that there is a definite relation between the increase of population and the increase of land values. In Berlin every newly born infant or every immigrant who settles there is estimated to raise the land value about 1,000 marks, and in Greater New York the proportion will probably be about the same. Part of the increase of value should go to the community which creates it. The taxation of unearned increment has a double effect. It checks the speculation on estates values and it affords more money to the municipality over and above the regular assessments. In my country the taxation of unearned increment is so very popular that our imperial government is now trying to have it operate throughout the empire. At least 1,200 large and small places have it already, and the reports show that the results are most satisfactory everywhere. Of course, in Germany it is still in its infancy and the schemes are almost all very tame. It is my opinion there is no reason to restrict this taxation to too small a margin. The higher the margin the better the effect. To sum up, I do not advocate a single remedy for congestion, be it a single tax or another one. I believe that the question is far too complex and baffling to deal with it without the use of different methods.

Where there is a will there is a way. It is a moral crime that our cities, as great and magnificent as they are, should postpone the solution of the crying problem until it has attained to such proportion as to inflict incalculable misery and suffering on future generations. The people will be the happiest and will surpass all others, which first overcome this great difficulty. I can see by the quality of your commission that the far-reaching importance of this question has come home to my American brethren, and for their sake and the common cause of humanity, I wish you every success.

NATIONAL HIGHWAY SYSTEM.

John Brisben Walker, former editor of the Cosmopolitan, is agitating for a system of national highways from the Atlantic to Pacific and from the Gulf to Seattle. He thinks they should be built of cement.

TO WHAT EXTENT DO AUTOMOBILES DESTROY OUR ROADS?*

This question and its immediate sequel, "What shall we do to prevent this destruction?" are the summing up of the most serious problem with which road builders have now to wrestle, and with all the discussions as to "cause" and "remedy" which have taken place in recent years, we cannot yet feel that we are any more than fairly started on the way to a solution of the problems.

In considering the injurious effect of motor traffic on our roads, I shall confine myself to a consideration of what has always been considered out highest type of construction, the broken stone road, as first specified by the eminent French engineer, Tresaguet, in 1775, and later improved upon by Telford and Macadam. The principles involved in their methods of road building really depended upon the wear of traffic for the preservation of their roads. They had to contend only with horse-drawn vehicles, and the dust which was constantly being worn from the stone acted as a filler in the road surface, and under the action of moisture formed a cementing medium between the stones. Therefore in a well constructed macadam road, where the selection of stone was suited to the volume and character of traffic, the fine dust resulting from wear was just sufficient to replace that carried away by wind and water; the action of water caused this remaining dust to re-embed and the surface was thus automatically rebounded. Moreover, the road surface remained practically impervious to water and the foundation was protected.

The advent of the automobile has, however, completely changed conditions, and the seriousness of the problem becomes more impressive when we consider the rapid advance in the production of motor-propelled vehicles. It was estimated that on November 1, 1908, there were in the United States about 150,000 automobiles. The output in 1908 was 55,000 cars, for 1909 about 80,000, and it is anticipated that the close of the current year will have seen a year's production approaching the 200,000 mark. And, whereas the early output went largely to the large centers of wealth and were looked upon as a rich man's latest luxury, we now find the automobile in common use throughout the length and breadth of our country, not a luxury, but a necessary means of daily travel for the business man and the farmer, who is the better enabled to cover his often widely distributed property. It has, therefore, come about that the smallest community is face to face with the problem of meeting the new conditions brought about by these changes in the character of traffic passing over their local highways.

There has been much discussion from time to time as to the reasons for the destructive action of automobile traffic, but I think the series of experiments conducted by the Office of Public Roads has given some most interesting and conclusive results, which, although previously published, will bear repetition in the present instance. A 60-horse-power car stripped for racing and weighing with driver and mechanism about 2,800 pounds, was driven over a stretch of level, broken stone road, first at five miles an hour, with increasing rates of five miles an hour until a speed of sixty miles was attained. The road was a section of government road which had been resurfaced two years previous to the test and was in good condition. Photographers were stationed at a point on the road designated for the proper speed and photographs were taken of the effect produced during the passage of the car. It was evident from a consideration of these photographs that up to fifteen miles an hour little or no effect was produced on the road, and even at twenty miles an hour the observers concluded that no serious damage was done. From twenty miles an hour on, however, the effect was decidedly noticeable with each increase of speed, and the dust is often lifted from the road by the severe shearing stress of the driving wheels which I have compared to the action of a circular saw going through a board. Once lifted from the road, this fine material is subjected to the effect of air currents generated by the car body and subsequently by the wind. Thus, large quantities of the very material that is essential for bonding the road together are rapidly carried away, the wearing stones are soon left bare and loose, and subject to displacement, water finds its way into the body of the road and a general deterioration rapidly sets in. It is therefore evident that the most serious damage to our roads as a result of increased motor traffic is due to the shearing stress of the rear wheels on the road surface when the machine exceeds a speed of twenty miles an hour.

There is another source of injury, which is not so serious, for the reason that it is confined to rather sharp curves and easily overcome. This is the tangential stress or tendency of the car to skid in rapidly rounding a curve, thus shifting the crown of the road tangentially to the gutter. This difficulty may be obviated by raising the outer side of the road.

But while the automobile is continually lifting the valuable binding material from our roads, and causing injury to crops, property values, and even the health of the neighboring communities, it is doing absolutely nothing toward replacing the dust so distributed. The principles of Macadam and his predecessors are set at naught, for whereas the iron-tired, horse-drawn vehicles of other days caused a continual replenishing of dust, the motor-driven car, with its pneumatic tire, is practically without any wearing effect on the road stone. As motor traffic increases, a point is reached where the type of road has to be changed, and this point varies with the volume of horse traffic and the volume and speed of motor traffic, a condition in part brought about by a failure of the motor vehicle to produce sufficient wear on the road surface.

For several years past, highway engineers and chemists have been uniting their efforts in attempts to solve this problem, and, generally speaking, have experimented along two lines, either to add some palliative to the surface of the road, in order to hold the dust, or else to construct the road with the use of some binding material that will hold the stone in place. Water was the original dust layer, but its continual application is costly, especially on long stretches of open highway where facilities are not always at hand for securing water. The addition of hygroscopic salts to the sprinkling water was then tried with the object of having the salt retain the water in the road surface, and in this respect calcium chloride has proven fairly successful, although even this very hygroscopic salt has a tendency to dry out unless the climate is quite humid. The lighter residual oils and tars have been used in holding down the dust with varying success dependent on the quality of the material, its method of application and adaptability to the character of the road in question. And right here it may be said, that while I do not think a fully satisfactory solution of our great problem has been reached, it is an unquestionable fact that a large percentage of the failure to date has been due to the application of inferior materials, deficient in certain well-known necessary characteristics or to the use of good products in conditions to which they are not adapted. There has been a too general acceptance of the fact that any oil or tar is a good dust preventive or road building material, and that whatever the eager salesman guarantees (?) must be good and fulfill all the claims he makes for it.

While results from surface treatment can only be regarded as temporary, lasting, perhaps, in the case of proper oils or tars, throughout a season, more permanent results have been secured through the application of some of the heavier bitumens during construction. These may be applied either by heating and mixing with the upper coarse of stone before spreading, known as the mixing method, or by pouring the hot bitumen into the upper course of stone after it has been shaped, known as the penetration or grouting method. The former is the better way, in that a more uniform distribution of the binder is secured, but the method involves considerable expense, as well as time, especially where a proper plant is not available and the mixing has to be done by hand.

By working along those lines we have certainly bettered conditions and produced a highway better fitted to resist the ravages of modern traffic, but there is much work ahead of us before we can say that we have wholly solved our problem. Automobile production is increasing with rapid strides, the distribution of cars is becoming daily more general, and whereas almost the entire output of cars has until now been largely for passenger transportation, I believe the next ten years will witness a great development in freight transportation. In England large quantities of food are transported to the city of London in trains of cars drawn by traction engines, and these trains return to the farms with supplies. The value and economy of motor transportation for freight in cities has been demonstrated and the economy of building roads over which it can travel in the country will become more and more evident to taxpayers in rural districts. And while there is a tendency on the part of many severely to arraign the automobile for its destructive action on our public highways, they should not lose sight of the other phase of the subject which is worthy of serious thought. The application of mechanical arts to our daily convenience and comfort must necessarily introduce new problems which require long and patient experimenting for their solution, but, when solved, are apt to produce a betterment of conditions that might otherwise not have been reached. So the motor vehicle, while tending to destroy our broken-stone roads, has had an improving influence, not only in the building of many miles of better highways, but in rendering most urgent the study of road improvement and preservation. The dust nuisance antedated the automobile by many years; if our experimental work leads to success it will demonstrate the really beneficial effect to ourselves and posterity that motor traffic has had upon the development of the art of road building.—Municipal Engineering.
